RADICALS LIST ILLS OF U. S. AND HOW TO CURE 'EM

Lack Neither Words Nor Topics.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 11.—[Special.]—For ten hours today the ornate ballroom of the mansion in the lobby [illegible] Carlton hotel echoed declamations of malefactors of great wealth and their malevolent influence by 150 bad radicals of the nation, gathered to tell the world what is wrong with our country and what to do about it.

It was the first day's meeting of the conference of radicals organized by Senators George W. Norris [Rep., Neb.], William E. Borah [Rep., Ida.], and Robert M. La Follette [Rep., Wis.] to give vent to views they would have been able to exploit in the forum of congress but for the failure of their plan to force an extraordinary session.

SENATOR CUTTING.

Tariff as Chief Villain.

In the forenoon meeting it was established to the satisfaction of all present that the principal source of the ills of the body politic is the iniquitous of the Hawley-Smoot tariff act, which was represented as stifling foreign trade and enriching plutocratic manufacturers at the expense of farmers and workingmen.

In the afternoon, under the chairmanship of Senator Borah, it was demonstrated that even if the tariff were a reproach, the country could not hope to recover prosperity until the purchasing power of six million farm families is restored. The pledge of the Republican party to place agriculture on a parity with industry, asserted Borah, looking his grimmest, is still unredeemed, and the farm board experiment a failure.

The tossing that thinning mane, which at his 65 years is scarcely flecked with gray, the great man of the radical group, striking sledge hammer blows with clenched fist at the [illegible] air, prophesied disaster to plutocracy unless it speedily repents its ways. He deplored the inability of congress to stay in session and cure the nation's ills.

After a While the Deluge.

"We have been told," shouted the Idaho senator, "that the business of the country would be disturbed if we should sustain. Let me say to business: I think it is making a mistake. The higher the dam, the greater the impact, the greater the deluge will be when the dam breaks."

At the session tonight, under the chairmanship of Senator Bronson Cutting [Rep., N. M.], millionaire radical, it began to appear that even if the tariff were reformed and the farm problem solved, the country would still be on the brink of disaster because of the decay of representative government. What has happened, according to Mr. Cutting, is that the executive and judicial branches have encroached upon the legislative branch of the government until the Palladium of Liberty on Capitol hill has all but been destroyed.

Power Trust on Block Today.

There will be another day of discussion tomorrow with particular reference to the "power trust" and unemployment and drought relief, after which the conference will be ready to say what's to be done to right our ship in a set of resolutions for the guidance of the next congress.

Radicals from all parts of the country responded to the call. Parlor pinks and reds jostled elbows with veterans of the battlefield of Armageddon. While disclaiming any intention of organizing a third party, they execrated President Hoover and the Republican party and all their works and bewailed the sad state of the Democratic party.

Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, who had been widely warned against spreading his presidential campaign to the "kiss of death" by attending the radical conference, telegraphed that the legislature was keeping him too busy to leave Albany, but said he was in sympathy with the meeting, and called attention to his own claims to radicalism based on his advocacy of public ownership of water power.

Twenty-three thousand, the largest crowd that ever has seen an indoor boxing show anywhere, last night acclaimed the Golden Gloves champions of Chicagoland.

For four hours they roared their approval of the boys who will storm into Madison Square Garden on March 30 to fight the best amateur boxers in New York. Thousands will return to see them battle the champions of France, May 12.

Chicago Stadium, the biggest arena in the world, was packed from the ringside to the topmost row of the highest balcony. The receipts were estimated at $45,000. To this sum is added the proceeds of the sectional contests producing a total in excess of $50,000, all of which will be devoted to charity.

No boxing crowd ever received more for its money. There were sensations enough packed into the entertainment to last the average spectator for a lifetime.

Crowd Handled Smoothly.

For the 32 boys who had earned their way to the final round of a tournament that had attracted 2,000 entries, it was a night of thrills, crashes, and calamities. For sheer brilliance and bitter fighting, dogged refusal to accept defeat, inspiring ability to come from behind, it stands unsurpassed in Chicago's ring history.

While the crowd was the largest the Stadium has accommodated, there was no confusion in getting the fans into or out of the building. This was due, in part, to the fact that thousands arrived early. At 7 o'clock, half an hour before the opening bout, there were 5,000 in their seats. Save for 2,000 general admission tickets every seat had been sold hours in advance of the show. The arena was more than half filled when three world war veterans from the Medill post of the American Legion lifted the Stars and Stripes from the ring to the top of the building. The throng came to its feet and the mammoth Stadium organ struck up the national anthem.

Queue Forms Early.

Still they came, men of wealth and men of lowly station, lawyers, judges, bankers, industrial chiefs. The Golden Gloves had drawn a cosmopolitan gathering. Judging from the complexion of the ringside rows the crowd set a record for female attendance. There were girls to the right and girls to the left, looking joyous in their jewels and multi-colored millinery.

Fans seeking general admission tickets, which were not placed on sale until after the show started, lined up on Madison street at 4 o'clock. Walter Huntsicker, 3337 North Kolmar avenue, who is a timekeeper at the Felt & Tarrant Manufacturing company, was the first in the row. He shivered through a brisk breeze off the lake for nearly four hours before he got his hands on the ducats.

Next in line was Simon Lieberman, who said he was from New York.

"I'm here to see how bad the New York boys are going to trim the Chicagoans at Madison Square Garden," he remarked.

Arcade Wins Team Trophy.

The team trophy, awarded to the club or gymnasium whose fighters scored most points in the finals, was won by the Arcade gymnasium, 325 West Madison street. Five points are awarded for each first place in the championship round, three for second, and one each for third and fourth.

The bout that packed more thrills

THE HERO TAKES A HAND

Pretty Dishes Turn to Booze, Denison Avers

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 11.—[Special.]—Now, dishes leak! That's why, claims former Representative Edward E. Denison of Marion, Ill., he was so surprised when federal prohibition agents, having broken open the trunk that had just been delivered to him in his office at the capitol, Jan. 19, 1929, lifted out sixteen bottles of Spey-Royal Scotch whisky and six bottles of Gilbey's gin.

For the trunk the expressman dumped into the room had started out from Panama, he insists, loaded with a set of pretty dishes for Mrs. John Layne, wife of his secretary. The answer to this miracle of the china that changed to liquor, Mr. Denison maintains, is that somewhere between the New York dock and the house office building somebody switched trunks on him.

United States Has Another Name.

The government has another answer. They don't call it a miracle; they call it a misdemeanor.

Accordingly, this morning, after numerous delays and reconsiderations on the part of the government, Mr. Denison went to trial before Justice Peyton Gordon of the District Supreme court on the charge of violating the prohibition law.

Conviction carries a maximum fine of $500.

Four women and eight men sat in the jury box and saw a series of prohibition agents, called to the stand by United States Prosecutor Irvin Goldstein, finger two squat bottles of Scotch and one thin bottle of gin. It was all that was left of the exhibit.

Rest "Disposed Of."

The rest had been "disposed of," testified William R. Blanford, acting deputy prohibition administrator.

Justice Gordon leaned over the bench to ask the witness:

"What do you mean, disposed of?"

Deputy Branford hunched forward in his chair.

"Simply by removing the cork," he made the appropriate gesture, "and throwing the contents down the toilet in back of my office."

The bailiff rapped down the groans and the laughs.

This question of disposing of a large part of the exhibit and of failure to seal and identify the entire exhibit immediately upon seizure, is one of the squabbles of the trial. The defense counsel, including, by the way, Calvin Coolidge's presidential secretary, Everett Sanders, holds that this very defection from duty on the part of the prohibition boys shows that they believed they would never find the owner of the leaky luggage, would never have a defendant, never have a case.

How Agents Explain It.

But the prohibition agents explain it this way, in the words of Witness J. J. Quinn:

"Well, you see this was kinda dif-

MAYOR WALKER AND HIS REGIME ARE UNDER FIRE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 11.—[Special.]—News fairly sizzled tonight concerning broadening of vice and magistrate court investigations to embrace Tammany Hall from Mayor James J. Walker down to the lowliest street sweeper.

There were numerous indications of an awakening public opinion which will force more extensive inquiries than those now in progress, already involving the police department in the vice ring and the magistrates' court in the sale of justice, and aiming at the ouster of District Attorney Thomas C. T. Crain.

Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt's appointment of Samuel Seabury to investigate laxity in the district attorney's office has acted like a torch. Formal demand was made upon Gov. Roosevelt to widen Mr. Seabury's powers and order a full investigation of Mayor Walker's conduct of office.

Claim One Eye on Aspirations.

Linked with all the day's developments were the presidential fortunes of Gov. Roosevelt, the fate of Mayor Walker and of Tammany Hall, and the attitude of former Gov. Al Smith. It was freely said on all sides that Gov. Roosevelt had one eye on his presidential aspirations when he acceded to the demand for ouster proceedings against Tammany's district attorney, Mr. Crain.

The first reaction has been to stir up feeling against the governor in Tammany Hall—so much so that dispatches from Albany represent the governor as being disposed to leave any city-wide investigation involving Mayor Walker up to the legislature. The Republicans have a one man majority in the legislature, but so far have been unable to put through a resolution for a general inquiry.

Report Mayor Sarcastic.

Meantime Tammany is preparing to fight back, and Mayor Walker, en route to California for his health, is quoted in dispatches from Kansas City as making sarcastic remarks about New York organizations trying to investigate him while he is away. "They can find me in the desert if they want me," the mayor wisecracked.

The figure of Al Smith looms large in the political angles of the situation, but Mr. Smith is leaning backward and saying nothing. The New York Daily News, however, has come out in a double leaded editorial proposing that Al be drafted for mayor and he put in harness to pull the city out of the murk of vice and graft.

Smith's Attitude Unknown.

Mr. Smith is said to hold the opinion that Jimmy Walker has not made the most of his opportunities in the city hall, but neither has the former governor been prominent in Tammany Hall affairs since his defeat in the last presidential race. In the absence of any word from the former governor there is only speculation as to his attitude with regard to the widespread proposals to turn the old town upside down and inside out.

While observers were reaching behind the scenes and looking at some of the larger aspects of the situation details of the day's developments came out thick and fast.

Trade Board Backs Inquiry.

First the New York board of trade informed Gov. Roosevelt during the day that it stood behind the demand for a complete investigation of the Tammany controlled city government.

A copy of a resolution adopted by acclamation at a luncheon of 150 members of the organization calling for "immediate action," was sent to the governor tonight.

Two resolution was introduced by James F. Ree, secretary of the board, which has a membership of more than 800 business men. It pointed out that the publicity given to "allegations of official dishonesty, political corruption, police abuse of power and judicial dereliction," was bound to "lead to social unrest and to increase business and economic instability."

Plan War on Crime.

W. J. L. Banham, president of the board, announced after the luncheon that a committee of citizens from within and without his organization would be formed within a few days to curtail crime and see that the measures taken are carried to a successful conclusion. It would function, he said, in a manner like that of a similar committee in Chicago.

Another outstanding development was the action of the Society for the Prevention of Crime in appealing to the governor and the legislature to give Mr. Seabury full power to make

U. S. Beauty Queen Slays Rich Husband

NICE, France, March 11.—In a room where her two children were sleeping soundly, Mrs. Fred G. Nixon-Nirdlinger, nee Charlotte Nash of St. Louis, tonight shot and killed her husband, a prominent Philadelphia theatrical manager.

The tragedy occurred following a violent quarrel over money matters, Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger said. She declared her husband had tried to strangle her. After the shooting Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger, leaving her husband's body lying on the floor beside the children's bed, who were not awakened by the shot, went to the police station, where she calmly confessed the shooting.

Named Beauty Queen in 1923.

When 18 years old Miss Nash was chosen "Miss St. Louis" to take part in the Atlantic City bathing beauty contest in 1923. Shortly afterward she met Nixon-Nirdlinger and appeared in vaudeville theaters directed by him. She became his third wife on Feb. 3, 1924. Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger is 26 and her husband was 54 years of age.

After their marriage Nixon-Nirdlinger sent his wife to an exclusive girls' finishing school, where she mingled with girls of some of the best American families. In her spare hours at the school a governess instructed her in social amenities. She learned to ride, sing, and play the piano. At last they went abroad. Before long they were quarreling and were divorced. In 1928 they were remarried in Paris.

Owner of Theater String.

Philadelphia, Pa., March 11.—(AP)—Fred G. Nixon-Nirdlinger was widely known in theatrical circles. Recently his interests were chiefly confined to motion picture houses in Philadelphia and Atlantic City, a chain of six in this city being under his control.

His father, the late Samuel S. Nixon-Nirdlinger, was president of the Nixon and Zimmerman company, which at one time controlled theaters in many sections of the United States.

Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger, the former Miss Charlotte Nash and "Miss St. Louis" in the Atlantic City beauty pageant of 1923, is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Nash of St. Louis.

Two children were born to them. One is three and the other two years old.

Nixon-Nirdlinger was married three times. He had two sons by his first wife, Tessie Burke, an actress, who obtained a divorce from him more than 20 years old. His second wife was Laura McKenna, whom he married in 1909.

TREASURER WARNS TAXPAYERS AGAINST FAKE COLLECTORS

County Treasurer McDonough yesterday warned all taxpayers to be on the lookout for men posing as "deputy collectors," who offer credentials purporting to give them the authority to collect the 1929 taxes. Property owners have been swindled of $10,000 in the last few days, the treasurer said, in the belief that they were paying their taxes.

"If any one calls to collect taxes," McDonough said, "notify the police. No collectors are authorized for such a purpose. All taxes, after the bills are mailed out, must be paid direct to the county treasurer in the county building or at substations specified on the tax bill."

The first 1929 bills will not be in the mail before next Wednesday.

HUSBAND ACCUSES HIS DETECTIVE IN DIVORCE CONTEST

A private detective who was hired by a husband to trail his estranged wife was charged yesterday with taking the wife to a north side apartment for the night. The husband, Charles Chobot, 4806 Congress street, testified yesterday in Superior Judge Desort's court. He is contesting the suit of Mrs. Rosa Chobot, 21 years old, to set aside a divorce decree he won a year ago.

Chobot said that the police raided an apartment at 1248 North La Salle street in 1928 and arrested Mrs. Chobot and the detective who had been hired to obtain evidence against her. The couple were found in bed, Chobot said, but he declined to name the detective.

Mrs. Chobot alleges that her husband sent her to Kentucky to live and when she returned to Chicago she discovered that he had divorced her.

THESE PATRONS KEEP 2 TAILORS AT THEIR WORK

It was a comparatively uneventful evening in the Louis Hirsch tailor shop at 19 South Dearborn street until 8 o'clock. Two customers entered then and the manager, Edward W. Pence of 3907 North Kilbourn avenue, and his assistant, Peter Zimmerman, 2935 North Harding avenue, began to show them topcoats.

The patrons, however, interrupted the sales talks by drawing pistols and demanding money. Pence surrendered $75 from the cash register. Then the robbers led him and Zimmerman into a rear room and compelled them to take off their pants. With the money, the two pairs of trousers, and topcoats of their choice, the bandits left.

Unfortunately there were no ready made pants in the shop and Messrs. Pence and Zimmerman had to make up a couple of pairs in a hurry.

Raid Capone's Cotton Club; Burn Into Safe

Federal authorities early this morning raided the Cotton club, Ralph Capone's resort at 5342 West 22d street, Cicero, with a "John Doe" warrant issued for the arrest of an unidentified man who disarmed two dry agents and caused their arrests on March 4. The orchestra was playing and a Negro minstrel show was in progress when the officers entered to serve the warrant.

Burn Way Into Safe.

About 20 guests were at the tables, and plenty of liquor, which was in sight, was hurriedly dumped on the floor. The place was searched from top to bottom and a quantity of liquor was seized. Louis Speilman, 6333 Sheridan road, who said he was manager of the club, was arrested. None of the others in the place were molested.

Speilman was ordered to open a large safe that the raiders believed might contain records of liquor sales or papers that might be used in income tax investigations, but he refused to do it. The agents sent to Chicago for an acetylene torch with which they burned their way into the safe. The papers it contained were brought to the federal building without investigation.

Dry Agents Seized.

The club is under a temporary injunction against dry law violations, issued by Federal Judge Wilkerson. Pending a hearing for a permanent injunction it was permitted to keep open, but a violation of the law would subject it to padlocking.

On March 4 Roy Budd and Daniel Coakley, dry agents, were watching the club for violations when an unidentified man menaced them with a pistol while Jack Karron, a doorman, disarmed them. The Cicero police held the dry agents in custody for a time, despite their credentials. Karron was arrested, but the unidentified man escaped, and it was for him the officers were searching this morning. He was not in the place. Budd and Coakley, two other dry agents, and Deputy Marshals Joseph Spitzirl and Joseph O'Neil composed the raiding party.

MUST WEAN HER BABY SO SHE CAN BE SENT TO JAIL

Los Angeles, Cal., March 11.—[Special.]—Mrs. Mary P. Cude, 22 year old mother, today was ordered by Superior Judge William Doran to wean her nine month old baby in order that she may be prepared to serve a jail sentence. The judge gave the mother until March 25 to appear in his court in readiness for sentence. Mrs. Cude was seeking probation on a charge of forging a check for $75. She pleaded guilty and asserted her husband was in a hospital and she was penniless.

a city-wide investigation and in asking specifically for an investigation of Mayor Walker's conduct of his office.

Assailing Mr. Walker as a "wise-cracking" mayor, the society in a letter sent to Gov. Roosevelt and each member of the legislature listed what was, in effect, a series of charges against the mayor and asked that they be made the subject of investigation.

Letter Is Made Public.

The letter was made public by Howard C. Barber, secretary of the organization, which more than thirty years ago, with the backing of Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst, brought about the famous Lexow investigation.

In substance, the letter, which was couched in general terms, was somewhat similar to the City club's complaint against District Attorney Crain, whose conduct in office Gov. Roosevelt has ordered investigated as a result. It was an indictment charging inaction rather than actual misdoing.

The society pointed out the contrast between Mayor Walker's readiness to move in the board of estimate for the appropriation of $100,000 fees for Max D. Steuer to "defend" former Borough President Maurice Connolly of Queens in the sewer scandal, and as a special assistant district attorney in the Bank of United States investigation, with his "acquiescense in permitting the refusal to pay" assistants of Samuel Seabury in the investigation of magistrates' courts, ordered by the appellate division.

Doubt Mayor's Courage.

Declaring that there are ample laws to prevent corruption and graft, the society expressed doubt that the mayor "dares" to use them to clean up the city.

The letter implied also that when Mayor Walker told social workers recently that the revelations of the Seabury investigation shocked him "more or less," he was speaking with his tongue in his cheek.

The mayor, the police commissioner, and the district attorney for many years have "been unfriendly to those who tried to expose dirty official conditions," the letter charged, asserting that until the appointment of Mr. Seabury as referee in the appellate division inquiry "there was no forum to which the soicety or others could safely go with information of misconduct by officials."

Complaining for Years.

For years, the letter said, the society has been complaining against conditions in Women's court and against members of the so-called vice squad of the police department without "denting officialdom."

Referring to the charges it brought against Patrolmen William C. O'Connor and Christopher Confrey, in 1919, the society charged that had those two officers, who have been accused in the present investigation, been prosecuted then, the situation today might have been averted.

Without mentioning Magistrate Jean Norris by name, the letter referred to the rebuke she administered to the society for its interference in 1919, and criticized the mayor for reappointing her to the bench after he took office.

Resignations Are Cited.

The letter also referred to the resignations of former Police Commissioner George V. McLaughlin after raiding several Tammany clubs for gambling, of the late Commissioner Joseph A. Warren, in the midst of the investigation into the murder of Arnold Rothstein, and of Grover A. Whalen after failure to solve the murder mystery.

The Rothstein case came in for further mention when the society asked rhetorically what the mayor thought when District Attorney Crain, after promising, before election, to solve the case, 15 days after taking office decided that the "shooting was accidental."

Crain Plans to Fight.

That District Attorney Crain does not intend to permit himself to be removed from office without a fight became clear when it was learned that he had asked Samuel Untermyer to be his counsel in defense against the charges. Mr. Untermyer, it was learned, has taken the matter under advisement, but is understood to be willing to accept if he can arrange his legal engagements.

William Jay Schieffelin, chairman of the Citizens' union, made progress in the formation of the proposed committee of 1,000. Dr. Schieffelin announced that the committee would seek to have State Senator Seabury C. Mastick of Westchester county amend his bill to appoint a city investigating committee of nine citizens by providing for the appointment of Mr. Seabury as investigator.

More church support for a city-wide investigation came when the executive committee of the Presbyterian union adopted a resolution supporting the demand of the Congregational Church association and asking the Federation of Churches to speak out against corruption in the name of the united Protestant forces of the city.

Reports that the City club, the prime mover for the ouster of District Attorney Crain, was preparing formal charges against Mayor Walker for transmission to Gov. Roosevelt were denied by Joseph M. Price, chairman of the board of trustees of the club.

GIRL IS KILLED BY AUTO ON HER WAY TO SCHOOL

Frances May, 7 years old, 5516 Jackson boulevard, was fatally injured yesterday when she was struck by an automobile at Jackson boulevard and Lockwood avenue while on her way to school. The driver of the car was Daniel Marinelli, 650 North Spaulding avenue, a chauffeur. He is being held. This death raised the Cook county motor toll for the year to 283.

SEEK TRUE BILLS IN CLOSING OF HAMMOND BANK

Prosecutor Robert G. Estill of Lake county announced last night that he has sufficient evidence to ask at least one and probably two or more indictments in connection with the closing of the First Trust and Savings bank of Hammond. The bank, one of the largest in Northwestern Indiana, closed on Feb. 3.

The grand jury at Crown Point will began an investigation of the case on Monday, Estill said. He said he would confer with receivers of the bank on points upon which criminal action will be based.

"All I can say at this time is that I have been engaged in an inquiry for some time and I am convinced there will be more than one indictment," said the prosecutor. "One prominent Hammond lawyer has been quoted to me as saying that no one will dare to go clear to the bottom of the bank failure and expose the facts. I propose to do so."

Peter W. Meyn is president of the bank and his two sons, Walter and Julius, are officials. The receivers, who were named Feb. 27 by Judge Clyde Cleveland in the Lake county Superior court, are A. Murray Turner and W. C. Belman.

TRAIN KILLS FARMER IN AUTO.

STRANDS OF HAIR IN GIRL'S HAND CLEW IN KILLING

San Diego, Cal., March 11.—(AP)—Two strands of jet black hair clutched in the hand of Virginia Brooks provided police tonight with clews in the widespread search for the degenerate who kidnaped and murdered the 10 year old schoolgirl and then tossed her body on a lonely spot on Camp Kearney mesa, 15 miles north of here.

Late today Captain of Detectives Paul Hayes released Harry M. Wahlstrom, 28, a poultry salesman arrested earlier today as a suspect.

Hayes hinted he was holding an important clew which might lead to speedy apprehension of the killer. Hayes said the man was under surveillance.

Arrested on Charge of "Selling" County Cop Jobs

Charged with posing as a lieutenant of highway police and fleecing victims by promising them police jobs, Harry McDonald, 36 years old, of 2342 West Madison street was arrested last night by Detectives Frank McKenna and Thomas Murphy of the Warren avenue station. McDonald's accusers are Miss Irene McIleney of 2342 West Madison street and J. R. Aderhold and Henry Fidler, both of 2125 West Adams street. Miss McIleney asserted she gave McDonald $25 to procure a police job for her nephew, Robert Easterwood. Aderhold gave $20 and Fidler $35, they said.

DIVORCE COURTS NOW SING "HARD TIMES BLUES"

Lack of Fees and Alimony Cuts Suits 6%.

Dullness marked the Cook county divorce courts during the last five months, in sharp contrast with the brisk activity in the similar period a year ago and that of the peak months two years ago. This was disclosed yesterday in reports compiled by Superior Court Clerk M. S. Szymczak and Circuit Court Clerk Thomas O. Wallace.

The steady downward trend of the divorce graph is attributed by the court clerks to the general depression. Apparently, they said, husbands would rather keep their wives and wives their husbands than spend money at this time on getting parted. Decreases were noted in the number of suits filed, the number of divorces heard, and the number of decrees being withheld pending payments of legal fees.

Show Decrease in Suits.

In the five months beginning Oct. 1, 1930, and ending Feb. 28, 1931, the number of divorce suits filed in the two courts was 4,487, or 6 per cent lessan than the 4,787 cases filed in the five month period ended Feb. 28, 1930. The latter total was an increase of 2.2 per cent over the previous similar period, which in turn had shown a 4.7 per cent increase over the divorce filings in the period ended in 1928.

Monthly statistics on filings of suits in the last two periods are as follows:

October, 1929	1,133	October, 1930	1,028
November, 1929	940	November, 1930	951
December, 1929	743	December, 1930	769
January, 1930	983	January, 1931	883
February, 1930	982	February, 1931	856
Total	4,787	Total	4,487

Circuit Judge Thomas J. Lynch signed 515 decrees in January of 1930 and 503 decrees in February of the same year. In those two months this year his successor, Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude, has averaged slightly more than 400. In the same months in 1930 in the Superior court Judges Joseph Sabath and Charles A. Williams both averaged 513 decrees, while this year Judges John J. Sullivan and Harry A. Lewis are below 400. Court clerks estimate the decrease in decrees at 10 per cent.

Alimony Payments Drop.

Alimony payments are hard hit, the reports reveal. A year ago such payments averaged $14,000 a month. They now average $10,000 a month. Cash settlement divorces have been reduced greatly. In January, 1930, such payments totaled $129,000 in the Superior court. Last January they dropped to $66,000.

The trend has been due largely to lawyers and women, according to the experts. The lawyers have refused to press cases in the absence of retainers and the women despair of getting substantial alimony during the slump. The experts say the work of moralists has been negligible.

Judges point to the number of unsigned decrees in cases where they have heard the evidence and contesting parties are waiting for the judge to sign the papers after he has instructed the lawyers to draw up the decrees. It is estimated that there are 200 such decrees pending. Many divorce actions have been dropped because of the statutory requirement that orders be signed within six months after the case has been heard. Court orders requiring decrees to be signed within 10 days have discouraged filing of actions, judges said.

Lack Money, Judge Believes.

"I do not attribute the decline in divorces to the theory that adversity unites a family," Judge Lewis said. "On the contrary, I believe that it increases family dissension, but they do not have money to bring action. The Superior court is besieged daily by men and women asking how they can get a divorce without money. There is the index of the times."

FINE PHOTOGRAPHER FOR SOLICITING POSES AS NEWSPAPER MAN

Herbert S. Reick, photographer, with a studio at 669 North Michigan avenue, was fined $100 yesterday by Superior Judge Denis E. Sullivan for contempt of court.

Reick was charged with violating an injunction issued in 1927 forbidding him to represent himself as the official photographer for a daily newspaper. Testimony showed that Reick, after making such representation, would take pictures and attempt to sell prints to those he photographed.

Violations of the injunction on Nov. 13, 1930, and on Jan. 26, 1931, were proved to Judge Sullivan.

'THE TRAGEDY OF VIVIAN GORDON,' A STORY OF VICE

Murder, Suicide and Then Insanity Result.

New York, March 11.—[Special.]—As the Seabury inquiry pries deeper into the police "vice racket," with its framing of innocent women as prostitutes, its graft, and corruption, three human tragedies stand out.

On Feb. 26, Vivian Gordon, Titian-haired divorcée, was found strangled to death at the bottom of an embankment in Van Cortlandt park, the Bronx. Five days later her daughter, Benita Bischoff, 17 years old, ended her life in a gas filled room of her home at Audubon, N. J. Eleven days after her brother, Pierre M. Franklin, collapsed mentally and was taken to a straight jacket under heavy guard.

Vivian Gordon was slain because, it is charged, she knew too much about the vice racket; because she volunteered only a few days before her discovery to talk. Benita, her daughter, committed suicide in shame over the disclosures of her mother's past life. Franklin broke under the mental strain over the killing of his sister and the death of his niece.

Background of the Picture.

To visualize the picture, it is necessary to peer into the panorama of the vice racket as portrayed today before Referee Samuel Seabury.

Early last year a quiz was initiated into the operations of the lower courts. It uncovered wholesale graft by vice squad policemen, collected through "framing" women on prostitution charges and collecting money to "fix" the cases.

This is the picture into which Vivian Gordon projected herself on Feb. 7 when she penned this note to Kresel:

"I have some information in connection with a 'frame-up' by a police officer and others which I believe will be of great aid to your committee in its work. I would appreciate an interview at your earliest convenience. Very truly yours, VIVIAN GORDON."

Fate of an Informant.

Three weeks later the body of the would-be informant was discovered at the foot of an embankment. Her neck bore marks of strangulation. Clothes line or perhaps sash cord—the latter a later theory—was the weapon of extermination.

New York was stunned, startled, and 2,000 of the "city's finest" were commanded to solve the crime. At latest reports they hadn't, and private detectives, members of a world-wide agency, were hired to assist.

Vivian Gordon was slain because she knew too much. The manner of her killing was established, but the circumstances remained mysterious. She was strangled in a taxicab, according to one theory, and carried to Van Cortlandt park. She was choked with cord in an apartment, other investigators say, and her body tossed out in the park beside the barren embankment.

Diary Reveals Fear.

The divorcée feared murder. She so wrote in a diary seized by the Seabury-Kresel investigators. Here are several paragraphs:

"I did not start this diary for reasons other than to remind me of dates, but think it's best to put down things as they happen concerning John A. Riddell. He would stoop to anything."

"Feb. 12, 1929.—J. A. R. here—finale between us. If anything happens to me he is to blame—he has henchmen."

"J. A. R. again hinted about my getting killed, and said 'I'd better get my affairs and shirts out of here—if he should be killed they'd look for me.' There is $15,000 in mortgages of mine in his office."

"Riddell said that S. C. (meaning Sam Cohen) had been in to see him within the last week. Sam Cohen is the one who was to have knocked me off last winter—I guess J. A. R. is seeking his services now for that deed. J. A. R. would stoop to anything. J. A. Riddell is the only one who is really an enemy of mine."

"Threat Has Been Made."

"The threat has been made. Sam Cohen, who is a client of J. A. R. in a case, has brought the thugs (two) to J. A. R.'s office—so J. A. R. told me—and he refused to let them do the job. The above information was confided to me in my apartment. His man, according to his after-statement, is supposed to have said, 'We'll take her out somewhere—no one will know what happened to her. Every mark of identification will be missing, especially that ring—meaning that $2,500 ring I wear."

When Miss Gordon's body was found the $2,500 ring was missing. So was a $2,000 mink coat. Also other valuables. Police are seeking them.

Two Seized, Others Questioned.

Detectives promptly seized Radeloff, Miss Gordon's attorney, and Cohen, who is known also as Charles Harris, an ex-convict, and held them in bonds of $50,000 each as material witnesses, despite their claims of innocence. Investigators also quizzed John Bischoff, of Washington, Miss Gordon's former husband, and Andrew McLoughlin, a patrolman assigned to vice duties.

The vice patrolman entered into the inquiry because of the divorcee's plan to tell of her frame-up and because his testimony was instrumental in convicting her in 1923 and having her sentenced to Bedford reformatory. He knew of no reason for her death.

Suicide from Shame.

Sifting the evidence submitted, Referee Seabury asserted bluntly that Miss Gordon was murdered because she knew too much about the police vice racket. Investigators, police—Seabury and private—dug into the past life of the slain woman. They tore it into shreds, and everything that was found reached the ears and eyes of a little, sensitive school girl in Audubon, N. J., where she lived with her father and her kindly stepmother. To her every tale, every word was a stinging reproach. To this was added the taunts of schoolmates. And so, five days after Vivian Gordon was found dead in Van Cortlandt park, the girl Benita Bischoff, walked miserably into her home, sat down, and inscribed a few lines. They read;

"I just can't live any longer. This has gotten to be too much for me. I cannot face the world any longer. I am going to end it all. Every one has been so nice to me, especially mother."

Benita walked into the kitchen, turned on the gas, and sat down to wait. Several hours later her body was found by Mrs. Eunice Bischoff, second wife of Bischoff, to whom Benita had referred as "mother" in her pathetic, farewell.

Then came the third part of the tragedy. Franklin, gibbering, crying, shouting, was seized as he dashed distraught into a hotel corridor. His room was littered with newspaper clippings telling of the life that sent his sister to her death, and led her daughter into a suicide's grave. Franklin had come from Montreal, to lend assistance to officials. He was taken to a hospital, and strapped to a cot.

JURY DECLARES CONVICT DIED OF BLOOD CLOT

A blood clot in the heart caused the death of Joseph Coakley, 24 years old, a convict, last Sunday in a solitary confinement cell at the Joliet penitentiary, according to the verdict of a coroner's jury yesterday.

"We, the jury, from the evidence heard, believe death was in no way due to the punishment the man was undergoing in the solitary cell," the verdict concluded.

LITSINGER GETS DELAY IN FARO SWINDLE INQUIRY

The Sangamon county grand jury investigation into the faro game in which Edward R. Litsinger, member of the Cook county board of review, lost $50,000 he loaned to Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blackledge, was postponed yesterday. The delay was asked by Litsinger, who had been subpoenaed to appear before the grand jury tomorrow to give his account of the Springfield swindle.

Litsinger notified State's Attorney H. E. Fullenwider of Springfield that he has not completed his investigation. Two men, whom he desires to consult, the reviewer said, are out of the city. He requested that the case go over until April.

PANTAGES GIVES BONDS ON LOVE MARKET CHARGE

More Sensational Cases Are Predicted.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 11.—[Special.]—With the arraignment in San Diego court of a nervous and elusive Alexander Pantages today, the swiftly moving inquiry into the Hollywood girl market case swung sharply back to Los Angeles.

Promise of new and even more sensational testimony was made by District Attorney Whelan at San Diego immediately after Pantages, being assured he wouldn't again be forced into jail, had driven across the border from Agua Caliente and raced into the courtroom to obtain release under a $15,000 property bond.

Three distinctly new cases involving men with young girls assertedly supplied by William Jobelmann and his companion, Olive Clark Day, were uncovered today.

Big Party Across Border.

It was stated that one of the cases being run down involves the furnishing of girls by the Day woman and Jobelmann for a big party recently given in a palatial home just below the border. While the fact that the party was given on Mexican soil arouses some doubts as to California jurisdiction, the investigators say the affair was so outrageous that action can be taken on the basis of the procuring of girls from Hollywood and their transportation to the border.

The two other instances of girls supplied to wealthy men involve San Diego men, it was stated. Unusual activity on the part of the Los Angeles district attorney's staff tonight gave further proof that the formal arrest of Pantages has spurred on the investigation immeasurably with the promise of a series of sensations.

Rearrest of Olive Clark Day, who has been hiding since obtaining her release on bail, was expected momentarily. Sheriff Cooper of San Diego sent a formal request for the woman's arrest to Sheriff Traeger, under the San Diego warrants, and local deputies immediately went into conference with District Attorney Fitts on the matter.

Hiding Place Known.

Fitts has confidently stated that the Day woman could be reached without trouble whenever wanted, and intimated he knew where she was hiding. William Jobelmann is still being held in the county jail here in absence of $5,000 bonds, and deputies said he will be served with the San Diego warrants in his cell and not be permitted to gain his liberty for the present.

District Attorney Fitts' men were also awaiting the arrival of Pantages at his mansion on Vermont avenue here. After his arraignment in San Diego court, Pantages drove back to Agua Caliente, announcing he was going to pick up Mrs. Pantages, who has been his companion at the resort, and drive at once to his home here.

Stage Set for Appearance.

Pantages provided San Diego with a thrill early today by making a novel entry into the city from his retreat at Agua Caliente to be arraigned on statutory charges involving Alice Blake, also known as Lydia Nitto.

Early in the morning the showman slipped across the border, but he kept in hiding while an imposing array of legal talent cleared the way for him. First to appear in court was Attorney Earle M. Daniels of Los Angeles. The lawyer approached Justice of the Peace Arthur L. Mundo and arranged for a $15,000 property bond. Guarantors of the bond are H. C. Shreve, brother of Jesse Shreve, who is involved in the case, and J. J. Pycett, a San Diego hotel manager.

This move insured Pantages from the possibility of being thrown into jail for even a brief period. He was notified that all was ready for his personal appearance.

Arraigned at High Speed.

Suddenly the crowd in front of the courthouse saw what appeared to be a football formation approaching. In the lead was P. N. Stephens, the theater man's bookkeeper, running interference and blocking off those who approached. On the dead run behind Stephens was Pantages, holding his coat partly over his head.

Breathless, pale, and betraying great nervousness, Pantages stood before Justice Mundo beside his attorney for the arraignment. This over, he again took to his heels, racing down to the street and along the pavement until he reached his automobile, which had been circling the block around the courthouse.

Although he escaped the ordeal of newspaper interviewers, the showman was unable to dodge a crew of bail bondsmen. They followed his flying heels and three of them were clinging to the running board of his car as it passed all speed regulations in the direction of Agua Caliente.

Above the roar of the motor, the bail bondsmen were explaining to Pantages the superior features of a cash bond as against the property bond his attorney had arranged for.

Previous to Pantages' appearance, John P. Mills, wealthy broker, also surrendered on statutory charges involving the Nitto girl and Helen Livingston. He was arraigned and released on $20,000 bond.

JUGO-SLAVS DIG OUT OF RUINS AS QUAKES KEEP UP

Homes of Rich Hit Hardest in 5 Days of Shocks.

BY ROBERT SWENSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

STRUMITZA, Jugo-Slavia, March 11.—Although the earthquake toll in Jugo-Slavia is definitely established at 35 dead and 60 seriously injured, forty to fifty thousand homeless continue to leave in fear that another catastrophic shock will come to complete the devastation.

This district has withstood five days' continuous bombardment—forty distinct shocks of varying intensity. Hour after hour one hears from time to time a dull roar like a distant battery of artillery going into action and the earth quivers disturbingly under one's feet.

However, a large part of the peasants are taking the matter philosophically and are apparently resigned to living on top of an earthquake for the rest of their lives. Virtually all who still have homes have returned to them.

Confined to Small Area.

The south Serbian earthquake was one of the most extraordinary ever recorded, being of catastrophic intensity but confined to a small triangle of 25 by 30 to 40 miles, with the apex here at Strumitza on the Greek frontier.

More than 2,000 homes were destroyed, whole villages were reduced to jumbled piles of brick and stone.

The reason that the loss of life was not greater was due to the fact that the first few shocks were just severe enough to warn many peasants to flee from their homes before they collapsed.

Homes of Rich Suffer Most.

The houses that were destroyed were the most pretentious brick and stone dwellings of the wealthy Serbs. The humble huts of the Mohammedan and Turk peasants were frequently spared. The superstitious Moslem natives attribute this to their promptness in falling face first in the dust and crying, "Allah! Allah!" while the Christian Slavs contented themselves with crying, "Mary, save us."

Exaggerated figures of the damage sent out during the first few days was due to government censorship.

POLICE SERGEANT ACCUSES WHITE IN PFLAUME KILLING

Tells Jury of Shooting at Roadhouse.

Police Sergeant James E. McBride of Bellwood, whose lips gangland tried to seal by a daring murder attempt last fall, took the witness stand yesterday afternoon in the murder trial of William J. [Three Fingered Jack] White in Judge Joseph Sabath's court.

Sergt. McBride accused White, a public enemy and labor racketeer, of firing the first shot in the Mannheim inn on Dec. 13, 1925, when Policeman Edward Pflaume of Forest Park was slain and Jimmy Johnston, an ex-convict, was fatally wounded. White is on trial for the second time for the murder of Policeman Pflaume.

Sergt. McBride has twice survived the fire from gangster guns, although the jury which is to decide White's fate is not to hear of the most recent attempt. Under the law, the testimony relating to the attempted murder of McBride while he was working for the state's attorney's office to round up witnesses against White is not permissible at this trial.

Face Scarred from Shooting.

The jurors, however, had an opportunity while McBride was a witness to see the scar caused by the last shooting, which covers almost the entire left side of his face.

Judge Sabath by requesting Sergt. McBride to change his position in front of the plat showing the scene of the murder placed the sergeant in such a position that the scarred side of his face was presented to the jurors. Previously the witness' face was somewhat shaded and the scar was hardly noticeable.

The spectators craned their necks for a look at the state's important witness when Assistant State's Attorneys Harry Ditchburne and James Brown called for the bailiffs to bring him to the witness chair from the anteroom where he was kept under guard of a dozen policemen. He was escorted from the courtroom by the same guard.

Points Out Defendant.

McBride, slender and more than six feet tall, seemed not a bit perturbed as he told his story and pointed out White in the courtroom. The defendant watched him constantly.

McBride told of meeting Policemen Pflaume and Jacobson of Forest Park and Charles Jones of Berkeley and starting out in search of an automobile whose occupants had just robbed an ice cream truck driver. He told of how the police sighted White's automobile, the same make automobile as that used in the robbery, in front of the Mannheim inn at Mannheim road and 22d street.

He told how the policemen questioned White over the ownership of the car and finally how the group went out to examine the numbers. During this examination, he testified, he pulled White's hand from his pocket and found the fingers missing from his right hand. He said he instantly recognized him as the man whose description had been given him only a few days before as one of the men wanted for the West McHenry bank robbery. He communicated his discovery to Policeman Pflaume.

Testifies on Shooting.

"We all walked back to the dining room of the inn to get White's coat to take him to the station," testified McBride. "As we entered the room this defendant made a quick turn to the right and as he did that a flash of a fire came from his pocket. I was hit on the right side of the face by a bullet and jumped back into the hallway. The defendant and the other man (Johnston) ran to the door and I raised up my head and fired six shots at them. Johnston fell and this defendant stumbled out over him."

McBride said that Pflaume was standing right beside him when White fired and that Pflaume stepped over him in the hallway and cried that he was shot. He said that six or seven shots were fired in the dining room. He did not say that he saw White shoot Pflaume, although he testified that White started the shooting.

Attorneys Near Blows.

When Attorney W. W. O'Brien, chief defense counsel, started his cross examination of the state's most important witness, he and Prosecutor Ditchburne nearly came to blows. They invited each other out in the hall, but Judge Sabath called a halt. Attorney O'Brien devoted most of his examination to an effort to show that McBride's testimony at the coroner's inquest and at the first trial differed somewhat from what he gave yesterday. White was sentenced to life imprisonment at the first trial, but the Supreme court reversed the finding.

Policeman Jones was the only other important witness of the day. He was called as a court's witness because the prosecution refused to vouch for his credibility. He said he did not know who shot Pflaume and admitted that he himself fired at some object outside, but because of the darkness he did not know at whom he shot.

The prosecution is expected to close its testimony today or Friday morning, it was announced.

RECLUSE SISTERS ARE FOUND DEAD IN APARTMENT

Mrs. Esther Whise, 59 years old, and her sister, Miss Carrie Weil, 62 years old, were found dead yesterday in their flat on the third floor at 5531 Newgard avenue.

Miss Weil apparently had been dead for a month or more and Mrs. Whise, who was the owner of the three flat building, for a much shorter time. Both sisters, in the opinion of the police, died from natural causes.

Discovery of the bodies occurred after William H. Carroll, real estate agent, 1131 Loyola avenue, called to discuss business matters with Mrs. Whise. Unable to get any response from her flat, he called the Rogers Park police, who broke in. Neighbors reported that they had never seen Miss Weil, although she had lived in the same flat for six years. Her sister appeared only at intervals.

Mrs. Whise was formerly the wife of Dr. Melchior Whise, physician at 5319 Bernard street. He divorced her on charges of cruelty, at Reno, Nev., in 1911. Dr. Whise said that the sisters were daughters of Leopold Weil, one of the founders of the leather firm of Weil & Eisendrath.

Wilbur authorized award of the contract for building the dam and power system, to cost finally approximately 109 million, to the Six Companies, Inc.

SEIZE 7 YOUTHS ON CHARGES OF RAVISHING GIRL

Held Prisoner by Gang, She Says.

Paintsville, Ky., March 11.—(AP)—Seven youths were under $1,000 bonds here today charged with an offense against a girl less than 18 years of age, who told police she was abducted, taken to an abandoned mine, ravished, and finally kept prisoner in a country church for two days.

Girl Enters Complaint.

May Stewart, 17, daughter of Samuel Stewart of Van Lear, entered complaint against the youths, all of whom will be given a hearing before Squire Irvin Rice next Monday. They are: Elmer Rice, Pearl Lee Webb, Sam Hyden, Lee De Long, Galen Hall, Howard Hobson, and Jim Hyden. All are between the ages of 17 and 21.

The girl told her parents Elmer Rice met her on the street at Paintsville and asked her to go for a walk. She said they went to an abandoned mine near Auxier, Ky., and there met two or three other youths. Under threat of death she was forced to drink some liquor, the girl said, and soon lost consciousness. When she regained her senses she saw 15 or 16 boys around her, she said. She told officers she remembered being attacked only by the Rice youth.

Captive in Old Church.

She was taken to an old church near Dewey, Ky., where she was found by her brother-in-law, Claude Musick. Musick said the youths threatened to kill him, but fled when he returned with a posse. Police said more arrests would follow.

LEAPS FROM GANG

IRENE RENNHAK.

JUMPS FROM SECOND STORY

Detectives last night arrested Peter Arnos, 21 years old, in his home at 5136 South Halsted street as one of two alleged rapists who attacked Miss Irene Rennhak, 21 years old, 5306 Union avenue, after luring her to a room at 2101 South Western avenue early yesterday on promises of work. Frank Gracious, the other suspect, was seized earlier.

According to Miss Rennhak, she escaped a gang attack by leaping to the ground from a window in her assailants' second floor room as they battered down the door of a small closet in which she had locked herself for protection. Two police dogs bit her severely on the legs when she landed and were prevented from doing further injury by their owner, Ferris Panny, of 2103 Western avenue. Miss Rennhak told police Gracious and Arnos invited her and a friend, May Sullivan, 18 years old, of 5233 South Halsted street, to their room. Four other men later joined them. Gracious, she charged, attacked her, as did a second man. She then escaped by leaping as she held to the ledge of a window.

Arnos, who is also known as George Dallas, admitted certain phases of the young woman's story, but denied committing rape. Police records show he served a year in the Bridewell for gun toting, having been sentenced in April, 1928.

50,000 WOMEN MAUL GANDHI; 20 HURT IN CRUSH

Holy Man All In; Put to Bed with Fever.

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AHMADABAD, India, March 11.—Mahatma Gandhi, the idol of India's millions is a sick man. The holy man is completely exhausted from the stormy welcome he has received from thousands of natives since his arrival here Monday.

In extricating himself from a mob of 150,000 which gathered on the banks of the Sabarmati river to hear him yesterday, his right foot was trampled and a toe injured. Today he was confined to his bed most of the day with a slight fever.

The stormy scenes of yesterday were repeated today, when 50,000 brown skinned women gathered here to hear the mahatma address them at a special meeting, despite his illness. They strove so hard to catch his words that hundreds were crushed in the melée. About twenty were injured, two so seriously that they are not expected to live. The holy man was badly pummelled again as he tried to make his way through the raging mass of half crazed women.

Women Piled Into a Mass.

One of the women not expected to live is Mrs. Mulcand Shah, wife of a leading lawyer in Ahmadabad and sister of a prominent high court judge. She was caught with 25 others who were swept off their feet by the milling mob and trampled underfoot. The sight was ghastly. The slender little women, in their saris, were piled on each other several deep as two currents of yelling women crushed them at both sides. There was no escape until congress volunteers and police fought their way into the mass of heaped up women and extricated them one by one.

It was a scorching hot day and scores of women dropped from sunstroke. They were cared for by the Red Cross station.

Indoor Meeting Called Off.

Gandhi was to have addressed the women in the local vegetable market, a huge covered square, but with 20,000 packed inside so tightly that they were gasping, and 30,000 more outside clamoring to get in, the confusion was so great that he could not speak. After attempting a few words he gave up and was escorted out of the place by a squad of husky volunteers. The riot ensued when he tried to address the women from an outdoor platform.

Despite his poor health, Gandhi tonight refused the advice of friends to remain in bed and take it easy for a few days. He replied that he cannot put off his strenuous program of touring villages of the Kaira and Surat districts, where, he said, he must advise the rebel peasants to pay up their taxes in accordance with the truce he agreed to with Viceroy Lord Irwin.

His tour will wind up at Dandi, where he ended his famous march to the sea to make salt a year ago. He announced today that he will scoop up a few handfuls of salt there as a symbol of freedom from the "wicked and satanic" salt law. He will go to Bombay on March 16, from where he will return to New Delhi to confer with the Indian princes.

Gandhi tonight welcomed the decision of the British Conservative party not to participate in the next round table conference to be held in India.

"I welcome Stanley Baldwin's statement," he declared. "It will enable the All-India national congress to understand the forces which may be arrayed against it. The congress' position is unequivocal and exceedingly simple. The congress is pledged to win complete independence at the earliest possible moment. Therefore, I look with suspicion on any dilatory tactics.

"Mr. Baldwin's statement does not come as a surprise to me. The Conservatives' fear about the so-called safeguards are justified. The congress will accept no safeguards which are not clearly proven to be in the interest of India. And those which were discussed in London were certainly not in India's interest.

"On questions of vital importance to India, equivocation would be a dangerous pastime. If the congress is represented at the round table conference, it will go there with the cleanest conscience and with all of its cards laid on the table."

Gandhi Stiffens Attitude.

From numerous talks with Gandhi during the last few days I gather that he is stiffening in his attitude since he drew up the provisional truce with Viceroy Lord Irwin last week.

Since arriving here, where the civil disobedience movement started just a year ago tomorrow, he has learned that none, from mill owners to workers and peasants, is pleased with his peace settlement. It is the opinion of observers that unless at the coming conference he can deliver to the natives the substance of independence, including control of India's finances by Indians and a very limited transition period for control of the army and foreign affairs by Britain, he will have to launch another civil disobedience movement or lose his powerful hold over the country.

It is no secret here that the powerful national congress organization, with 30,000 members, released from prison added to the ranks, is using the truce period to perfect its already efficient organization for a renewal of the revolution. This revolution everybody, including Gandhi, seems to believe will be launched again, because none think that the British will hand over the government on a platter at the forthcoming conference.

New Parley Delayed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 11.—The next round table conference on India is not likely to reconvene in India, and it is not likely to reassemble in London before April, 1932. This is the result of negotiations which have been going on for the last few weeks between the leaders of the English political parties and the leaders of Indian politics.

Stanley Baldwin's announcement two nights ago that the Conservatives would refuse to participate in a round table conference "in India now" was a clumsy method of acquainting the public with the procedure which was agreed upon over a week ago.

The present plan is to send a small delegation of British experts to India to collect information. The viceroy will then appoint a number of committees from members of the late London conference, with all-Indian congress representatives added, who will work in India. It is hoped they will complete their work before winter is over. It is felt unfair to bring the Indians to London again in wintertime, and therefore it is likely that the conference will be postponed until April of next year, when the British climate is kinder.

FORECAST APRIL TRIAL FOR ONE OF KIRKLAND'S PALS

Stanford's Lawyer Works on Defense Plans.

BY WALTER FITZMAURICE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Valparaiso, Ind., March 11.—[Special.]—With Virgil Kirkland under sentence for the murder of his sweetheart, Arlene Draves, public attention turned today to the case of one of his four co-defendants, Leon Stanford. Kirkland and Stanford are confined in the same cell block in the Porter county jail here, the latter awaiting trial.

While the convicted youth's lawyers were preparing a motion for a new trial, to be argued next Monday before Judge Grant Crumpacker, Stanford's counsel, Robert H. Moore and Harry Long of Gary, spent the day perfecting plans for his defense. Although Mr. Moore announced he would demand a speedy trial, it was considered unlikely that Judge Crumpacker would permit the case to be heard before April 27, when a new court term begins.

Stanford and three other Gary youths, Paul Barton, Henry Shirk and David Thompson, are accused of equal guilt with Kirkland in the rape and murder of Arlene during a Gary liquor party last Nov. 29.—All stand in peril of the electric chair, a fate which Kirkland escaped by verdict of a farmer jury, returned in Porter county court last night.

Say Only One Can Be Guilty.

Attorneys Moore and Long, citing the fact that Kirkland was convicted of murder by assault instead of murder by rape, indicated they would argue that circumstance in the impending trials as proof that none of their clients can be considered guilty of murder.

Each of the four young men has been granted a separate trial. It is Mr. Moore's hope, he said, that Stanford, the sole support of his mother prior to his arrest, would be brought to trial first. The decision remains with Prosecutor John Underwood.

Conversely, the Gary lawyer criticized the prosecutor for his handling of the Kirkland case and hinted that the state might have suppressed or distorted some of the evidence against the convicted youth to strengthen the case against his co-defendants. Specifically, Mr. Moore mentioned a missing golf club and a dispute about the composition of the concrete floor on which Arlene fell.

Lawyer Criticizes Prosecutor.

"The state prosecuted Kirkland on the theory that he struck Arlene on the jaw, causing her to pitch forward on a concrete floor and suffer a fatal blow on the head," Mr. Moore averred. "Of course there was also evidence of rape, but the jury disregarded it in their verdict.

"I talked to several of the jurors afterwards, myself," Mr. Moore went on, "and they told me they believed the fall killed her. I am wondering if the prosecutor will now abandon the theory of the fatal blow and advance another that will better fit the case against these four boys."

His defense, Mr. Moore said, would be that since none of the four clients was on the porch when Kirkland struck the blow, they therefore contributed in no way to Arlene's death.

Kirkland Verdict Approved.

In both Valparaiso and Gary the verdict against Kirkland received general approval.

The young defendant, who was haggard last night when the jury brought their verdict into the dimly lit courtroom, was jaunty as ever this morning. Kirkland had been in dread that the jury would send him to the chair.

Returning, pale faced and grim, to the jail after the reading of the verdict, he was commiserated by his fellow prisoner, Stanford. Slapping Kirkland on the shoulder, Stanford told the convicted youth he had received "a tough break."

"It might have been worse," Kirkland answered. "I might have been sent to the chair."

Beckley, W. Va., March 11.—(AP)—At another time and place Ben Malden, 22, might have got a medal and lots of commendation for his feat, but this time the circumstances weren't proper, and so he got instead a ten year sentence in the penitentiary. Ben was convicted of stealing, singlehanded, a 600 pound safe.

U. S. Approves Plans for New Halsted St. Bridge

Plans for a new river bridge in South Halsted street have been approved by the war department, according to dispatches from Washington yesterday. A bond issue of $2,700,000 for the construction of the bridge, to take the place of the old one, was adopted at the November election last year.

CERMAK LEADS REPEAL FORCES IN LEGISLATURE

Senate Committee Delays Action for Week.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 11.—[Special.]—Action on repeal of the Illinois prohibition law was postponed for one week by the senate committee on license tonight following a three hours' debate between liberals and drys before a packed chamber. "Senatorial courtesy" led to the delay, some of the members being absent on assurances that no vote would be taken today.

A. J. Cermak, Democratic nominee for mayor of Chicago, presented the leading argument for the liberals in an address that was read by T. E. Dunne of the crusaders, on behalf of his organization, the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, and the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform. Mr. Cermak, who had to return to Chicago on an early train, besought the senate to follow the popular mandate expressed at the November polls against prohibition, and to "prepare Illinois for a better era."

Referendum "Not Binding."

Dry speakers, marshaled by the Rev. George B. Safford, head of the Illinois Anti-Saloon league, argued that the referendum had no binding effect. They argued the mandate is not a mandate, but "merely public opinion expressed in the mass." Liberals retorted with a question as to the rights of majorities in representative government and Senator James O. Monroe [Dem., Collinsville] shot the question at the drys: "If the November referendum had gone dry wouldn't you have held it O. K. as a mandate under the old dictum, 'The voice of the people is the voice of God'?"

While the drys were inveighing against the force of the November wet referendum with one lung, with the other they were talking of plans to put a referendum clause in the repealer, and in case it passes place it before the voters in 1932. This led the liberals to declaim that prohibition has already had several referenda in Illinois and another one would be more than superfluous.

Debate Waxes Warm.

The debate, which perhaps did not change a single vote among the senators, was one of the most intense in the chamber in years, and it was listened to by house members who sat in the aisles and on the sidelines. There were several amusing interludes that rocked the hall with laughter in which both camps joined. For example, after Prof. Andrew S. Bruce of Northwestern university had finished his dry speech, Senator Joseph Mendal [Dem., Chicago] shot in this question:

"Do you ever take a drink, professor?"

"No. I do not, now," said Mr. Bruce. "I am a Scotchman, though, and I have drank. As I say, I'm Scotch. But I don't now."

"Was it on account of the price?" asked Senator Edward P. O'Grady [Dem.], the blacksmith member from the near north side of Chicago.

Two bills are before the committee—the O'Grady repealer, which was passed by the house, 91 to 56, and the McDermott repealer, a senate bill. The hearing was by the license committee, of which Senator Victor P. Michel [Rep., Peoria] is chairman.

"It is not necessary for me to recall to you gentlemen," declared Mr. Cermak in his address, "that the people who elected you—that is the majority of you—gave you instructions in an unmistakable manner on Nov. 4, when they elected United States Senator James Hamilton Lewis from Illinois and on top of that, by their vote on the public policy question, told you to repeal the Illinois prohibition laws.

"I do not know how many of you men have taken the trouble to peruse the Wickersham report—but Illinois has always been in the vanguard of every call that has ever come for the benefit of our national achievement.

"There is a great achievement on the horizon—it is the killing of legislation that seeks to control the personal, sane habits of men and women, and I, for one, feel that when the roll is called in this honorably body of lawmakers of Illinois, notice will be sent to Washington that we are ready for the change that is coming, that will help the farmer, the merchant, the laborer, the clerk, the rank and file of those who benefit by industry, which grows out of the acts of men who are endowed with personal liberty—that liberty which permits a man to eat or drink as he pleases with the light of day shining upon him, and not behind foggy windows, or in hidden rooms, which we call 'speakeasies' today.

"And there's one other thought. The boys and girls of Illinois are entitled to emancipation from the influence of the 'hip flask,' which has written a terrible page in Indiana history in the Kirkland trial.

Urges Legislative Action.

"It is up to you men. You are the ones who can send an important message to Washington. You are the ones who can serve notice on criminals and rumrunners. You are the men who can prepare Illinois for a better era, by carrying out the instruction of the people of this state as registered last November."

Mr. Cermak recited some of the well known phenomena attendant upon prohibition, one that the Volstead act is "a bonus" to bootleggers.

"The Anti-Saloon league," he said, "told you that with prohibition as law there would be no more need for jails, poor houses, alms houses, insane asylums and that everything would be heavenly.

"Fooled by Propaganda."

"They fooled you in their propaganda. We have had to float bond issues to build new jails, we have had to build new additions to the county hospitals, increase the size of the penitentiary, and today in our poorhouses and insane asylums the inmates are sleeping in the corridors. The deaths due to alcohol have steadily increased, the number of drunken drivers arrested has increased, and the reason for it all is, the prohibition law has offered a bonus to the man who will take a chance in evading the law.

"When you realize that a lawbreaker with $1,200 can embark in the business of illicit manufacture of gin, bourbon or rye and become a millionaire you have the real story of the lure of prohibition.

"We have come to a turn in the road. It takes quite some time to arouse the American public. They are aroused. They know they have been fooled. They know that they are paying in taxes for the revenues that were taken away from the government, the states, and the counties and cities, and for what?

"To make men of wealth and influence out of hoodlums. To try to enforce a law that even the federal officials who are charged with its enforcement admit cannot be enforced."

An appeal for the repealer in the name of 250,000 members of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform was made by Mrs. George E. Brennan of Chicago.

"We are nonpartisan and nonsectarian, an independent group of women from every state, called into being by the failure of prohibition," said Mrs. Brennan.

"We are gravely concerned over the loss of respect for all law, with the increase in drinking, especially among the young people, who can secure liquor without any difficulty in the thousands of speakeasies which afflict ou. land.

"We are concerned with the fact that since the coming of prohibition there has been a complete cessation of all temperance work."

For the drys, the idea there is more drinking among young people now was called a falsehood by Mrs. William H. Gourley, head of the Lake County Federation of Women's Clubs.

"There never was a finer, cleaner, better thinking type of young people than we have today," Mrs. Gourley said. "Eighty-five per cent are law-abiding, and ninety-five per cent would be if their fathers and mothers were. I beg of you to be fair to the youth of America."

There were several other speakers, among them Mrs. Margaret Munns, treasurer of the W. C. T. U., and the Rev. M. P. Boynton, D. D., for 35 years pastor of the Woodlawn Baptist church in Chicago, an Anti-Saloon league official.

Would Trust "Lawmakers."

"The initiative and referendum seeking to directly legislate is repugnant to the theory of the republic," said Dr. Boynton. "Highly skilled men and women elected to office by the democracy may be trusted, and in this legislative branch must be free to do what they believe to be for the best interests of the democracy."

"Well," interjected Senator Monroe, "it seems that if the November referendum had gone dry it would have been all right and a mandate, but because it went wet the drys claim it is all wrong. It all depends on whose ox is gored."

W.C.T.U. Leader Comes Out for Cermak Against Mayor

MRS. EDITH W. BORN.

Mrs. Edith W. Born, 4746 Greenwood avenue, president of the South Side Woman's Christian Temperance union, yesterday announced her active support of Anton J. Cermak, Democratic nominee for mayor.

"I know I can get the South Side W. C. T. U. to support him," she said. "I supported Judge Lyle in the primary and so did members of the South Side W. C. T. U.

"I have always endorsed prohibition and I still adhere to my theory that the best interests of the people as a whole can best be fostered by a dry nation. Wherever the issues are clearly drawn as wet and dry, I shall always be on the dry side, although I wish that the question of prohibition could be eliminated as an issue from all political campaigns.

"It is not an issue in the mayoralty campaign, because both nominees are wet. That gives us a chance to vote for the man best fitted for office. A new broom sweeps clean, and no one has accused Mr. Cermak of being absent from his office nine tenths of the time. Let us buy with our votes a new broom, one that will always be on the job in the hands of Mr. Cermak."

Mrs. Born, who before the death of her first husband was Mrs. Edith Willmans, was a lawyer in Dallas, Tex., for twelve years, and the first woman legislator in Texas. As such, she ran against "Ma" Ferguson for the gubernatorial election both in 1926 and 1928.

Her platform as a candidate for the legislature supported measures which would necessitate a doctor's certificate asserting fitness before any one could obtain a marriage license, and in which issuing of a marriage license would be preceded by a five days' notice of intention to marry. Later the so-called "eugenics bill" caused a storm in the legislature, she said, the house passing it but the senate defeating the measure.

When interviewed yesterday Mrs. Born was to offer her services as a speaker to the woman's independent committee for Mr. Cermak, whose organization was announced recently by Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank. The committee's headquarters are in the Hotel La Salle.

3 LYLE CHIEFS BACK CERMAK; WAR ON MAYOR

Whole Organization Out for Democrat.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Three division chiefs of Judge Lyle's primary headquarters declared yesterday for A. J. Cermak, Democratic candidate for mayor. They said their war against Thompson is still in progress and predicted a steady flow of Lyle strength into the Cermak camp.

Early in the day E. F. Mansure, chairman of the citizens' committee which supported Lyle, who, it was said, had been approached by Thompson with a plea to swing over to the city hall, announced that he had determined to go ahead along the lines he had followed in the primary. A little later Judson F. Going, former municipal judge, who had charge of the fraternal organization bureau for Lyle, made a similar statement.

Quilici Swings to Cermak.

Then George L. Quilici, Lyle's former law partner, an aggressive young Italian-American leader who was in charge of the Lyle volunteer workers during the primary campaign, became an emphatic third in a renewed demand for the elimination of Thompson from Chicago politics.

All three referred to their understanding of Judge Lyle's position, but the recent candidate himself continued the silence he has observed for the last two weeks.

However, it has been noticed that for several days small groups of Lyle workers have been hooking up with the Democrats supporting Cermak, either at the downtown headquarters or out in the wards. These same workers made every effort to get out all the unregistered anti-Thompson vote on Tuesday and are given credit for some of the unexpectedly large enrollment of 126,065 for the day, which carried the city total to a new record of 1,465,392.

Whole Organization to Cermak.

It is now expected that almost all the rank and file of the Lyle organization and a large part of the Deneen organization will be with Cermak before April 7.

The exceptions omitted from such predictions have been the regular Republican ward committeemen and the factional leaders who backed the two anti-Thompson candidates. They feel that they are compelled to remain "regular" even if that means nothing more than refusing to follow their natural inclinations and costs them no more than silence during the campaign.

As an example of the situation, it was noted with interest that when George F. Harding returned to Chicago from Havana yesterday he declined to discuss politics, but friends who talked with him were prompt in denying reports that he would become chairman of the Thompson campaign fund committee or take any other active part in the Thompson campaign. Rumors that he would act as campaign treasurer had been spread by the Thompson people.

Galpin Only Headliner.

This leaves Thompson with Homer K. Galpin as his only headquarters headliner. So far, it is reported, Galpin has been able to "do business" with only two ward committeemen who were listed as anti-Thompson in the primary. They are Eden T. Brekke of the Thirty-seventh ward and and his follower, Frank M. Kalteux of the Thirty-ninth. There was some doubt about their exact political whereabouts on Feb. 24, but it is said they now are with Galpin and Thompson.

Chairman Mansure of the Lyle citizens' committee refused to confirm or deny the report that Thompson personally solicited his support recently, but he discussed his attitude in the election.

"Following talks with Judge Lyle and others who supported him," he said, "I am satisfied that his thought and program will be followed by a substantial portion of us who were with him. I have no doubt that Cermak will be the next mayor of Chicago, and Judge Lyle feels the same way."

Former Judge Going said that the fight for the principles laid down in the Lyle platform had "just begun."

"I am not speaking for Judge Lyle," he said, "but I think I reflect his attitude and the platform on which the Republican party will reassert itself.

"The first step of vital importance is to eliminate Thompson at this time. It will show the world Chicago is self-sustaining. I am sure that, one by one, the various ward groups that supported Judge Lyle will be lined up against Thompson in the coming election."

Attorney Quilici said that the appearance of Thompson's name in the Republican column on April 7 is regarded as a tragedy by "intelligent Republicans" in Chicago and elsewhere.

"The Republican party," he said, "must purge itself of this incubus that has besmirched and betrayed Republicanism. 'Thompson must go!' will continue to be the watchword of every Republican proud of his party and interested in the welfare of Chicago and its citizens.

"Judge Lyle has accepted the result of the primary with sportsmanship and without complaint, even though, to the politically sagacious, there are features of it that smack of corruption. It is difficult for the student of politics to accept as authentic the primary results as reported from dozens of precincts in the colored and river wards, where Thompson was given 300 or 400 votes and Judge Lyle only two or three and in some instances none.

"Today Judge Lyle stands at the head of a group of Republicans who still feel that gangsters and city government must be divorced, that the Republican party must be reorganized on the basis of honesty and efficiency. When Thompson is eliminated Republicanism in Chicago can be revived and reorganized under leaders faithful to party, civic obligations and clean principles."

Cermak headquarters announced that representatives of 100 of the most influential trade unions of the city will meet tomorrow afternoon to organize the Cermak Union Labor club. Martin Durkin, vice president of the Chicago Building Trades council, and James D. Ryan of the Sheet Metal Workers' union will act as temporary officers of the club.

The Chicago Truck Drivers' and Chauffeurs' union, it was announced, has already lined up with Cermak. Michael Galvin, business agent, is arranging a meeting for the 6,500 members of the union.

Support of the street car men's union is said to have been promised by Joseph Kehoe and William Taber, both officials of division 241. Other union officials interested in the Cermak movement are Arthur Wallace of the painters, William Rooney of the sheet metal workers, Edward Ryan of the architectural iron workers, William Maloney of the stationary engineers, and Thomas Cregan of the machinery workers.

The Cermak independent women's committee announced that Mrs. Marcus A. Hirschl, a Republican, will head a committee of 100 that will have charge of ward organization work in the campaign.

Leopold Neumann, director of the German-American division for Cermak, announced the appointment of a women's committee including Mrs. Cecelia Bande, Mrs. Mary Eidler, Mrs. Elisabeth Kautz, Miss Charlotte Slavit, and Mrs. Bertha Siemon. The headquarters is at 139 North Clark street.

vania, who is a radical and the choice of many of the group for President, also sent his regrets at being detained at Harrisburg. Regrets were also received from the other invited governors, Phil La Follette of Wisconsin, Olson of Minnesota, and Meier of Oregon.

There was no more interested listener in the meetings than the only conservative there, the only railroad president who had been invited—Fred W. Sargent of Chicago, president of the North Western railroad. Mr. Sargent is a close personal friend of Phil La Follette, but it was said he was invited at the instance of the director of the Brookings institute.

"I don't know why I was invited; in fact, I have been wondering," said Mr. Sargent, "but I came eagerly, for I am reaching out in every direction for some suggestion helpful to the restoration of agriculture. The plight of our farmers is a sad one and is becoming worse. The purchasing power of the 59,000,000 people living in communities of less than 2,000 has virtually disappeared. Tenant farming is rapidly increasing.

Finds Farm Board Failed.

"I was hopeful of the success of the experiment of aiding agriculture through the farm board legislation, but it seems to me to be doomed to failure. If so able a man as Alexander Legge could not make it a success nobody can.

"I do not criticize the President and my presence at this conference is not to be interpreted as indicating any lack of appreciation of his great service. I believe he has sincerely and earnestly endeavored to solve the farm problem. But it is evident that we must now cast about for some new expedient. What it will be I am frank to say that I do not know. If this conference, however, should be productive of some suggestion that would point the way to the restoration of prosperity on the farms it will have abundantly justified itself."

Borah Rape Raskob.

The speech of Senator Borah was by implication a severe arraignment, for failure in achieving farm relief, of the Hoover administration, which h- had so vigorously urged the country to intrust with power for the very purpose of succoring agriculture. But he began by taking a fall out of Democratic National Chairman John J. Raskob for deploring attacks on capital.

"An attack upon the rich because they are rich or upon the capitalist because he is a capitalist is, I agree with the gentleman, unwise and unnecessary," said Borah. "But there are those who feel that wealth and capital should operate under just and equal laws, the same as other members of the community, and therefore, in discussing these questions and relative propositions, we are not to be supposed as attacking those who are wealthy because they are wealthy, but rather insisting upon a government of law with reference to all classes of people.

Blames Inflation for Woes.

"I venture to say that our own present depression now, the experience through which we are passing, has been accentuated and deepened by a coterie of capitalists who inaugurated the most remarkable era of inflation and speculation of which the world gives any record.

According to the statisticians, said the senator, there are nine hundred million people in the world suffering from hunger and cold, although there is abundance of food, fuel, and clothing.

"Let no one," said Mr. Borah, "underestimate the seriousness of that problem upon the very stability of government itself."

Getting around to agriculture, the Idahoan read the planks of both party platforms pledging farmers parity with manufacturers. Two years have passed, he said, and no permanent step has been taken to place agriculture on equality with industry. The farm board experiment had to fail, he thought, because it was not calculated to provide a permanent solution.

The senator proceeded further to sketch the plight of farming and then said he was not sufficiently vain to claim he knew the remedy. But he made bold to revive his suggestion of the export debenture, which, he said, was nothing more than the bounty advocated by Hamilton.

"Alexander Hamilton," said the senator, "one of the two greatest secretaries of the treasury we have ever had——"

At this reference to the oft repeated characterization of Mr. Mellon as the greatest secretary of the treasury since Hamilton, the audience howled with laughter.

Senator Borah said that the protected manufacturer receives, in effect, a bounty.

"I venture to say," he went on, "and repeat what Alexander Hamilton said, that there is no difference in principle between the protective tariff system upon manufactured goods and a debenture for the benefit of the American farmer."

The conference was opened by mild-mannered Senator Norris, looking, for all the world, like a country parson, who cut loose with an excoriation of "the interests" that thrilled the assembled apostles of the proletariat.

The Nebraska senator said that while millions of people "are suffering from hunger, an apparent oversupply of food has been produced by the toiling farmers, who are unable to obtain a financial return sufficient to compensate them for the cost of production."

He described a condition of "slavery" in this country with labor manacled by means of judicial decrees. He pictured "the power trust," with its "slimy fingers enmeshed in the warp and woof of human life." Regulation, he said, has failed, because the "regulators are regulated by this monopolistic trust."

Senator Norris concluded with a sarcastic reply to the questions propounded to the conference by Senator James E. Watson [Rep., Ind.].

"Mr. Watson, as you all know," he said, "is a senator from the state of Indiana. He used to be, before he became a senator, a lobbyist representing some of the great corporations seeking legislative favors at the hands of the national congress. I presume his former masters are better satisfied with his work in than they were with his work outside of congress."

With the new Democratic senator from Colorado, Edward P. Costigan, former member of the tariff commission, presiding, the conference ripped into tariff iniquities. Mr. Costigan attributed the business depression chiefly to the new tariff act, which raised higher the wall against imports with the result of cutting down exports.

Senator John J. Blaine [Rep., Wis.] ridiculed the present tariff commission, "organized under the great engineer of disaster," which has performed the monumental task of reducing the rate on wood pulp and raising that on woven wire fencing.

NAMES OF BUSINESS CHIEFS USED AS BAIT TO SELL FAKE STOCK

Alleged fake mining stock listed at $50,000, two counterfeit $500 bills, and a number of business cards bearing the names of some of the city's commercial leaders were seized last night when police arrested R. R. Seibert, 39 years old, in his apartment at 4811 Lake Park avenue, as a narcotics suspect. Some drugs were found.

Sergt. Chris Callahan, who made the raid, refused to reveal the names on the business cards. The cards, he said, probably were used as bait in stock selling. The stock bore the name of a Colorado mining company and showed that 200 shares had been sold to a J. C. Wolfe, whose check for $1,000 was found in Seibert's possession. According to Callahan, Seibert carried a roll of paper covered on the outside by two spurious $500 bills. Seibert also possessed a notebook containing an alphabetical code.

Walter Knowland, alias Weyland, was in custody of Chicago police last night, being returned here from Elgin, where he was arrested for alleged violation of the blue sky laws. The arrest was made in connection with the raid a week ago on the offices of Lloyd Clark at 100 North La Salle street. Clark is accused of selling worthless securities. He is sought.

NORRIS IS AFRAID TO ANSWER HIM, WATSON CLAIMS

New York, March 11.—(AP)—United States Senator James E. Watson of Indiana, before entraining for Chicago late today, declared Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska was "afraid to answer" his fourteen questions to progressives, and he defended his lobby record against the Norris attack.

Senator Watson's fourteen political questions were contained in a letter which he mailed to Senator Norris last night. He requested Norris to submit them to the progressive group.

They asked definition of the group's position on the eighteenth amendment, recognition of Russia, federal power control, tariffs, immigration, farm relief, congressional powers, and other national issues.

"When a man gets mad and resorts to ridicule and personalities it is proof conclusive that he is seeking to evade the real question at issue," Senator Watson said. "The fact is that I never was a lobbyist at Washington except for the manufacturers' association in their effort to secure the enactment of a law providing for a tariff commission, and no evidence to the contrary was ever adduced before any committee.

"The senator might have answered my questions in the time he took to misrepresent me, but he evidently was afraid to answer them and so resorted to the tricks of the pettifogger and shot a few shafts of ridicule which have fallen short of the mark.

"Notwithstanding his assertion the present conference is not a political one, the truth is they are considering nothing but political questions, among them some I asked. Just why a senator's ire should be aroused because a fellow senator asked him to express his views on questions that have been and will be before congress and are very much in the public mind is more than I can conceive.

"Every question I asked is a pertinent one and could have been answered entirely outside of partisanship and without any reference to partisan appeal or party platforms. I submit in all seriousness that each question was entirely proper to be submitted.

RUN-DOWN WOMEN Gain in Weight and Strength

Don't envy happy, vigorous women. For over 75 years thousands of women have proved the remarkable properties of Father John's Medicine. It supplies in pleasant form the vitamins necessary to health and strength. Following its use, listless, underweight women gain in weight and energy, pale cheeks glow with color, hollows fill out, and colds become few and far between. Countless women take it regularly because they know that Father John's Medicine is a scientific combination of proved body builders, none of which could harm even an infant. Over 184 hospitals and institutions use it regularly. Contains no drugs or alcohol.

Try Father John's just once. Give it a chance to demonstrate what it can do for you. Any druggist will supply you.

PUT LIFE INTO YOUR SCALP WITH

AND YOUR HAIR WILL LOOK ALIVE!

You can't expect a lazy scalp to produce thick, healthy hair! And you can't expect dry hair to look well-groomed... Put some life into that inactive scalp of yours! Give it a good brisk massage with Vitalis twice a week—and watch your hair take on a new alive look... Vitalis is a pure vegetable oil preparation. Massage it regularly into your hair, and you'll not only keep your hair, but you'll keep it good-looking... Vitalis gives the hair a soft natural gloss, but not an oily or patent-leather look. Use it with massage before and after a shampoo—and between shampoos, twice a week.

SUNSHINE MELLOWS Heat Purifies

LUCKIES are always kind to your throat

The advice of your physician is: Keep out of doors, in the open air, breathe deeply; take plenty of exercise in the mellow sunshine, and have a periodic check-up on the health of your body.

Everyone knows that sunshine mellows—that's why the "TOASTING" process includes the use of the Ultra Violet Rays. LUCKY STRIKE—made of the finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—THEN—"IT'S TOASTED"—an extra, secret heating process. Harsh irritants present in all raw tobaccos are expelled by "TOASTING." These irritants are sold to others. They are not present in your LUCKY STRIKE. No wonder LUCKIES are always kind to your throat.

NEW NAVAL PACT AIMS AT CUT IN SIZE OF BIG GUNS

France and Italy Will Use 12 Inch Cannon.

LONDON, March 11.—(AP)—Limitation of French and Italian naval programs until 1936 is definitely laid down in the new British-Franco-Italian naval accord, the terms of which were made public today.

But even more important than its technical provisions, in the opinion of the three governments concerned, the agreement brings European peace measurably closer and provides a point of departure for the disarmament conference at Geneva next year.

The accord covers building programs for battleships, cruisers, aircraft carriers, and submarines, in substance as follows:

BATTLESHIPS—Both France and Italy are given the right to complete, before December, 1936, two capital ships whose displacement shall not exceed 23,333 tons, and whose gun caliber shall not exceed twelve inches.

No More Big Cruisers.

CRUISERS — Both nations agree that, after completion of the 1930 class, they will build no more big cruisers with armament larger than six inch guns. In the small cruiser category they agree that tonnage of new construction to be completed shall not exceed the tonnage which is replaceable in this category before Dec. 31, 1936.

AIRCRAFT CARRIERS—Each nation may build 34,000 tons in this category.

SUBMARINES — Both countries agree not to include any submarines in the 1931 program and not to lay down any further submarine tonnage before 1933.

The essence of the agreement is maintenance of the status quo in tonnage ratios, France retaining an estimated superiority of 150,000 tons.

The terms were made public here in the form of a memorandum to parliament by Arthur Henderson, foreign secretary, and A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, who achieved the agreement in conferences with representatives of France and Italy.

Hints U. S. Concurs.

By the new capital ship agreement the Washington treaty tonnage basis is increased for France and Italy, respectively, from 175,000 to 181,000 tons, but the Henderson memorandum explains that this slight increase of total tonnage will not in itself give rise to any new construction during the period of the agreement, but will permit France to retain an existing capital ship.

Mr. Alexander told the house of commons today that an intimation of concurrence in the general agreement had been received from the United States and Japan and that all members of the British commonwealth who were represented at the London naval conference had also indicated general approval.

The Franco-Italian naval settlement figured prominently today in the house of commons debate on naval estimates. It received a general benediction, although some opposition members criticized details.

Introducing the naval estimates, which this year total $258,000,000, a decrease of $1,710,000 from last year, Mr. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, dwelt with especial satisfaction on reduction of the gun caliber in the proposed new capital ships from thirteen to twelve inches, under the new accord.

Delightfully medicated, it absorbs perspiration and is cooling and refreshing. Ideal for Baby after the bath, as a finishing touch to Mother's toilet and for Father after shaving.

A NEW WAY TO EUROPE

The Mediterranean —and Russia at Half Price

The Raymond-Whitcomb Spring Cruise to the Mediterranean will save both your time and your money.

If you want to save time while visiting the famous Mediterranean countries—Spain, Italy, Algeria, Greece, Turkey and France—their gayest ports, their most romantic ruins, their liveliest casinos—

If you would like also to see something a little different, like the Russian Riviera on the Black Sea, the Crimea, or some of the famous ancient cities of Greece . . .

Then join the Raymond-Whitcomb Cruise, sailing April 14th and lasting six weeks. Good style and good food on the luxurious Cunard steamer "Carinthia." Rates begin at $725, New York to New York.

Figure this trip in any other comparable way and it will use up two months, at least. And you would have to pay over $1600, more than double the Raymond-Whitcomb minimum rate.

Note: For Italy-bound passengers this Southern sailing of the "Carinthia" is important. Palermo is reached April 28, after a fortnight's voyage with stops at four intervening ports. Rates $250 up.

JAIL BREAK FAILS TO FREE 77 FROM COURT MARTIAL

Spain Nabs Plotters in "Disguise."

BY JAY ALLEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, March 11.—There was, of course, a traitor, and so the old walled town of Jaca, the scene of the battle between the Christians and the Moors and of the republican revolt of last December, missed being the scene of a new one today in the form of a jail break.

Thus, on Friday the 13th, 77 rebels who participated in the December revolt will be transported to the neighboring seat of Huesca for a monster court martial, at which death sentences will be demanded for five and life imprisonment for 66.

The rebels had counted on being free tonight to go into hiding until such time as developments should bring a fresh judgment on their revolution or at least an amnesty.

The jail break had been carefully planned both from the inside and outside of the 18th century citadel where the little republican army and its several score of civilian sympathizers have been in duress for three months.

Disguised as "Salesmen."

The conspirators on the outside were to be disguised as traveling salesmen. They have been arriving in the little mountain town for days. Plans had been made for a surprise attack on the massive gates early this morning with the collusion, it is presumed, of some of the prison guards. After the rebels had been released, records of the uprising, including a 2,125 page summary of the evidence, were to have been burned.

But the inevitable traitor, also disguised as a traveling salesman, did his job, and a battalion of civil guards arrived from Huesca, Saragossa, and Lerida, and took over the situation. Twenty of the "drummers" were reported to have been arrested last night while holding a secret session in the local hostelry.

1,200 Rebels to Face Trial.

The court martial Friday is to be the first of a series in which revolutionaries, variously estimated to number between 1,200 and 4,000, will be tried. Members of the provisional government named by the abortive revolt will stand trial before the high army and navy council, beginning about March 21. Life imprisonment will be asked for Alcara Zamora, "provisional president," and 20 years for the others.

Premier Admiral Aznar today made it clear that if the four officers and one noncommissioned officer in the Jaca uprising get the death penalty they will not have to face a firing squad. The government will ask the king to commute their sentences to life imprisonment, he said.

As for the politicians involved, the admiral said only parliament can legally grant them amnesty. From this it appears that the government sees in the presence in prison of scores of Republican and Socialist leaders and hundreds of their supporters a sort of insurance against revolution. They are hostages of the crown, so to speak.

Brazil Limits Production; Stops Machinery Imports

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, March 11.—(AP)—A decree was signed today by President Vargas prohibiting for three years the importation of machinery for manufacturing purposes, because of conditions of overproduction believed by the government to exist in textile and allied industries.

WARTIME CHIEFS OPPOSE LEGION'S UNIVERSAL DRAFT

Give Arguments Against Proposals.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 11.—[Special.]—Another chapter of testimony hostile to a "draft everything" program of national defense was put into the record today before the war policies commission, with Newton D. Baker, wartime secretary of war; Leonard P. Ayres, noted statistician; Brig. Gen. Palmer Pierce, retired, and Commander John M. Hancock, retired, successively occupying the witness chair.

Former Secretary Baker opposed the wholesale fixing of prices, the drafting of men for industrial occupation, a capital levy, and, in general, a multitude of laws seeking to set up an inflexible war policy.

He stressed the difficulty of foreseeing the conditions under which a future war might be fought. He placed more reliance, he said, on the voluntary cooperation of industry, such as had been exhibited during the world war, than on legislative decrees.

Disagree with Baruch Plan.

Both he and Mr. Ayres, who was chief statistician for the war industries and allied boards, the A. E. F., and the American peace commission, disagreed on many points with Bernard M. Baruch, former head of the war industries board, who last week presented to the commission a comprehensive plan for industrial mobilization.

Mr. Ayres set the savings which might have been made in the cost of the last war through price fixing at 10 per cent, instead of the 50 per cent or more Mr. Baruch had estimated.

"I think," he added, "that arbitrary price fixing would cause serious administrative difficulties on the one hand, and, on the other, would insure a great deal of profiteering."

Food and textiles, he testified, were the only commodities in which prices increased notably during the war.

Fears Result of Capital Levy.

Mr. Baker strongly opposed any suggestion of a capital levy, saying: "I think that if we ever went so far as that, it might produce revolutionary disturbances."

Answering Senator Swanson [Dem., Va.], a member of the commission, he advocated the excess profits tax as an effective method of recapturing war profits. Taxation, he said, did not disturb the work while war was going on.

"The world war proved, said Mr. Baker, that laws passed in anticipation of war often hampered more than they helped. He placed reliance on the constitutional powers of the President to act as benefited the emergency.

"Every war requires the surrender of some normal peacetime freedom," he said. "But any war legislation, made during peacetime and looking to this surrender, might make our citizens used to such surrender, and I would not like that."

Opposed to Price Fixing.

Mr. Ayres opposed general price fixing, but believed it might be necessary in the case of certain essential commodities, such as textiles, metals, and chemicals.

Corporation profits, he told the commission, were considerably less in 1918 than in 1916. Because wages rose more slowly than retail prices, he said, "the high wages 'missed' by soldiers came in the main following their discharge from the army."

Brig. Gen. Pierce declared that "to draft wealth and industry probably would result disastrously; there should be as little disturbance as possible of peacetime conditions."

He recommended as future wartime policies universal registration of man power, a military draft, the appropriation of a lump sum to the President for war purposes, the formation of a body similar to the war industries board, the executive power to establish prices and profits where necessary, and the licensing of all manufacturers.

Geo. F. Harding, Pioneer Air Fan, Buys Speedy New Plane

BY ROBERT WOOD.

Twenty years have elapsed since George F. Harding, former county treasurer, Republican leader, and millionaire collector of art and antiques, first flew an airplane, but the lure of a roaring motor and the wind whistling through wires aloft is still in his blood.

Yesterday he bought a new high speed cabin plane, retained William S. Brock of the famous flying team of Brock and Schlee as his private pilot, and ordered that dual controls be installed in the cockpit so that he can brush up on his old skill at the "stick."

The new ship, a Fleetster monoplane, capable of a speed in excess of 160 miles an hour, is to be delivered after the April aircraft show at Detroit, where it is to be exhibited as one of the first of a new line of planes now under construction for the United States army.

"I like speed," said Mr. Harding yesterday. "This new plane is more than 100 miles an hour faster than the first ship I took off the ground, but I'm going to try my hand at the stick. I don't see any reason why I can't master it." Mr. Harding is 62.

His first plane was a Baby Wright purchased just after the close of that 1911 Chicago air meet in which four pilots lost their lives. That early craft, fashioned of bamboo poles, linen and wire, was kept by Mr. Harding at the old Cicero flying field. His fellow aldermen in the city council used to go out on week-ends to watch their comrade defy death in his flying machine. Wings and wheels were crushed many times in minor spills but Ald. Harding came through without a scratch.

A former football player on the Harvard eleven, Mr. Harding has long been a follower of sport and speed. He was one of the first automobile owners in Chicago and yesterday he recalled early victories won with speed boats and fast dashes he made in them to Milwaukee, Michigan City and other nearby places.

Mr. Harding's plane will be gold and white and is due to arrive here early in April. Yesterday he planned many hops about the country with Billy Brock as his "co-pilot."

THE LARGEST CROWD THAT EVER WATCHED AN INDOOR BOXING EVENT IN AMERICA. More than 23,000 people last night attended the TRIBUNE'S Golden Gloves championship matches at the Chicago Stadium. Every available seat in the huge structure was occupied. Thousands more, it was estimated, would have been in attendance if the seating capacity had permitted. Two thousand general admission tickets which were placed on sale at 7:45 o'clock were snapped up by a waiting line that extended more than four blocks.

people is a big crowd. It is the largest that ever attended an indoor boxing program in America, but only 3 per cent of the more than people who buy the Chicago Tribune every weekday. This is more people than buy any other Chicago daily newspaper.... Have you a product to sell in this rich market? The Tribune can do the job for you.

795,000

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

SUNDAY IN RUSSIA IS JUST ANOTHER DAY OF THE WEEK

Only Difference Is More People Go to Church.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MOSCOW, Feb. 15.—[By Mail.]—Sunday is just another day in Russia under the 5 day week plan. Business goes on as usual, just like on any other day.

The only difference is a greater influx of customers in the restaurants of the hotels, and a larger number of worshipers in the churches.

That last statement makes you sit up and wonder what propaganda I am trying to put over, but it's all true and I solemnly swear I peeked into three different churches this morning and watched the services awhile and never got shot once by the G. P. U.

On the Trail of a Mystery.

A great big church way out the Tverskaia, where I went to get my food book, attracted my attention first. The big spire was chock full of bells, and all the bulbous minarets surrounding it were linked up with gilded chains like wireless aerials.

The back of the church faced on the street but I noticed people ducking down the side alleys on either flank, and decided to see what dirty work was going on. Probably they were pilfering the altar, like in the pictures I had seen published.

I followed a woman and child down the side alley, and they walked by the beggars and straight through the double doors into the church. Inside was a long row of other poor souls, holding their caps out for alms, and on through another door was the church.

Finds Choir Chanting Hymn.

A choir in white lace jackets was chanting a hymn and the orthodox priest stood before the altar intoning the rites of the services. The people all stood, and bowed as they followed the ritual.

A faint odor of incense was wafted through the big room from a score of huge candles burning before the crucifix and the statues to the Savior and the Virgin Mary and other saints.

Then another priest appeared leading a procession of altar boys and girls, too, carrying banners and ikons and swinging censers, and the priest carried a little silver bell which he rang from time to time, and a receptacle containing holy water which he sprinkled right and left.

Fears Raid by G. P. U.

"This is the time the G. P. U. will bust in and raid the place and me without my passport," I figured. The hotel porter had taken my papers to register them at the police station.

But no one intruded, and after marching slowly back and forth between the lines of worshipers, and giving them an opportunity to make their offertory in little baskets which the last boys and girls in line carried, the priest led the way back to the altar and blessed the offering.

Most of the coins in the basket, I noticed, where 5 kopeck pieces with a few 10 and 15 kopeck slugs and there was one dirty, wrinkled ruble.

The priest had long black mustachios and a black spade beard, and wore ornate regalia, the robe encrusted in colored stones and heavily embroidered in gold and silver. He had a curious pointed cap of velvet and two strings of beads around his neck.

Walls of Church Decorated.

The walls of the church were resplendent with huge polished brass and copper placques, depicting various scriptural scenes, and all burnished until they shone like gold.

On either side candles were being dispensed to the faithful, and aged women, muffled in carefully sewn rags and odds and ends, and children bundled up in their parents' cut down clothes, and with mittens hanging from strings through their sleeves, were buying the candles to place before their favorite saint.

In the other two churches, much the same thing, although they were not so large nor so ornate as the first one, and the congregations at mass only numbered fifty or sixty whereas there were at least 300 in the large edifice.

Chapel Removed for Statue.

The municipal authorities have removed the little chapel of the Iberian Mother formerly located in the gateway between the two arches leading to the Red square. The reason given was that it interfered with traffic, and in its place now is a huge, modernist statue of a worker with a hammer.

Opposite, on the red wall of the finance ministry, is a marble placque inscribed with the words "Religion is the opium of the people," which an unknown scrawled in chalk on that spot during the revolution and which is now perpetuated in engraving on stone.

Moscow was always known as the "city of churches" and despite charges that many of them have been razed by the authorities, they are still in evidence everywhere. Many of them are closed, the government insisting on locking them up if their congregations fail to support them with voluntary offerings.

CLUB STARTS MOVE TO GET NEW STREET SIGNS BEFORE FALL

A movement to obtain the installation of new street name signs before the World's Fair in 1933 was begun yesterday by the City club. Civic, municipal, and commercial organizations, as well as city officials, are to be enlisted in the campaign.

In a recent report the streets and public safety committee of the club agreed to request the city council to provide funds for the purchase and installation of the signs. City Traffic Engineer Leslie J. Sorenson has estimated the cost at approximately $400,000, but whether this is to be raised by appropriation from city revenues or by a bond issue has not been decided.

"The signs erected throughout the city over 15 years ago have in many instances disappeared," said the committee's report. "Some of them are no longer legible."

The new signs, according to the committee, should be legible at night as well as during the day.

PERU, SOBERED BY REVOLTS, GREETS NEWEST RULER

BY C. N. GRIFFIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LIMA, March 11.—Calm, sober and much chastened, Lima settled down quietly today to enjoy the régime of Provisional President David Samanez Ocampo, who was head of the southern rebel junta at Arequipa. He flew to the capital last night to take over the chief office in this troubled republic and was sworn in late today.

Six months of bitter internecine political warfare, during which control of Peru's destinies has been tossed back and forth among opposing factions, has worn the glitter from episodes of revolutionary change, and the calm entry of President Ocampo was in strange contrast to the tumultous welcome accorded the obscure young army officer, Lieut. Col. Sanchez Cerro, on his triumphal march into Lima after the fall of Augusto B. Legula.

No Cheering Throngs.

The city welcomed President Ocampo, but there were no cheering throngs and likewise there were no flowery manifestos proclaiming the new régime.

And the strong man from the south, who comes to bring peace to Peru, is similarly contrasted to the dashing young Sanchez Cerro.

A quiet, distinguished looking man of 68 years, who carries himself with the aspect of an elderly European statesman, President Ocampo seems to inspire confidence. Born and bred to the ownership of large estates in the great inter-Andean valley lands of southern Peru, he has always been the controlling factor in the politics of his region. He is a veteran in parliament, having served as both senator and deputy at the capital.

Always a liberal, fearless and independent, he strenuously opposed the régime of Señor Leguia. On his own estates, and those of his supporters, he always maintained horses and men enough to hold his own against political enemies.

See Return of Normalcy.

It is generally believed here that he has entered this new political game moved entirely by patriotic motives. In his telegraphic communications with Col. Gustavo Jiminez, who headed the transitory junta, President Ocampo revealed himself as a diplomat. The acceptance by Col. Jiminez of Ocampo's political control is believed to presage complete restoration of normal conditions in Peru.

President Ocampo's great political ideal is said to be the division of Peru into several federal states. This would decentralize authority which has heretofore been vested in Lima. The federal system, he declares, is the only salvation from the political army control which has characterized Peru's history in the past.

Carload of Soldiers Riot; Under Guard on Sidetrack

Medford, Ore., March 11.—(AP)—Sixteen soldiers from Fort McDowell, Cal., en route to Fort Lewis, Wash., were locked under guard in a passenger car here today, Southern Pacific officials said, after a near riot in the car last night. Several of the soldiers were said to have been hurt. Vincent Solinsky was seriously hurt when he was thrown or fell through a glass door. The car occupied by the soldiers was cut out of the train at Ashland when the conductor refused to take it farther.

Boy in Respirator Gets Wish; He Eats Ice Cream

Charles Caughey, 7 years old, 3622 South Union avenue, had his wish fulfilled yesterday. He ate ice cream. Since last Friday the boy has been kept alive at St. Francis hospital in Evanston through the use of an artificial respirator. He is suffering from throat and lung paralysis. Charles improved steadily with the aid of the apparatus, and yesterday, when first able to talk, asked for ice cream. He got it.

SHAH OF PERSIA FIGHTS TO STOP SOVIET DUMPING

BY H. BASIL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TEHERAN, Persia, March 11.—Following the crash of several of Persia's most important sugar companies, Shah Riza Khan has decided to invite foreign capital into Persia. Heretofore Riza Khan and his government have opposed opening the country to foreign capital. He declared that Persia needs capital to industrialize the country in order to make it self-sufficient and independent of Russia.

The great number of bankruptcies among sugar merchants is blamed on soviet dumping methods. Owing to the fall in the value of silver, the soviet sugar syndicate boosted the price of its sugar far above the cost of other imported sugar. The merchants, therefore, sent orders for sugar to Belgium.

Merchants Accuse Russia.

When the Belgian sugar arrived the soviet syndicate immediately lowered the price of its sugar, squeezing out the merchants who had stocked their stores with the imported Belgian product.

The unfortunate merchants charged that the price manipulation by the soviets was designed to bring about their bankruptcy, as well as to make it clear that the soviets do not intend to permit Persians to trade with any other foreign markets.

Moved by the belief that Moscow has determined to monopolize Persia's trade, even, if necessary, bringing about its economic ruin by selling Russian produce at the highest prices and buying Persian goods at the lowest prices, the shah decided on steps to smash the scheme. He announced that the railways which have been started cannot be completed without foreign capital, and lots of it.

Urges Home Production.

Inspired by this new attitude of the government, the Persian press is now promoting home production of sugar, cotton and woolen fabrics. With the aid of western nations Persia hopes to make Kurdistan, through which the Karun river runs, another Egypt. The land in this province is highly suitable for the production of cotton, sugar cane and indigo.

Child "Wishes She Were Dead"; Playmate Kills Her

Craigsville, Va., March 11.—(AP)—Hurt when she stumbled over a chair, Marjorie Gregory, 11, said she wished she were dead, and Medford Gregory, 10, her cousin, obtained a shotgun and fired point blank at her head. She died instantly. The boy told officers he did not intend to kill her, but was "only trying to scare her." No action had been taken against him tonight.

Belching, Heartburn, Stomach Pains, Ended

Acidity, Heartburn Suffering Ended

Severe attacks of heartburn, pain from acidity no longer torture Frank Hall of Youngstown, Ohio, who says: "ACIDINE has helped me very much. I had been annoyed with acidity of the stomach and heartburn. These attacks, coming about one hour after eating, would sometimes be very severe. I find, as you advertise, that I can eat anything I wish, and eat heartily; then use ACIDINE and have no ill effect."

Almost everyone who takes ACIDINE raves about it. More than two million packages have been sold. It's absolutely amazing the way this new prescription succeeds when other known remedies fail.

ACIDINE is the only known remedy which contains Japtase, that in laboratory tests digests 800 times its weight of certain heavy, starchy foods which cause trouble. It neutralizes burning acids, soothes irritated stomach linings, stops gassy headaches, sleeplessness and nervousness. No other known remedy contains this combination to end acid stomach. ACIDINE also fortifies you against colds by reducing acidity.

Get ACIDINE today at your druggist. Watch how quick acid indigestion, burning stomach, belching, pain, heartburn, dizziness, fullness, short breath vanish. Eat, drink all you want. Maker refunds money if not delighted.

You Can't Be Dainty With A Cold In The Head

In a few deep breaths, Vapex banishes all the distress of cold

No woman can possibly be at her best with a cold. Her nose becomes red and stuffed, her head feels clogged, and the miserable distress ruins her good disposition.

Simply put a drop on the handkerchief or a drop at each end of the pillow. Breathe the delightful vapor and you breathe your cold away.

Swiftly Vapex clears the head, opens up the nose, dries secretions. A few deep breaths relieve distress and make you feel better. If a cold keeps you awake, use Vapex at night and rise in the morning refreshed and soothed.

Vapex is very inexpensive. The $1 bottle contains fifty applications—an average of only 2c apiece. Millions of bottles are sold yearly. It is approved by Good Housekeeping because it is safe for every one—even little children.

Ask your druggist for V-A-P-E-X—the original inhalant discovered during the war.

Approval of the proposed illegitimacy law placing virtually the same duty of support upon fathers of children born out of wedlock as upon other fathers was voiced in several quarters of the city yesterday. This discussion followed the introduction of the bill in the state senate Tuesday along with 29 others affecting the welfare of children.

The bill was introduced at the recommendation of Gov. Emmerson's committee on child welfare legislation which has been making a study of childhood in the state since the committee's appointment two years ago. The committee in its report declared that "there seems to be no justification for continuing the present discrimination in favor of illegitimate fathers," and attacked the inadequacy of the 1872 act to meet present conditions.

Points to Present Defects.

The chief improvements of the proposed law over the present one were pointed out by Henry P. Chandler, chairman of the governor's committee, who quoted from the committee's recommendations.

"The present law has two serious defects," Mr. Chandler said. "First, the father is permitted to escape with an insufficient contribution toward the financial support of the child, and second, too many children are separated from their mothers and lost to them because of lack of means to provide for their children.

"Under the present law the father may settle for $1,100, paying $200 for the first year of the child's life and $100 a year for nine years, or he may make a single cash settlement of $800. The proposed law provides that the amount paid by a person adjudged the father of an illegitimate child be fixed by the court according to the father's resources and the child's needs during the dependent period of eighteen years.

Proposes State Action.

"It is proposed that the department of public welfare receive notice of the birth of every illegitimate child and assume the responsibility of seeing to it that the interests of these children are safeguarded."

Judge George V. McIntyre of the Court of Domestic Relations was among the first to comment yesterday urging the passage of the new law, which follows for the most part the model provided by the uniform illegitimacy act.

"The present session of the legislature, we hope, will recognize the need of protecting the future citizens of the state by establishing their status and removing the brand of outcast," Judge McIntyre said. "This act does just that thing. I believe also that the new law, making liable as it does the estate of a father whose paternity has been established, will tend to decrease illegitimacy to some extent."

Fathers Buy Releases.

Judge McIntyre said that, although most of the fathers of illegitimate children who appear in the Court of Domestic Relations are financially able to support their children, they buy their releases for a small sum.

A study of 260 cases heard by the Court of Domestic Relations in 1928 was made by the governor's committee. It disclosed, according to the report, that there were 51 in which settlements were made ranging from $100 to $900, the average being between $400 and $500. In eight of these the mother released the child for adoption either before or soon after the settlement was made. Only in 16 of the 260 cases was the regular judgment for $1,100 entered and a bond properly filed to secure payment.

The committee's study revealed that 2,000 illegitimate births were reported in Illinois in 1925, the same number for 1926, 2,100 in 1927, and 2,300 in 1928. Approximately 500 cases are heard annually in the Court of Domestic Relations in Chicago.

Miss Irene Kawin, deputy chief probation officer of the Juvenile court, sees the law as a means of lifting some of the burden of child welfare from the county and the Juvenile court.

BABY BLINDNESS BILL PASSED BY ILLINOIS HOUSE

Would Require Treatment of Eyes at Birth.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 11.—[Special.]—The bill to treat babies' eyes at birth to prevent blindness—a measure which drew sparks from a religious organization last week—passed the house of representatives this morning, polling 112 yeas and but five nays. It was sponsored by the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness and introduced by Representative William G. Thon [Rep., Chicago].

If passed in the senate and approved by the governor, the bill will force attendants at every child birth to paint the baby's eyes with one per cent solution of silver nitrate. A violation would carry with it a $100 fine and six months' imprisonment.

Pass Monument Bill.

The house also passed, this time unanimously, the bill introduced by Representatives James T. Burns [Dem., Kankakee], which appropriates $50,000 for monuments in Cuba and Porto Rico to commemorate the services of Illinois soldiers in the war with Spain. The sponsor said the monuments, if finally authorized, would be of a utilitarian nature, but no sites for them have been selected.

The house appropriations committee recommended $35,000,000 be allowed for state public welfare work provided the five million dollar item for new buildings is approved. A subcommittee is now considering the new building proposal.

During thte morning Representative G. J. Johnson [Rep., Paxton] introduced a bill calling for the repeal of the primary act and providing for the nomination of candidates by convention. This would strengthen party responsibility, Mr. Johnson believes, would save much money, and practically stop independent candidates.

Port Bill Presented.

Another bill, of particular interest to metropolitan citizens, was introduced by Repreeptative M. L. Igoe [Dem., Chicago], and would create a Chicago regional port commission to investigate the feasibility of an interstate port authority for Illinois and Indiana.

The Chicago Association of Commerce is behind the bill. It contemplates port facilities from Waukegan to Michigan City, Ind., "leading toward the revival of the district as a center of water transportation." The commission would be given $15,000 for investigation purposes and would serve as a clearing house for all water terminal proposals in the metropolitan district.

The act would not take effect until an equal appropriation for the same purpose was made by the state of Indiana. Col. Robert Isham Randolph, president of the Association of Commerce, informed Mr. Igoe that a bill has already passed the Indiana senate.

Representative William J. Warfield [Rep., Chicago] introduced a bill to provide four year terms for city and village aldermen.

Gift Dishes Turn to Booze in Trunk, Denison Declares

ferent. You see, I didn't know the procedure in this sorta case. I was waiting orders from my chief. You see this was kinda different, this being found in a congressman's office on the Hill, you see."

Another agent, Quinn, Christian name Basil, and "no more related to the first Quinn," Attorney Everetts got into the record, "than these two trunks are related," took the stand for the prosecution and told of his visit Jan. 19, 1923, to room 411 in the house office building.

The name plate on the door was Edward E. Denison. He found two men there, later identified as Denison and Layne, and a woman secretary.

"What was going on there?" asked Prosecutor Goldstein. "Anybody doing any work there?"

"O, no."

Upon telling Mr. Denison that he had come in search of a leaky trunk, Mr. Quinn testified, "Mr. Denison said he didn't have the key with him and that he had to hurry to the house to answer a noon roll call, and asked us to come back at 5 o'clock that evening."

The two Quinns, according to their story, left the trunk after looking at its outside carefully, and returned at 5 that evening.

"Mr. Denison handed me his key ring," continued Basil Quinn, "indicated a key, and I tried it. The key didn't fit. Then Mr. Denison said, 'Why, that's not my ring.' Then he turned it around and pointed to some writing, 'B. B. Dawson,' and he said, 'See here, there's the name of another fellow, B. B. Dawson. Why, that's not mine.'"

"Was the name B. B. Dawson on the trunk that noon when you first went there?" inquired Mr. Goldstein.

"It was not," said J. J. Quinn.

But Defense Attorney William B. Leahy, on cross-examination, got J. J. Quinn to admit that he hadn't noticed the express company's seal on the trunk at noon, although others had testified that it was there.

Tomorrow the defense expects to make much of Prohibition Inspector Fletcher Connell's admission that J. J. Quinn has been dismissed from the service. And they will make much of the good character of Mr. Denison.

Mr. Denison was defeated in the last election.

"Use the magic witchery of Color in your HOME"

BEATRICE FAIRFAX

"See, I've washed it in Lux and it's just as gay and pretty as new"

"and keep colors sparkling fresh with Lux"

"How husbands love the fresh, cheerful color that brightens a home like sunshine!

"Colorful fabrics cost no more than plain, drab ones. And with Lux we no longer fear that they'll fade in washing.

"So use the witchery of color all over the house! Inexpensive flowered slip covers, bright cushions in the living room . . . Colorful cretonnes, pastel organdies, perky ginghams to frame windows in color . . . Table linens in fresh, cheerful tones to make mealtimes festive . . . Dainty bedspreads and bureau scarfs in the bedrooms.

"And do cherish the sparkling charm of these colors with Lux.

Lux for colors

"These marvelous flakes, as you all know, are especially made to preserve color. What a pity to take a chance with ordinary soap—and risk the lovely fresh new look of curtains or slips that have cost you dollars!

"Luxing your colored things is so easy, so safe, and so sure. For Lux is made to preserve color. Lux has a promise that's absolutely true . . . if a color is safe in water alone, it's just as safe in Lux."

Stick to the

BIG IDEA

EVERY right-minded man who starts in to make something to sell is sustained by a valid idea.

He is convinced that his product embodies a real advantage for the user and that therefore intelligent people will buy it.

On that simple and durable premise have been reared in the past quarter-century the greatest business and industrial structures in America.

The process of their erection has been invaluably quickened and strengthened by honest and informative advertising.

IF your business is worrying you now, if sales and profits are sagging, go back to the beginning in your thinking.

Be sure your product is superior, in style, quality, value or utility; be sure it is distributed within reach of the customer.

This done, tell people about it, in terms of their interest, not yours—tell them over and over again through the advertising pages of THE SATURDAY EVENING POST.

You are then displaying your wares before the most intelligent and progressive audience in America—that hub three-million-strong which turns the taste, thinking, buying of the nation.

IF you think this is merely selfish advice, think again; it is the tried and true formula of outstandingly successful business.

The Post is an inseparable part of that formula simply because experience has demonstrated that its values cannot be bought elsewhere at any price!

THE VERDICT AT VALPARAISO.

The jury in the Kirkland case voted life imprisonment as the sentence for the young rapist whose brutality killed the victim of it. The only uncertainty in the jurors' minds was an indecision between that sentence and the death penalty. The other young men accused with Kirkland are yet to be tried.

Kirkland and his associates in the crime are not of depraved stock or breeding. They had schooling in a city in which the schools are highly esteemed. Their home life appears to have been normal and in general they could be regarded as fair average types, with associations, environment, and discipline to be looked for in the usual conditions of American youth. Kirkland, it was brought out, had disclosed some waywardness or viciousness without, however, being indicated as exceptional in depravity. Whatever faults and follies the youths might have revealed or committed, it was hardly to be expected that they would not steady down into habits of respectability and responsibility. Instead of that, one is convicted and the others accused of a crime which cost a young woman her life, brought disgrace and sorrow to the families, and has blasted their own lives. It also has brought serious questioning again into American thought of American discipline and training.

Unfortunately, the crime does not appear as an isolated one. There have been other cases in which young people of reputable standing in their communities have been involved. Rape was regarded as a danger incurred only when the lowest depravity was encountered by an unprotected victim. It was not a danger to which girls were exposed when with their own male acquaintances or friends.

It is hard to resist the idea that there has been a change in the moral code, not, of course, universal, but nevertheless perceivable. There have always been vicious youngsters, but causes could be found in environment, breeding, abnormal character, or other reasons which would help explain them. Viciousness is found now where conditions should not develop it.

Prohibition is blamed for some of this, and with some justice. It is a matter of general observation and agreement that under the Volstead act the attitude of youth toward liquor has changed. Formerly the liquor problem was one of adult intemperance and its various evil consequences. Boys from well conducted households did not drink much or often if at all. Graduates who have been out of school ten years know that drinking was not often such as to be a serious offense against propriety and good behavior when they were in school. Wilder boys occasionally got intoxicated, but they soon put themselves outside the code. It was one of self-discipline.

The Wickersham report offers abundant evidence that there has been a change affecting young people, girls included. Formerly girls would have regarded their reputation as seriously affected if they drank, and in most circles of normal American life women seldom used alcoholic beverages. All this has been changed. The new customs are not all charged with evil consequences, but the breakdown of old standards and the shift to new habits unquestionably has produced grave social disorders. Self-discipline has been impaired by the substitution of government control for individual character, of statute for code.

Other reasons for changed ethics are found when the subject is considered. The age is mobile and adventurous, released from old material and physical limitations. It has discarded the mechanics of the former generation. The impulse may have been to discard some moralities also. The cycles of conduct are observed in the history of the English speaking people. Manners and morals are not frozen in patterns, but respond to changing periods and living impulses.

Some of the present theories of life in the United States are not tenable. Some of the adventure is in the wrong direction. Some of the mobility is without sufficient restraint imposed by character. There are some old lessons to be relearned. Experience has a way of teaching them.

INTERCITY AIR SERVICE.

Withdrawal of air service in 1930 between Chicago and Detroit and Cleveland and Detroit by the Stout and N. A. T. airlines was a serious recession in fast transport facilities. The inauguration of service by the Chicago-Detroit airlines and the recent announcement of both passenger and express air service on April 1 between the three ports by the Trans-American Airlines corporation will restore confidence in local air development and provide a valued service to business men and other travelers. This will supplement the air mail and lead toward a comprehensive great lakes air transport system in which land planes and amphibians will be used.

For many years air travel will remain no doubt a luxury service for business men in a hurry and for travelers who can afford this fast and scenic mode of movement. To be successful air transport must really save time for business men, and time lost in getting into town from an airport is composed of hours and minutes fully as much as time saved in travel from town to town. Schedules and facilities in air service must be carefully adjusted to the business man's real needs. In this respect great improvements have been made in recent years.

As a scenic attraction air service has not been sufficiently promoted. The New York trip via Pittsburgh to Chicago by air offers to the tourist a unique view of America, dynamically beautiful, breath-taking in interest. Other air trails over the continent show like wonders. As a means of travel for travel's sake, luxurious to be sure, but worth it, the air service of America needs more promotion.

MR. FESS IN HIGH GEAR.

Senator Simeon D. Fess of Yellow Springs, O., has had a long fact-facing talk with Mr. Hoover. He now proposes to go to Florida for a brief toning up period, in pursuit of ultra violet rays and vitamins. When full of vim, vigor, and vitality he will return in high gear to change the mood of the Republican party from inertia to dynamic activity.

As Mr. Fess sees the situation the old reliables who should have protected Mr. Hoover have been caught flat-footed every time a radical or a Democrat started one from the floor at the administration. When they ought to have bewildered the opposition by rapid footwork and crosses to the jaw they have been all tangled up in the ropes. They have not been able to get started in any direction except down, and all they have seen consequently has been the ceiling and the face of the referee. This, of course, cannot continue. The administration needs a few good punchers, and as soon as Mr. Fess gets the inhalations he needs down in Florida he intends to be all of them.

Mr. Fess as a battler can be recommended to any one who can get a ringside seat. When he is in condition and really worked up to view with alarm or point with pride he can take them at any weight and have them jumping out of the ring. This battling platitude can sock a chin of any altitude. A short time in Florida will put him on his toes and when he returns all the insurgents, radicals, detractors, and Democrats will see will be a ring full of Fesses.

FEDERAL AID FOR CHICAGO HARBOR.

As the northern terminal of the Illinois waterway system the harbor of Chicago will have a new function in a few years. For this purpose the Sag channel from Lake Calumet and the Grand Calumet river to the sanitary canal must be improved. Wolf lake, Lake Calumet, the Calumet, Grand Calumet, and Little Calumet rivers will need study and probably improvement. The Indiana Harbor canal and the outer harbor project at the mouth of the Calumet river also must be considered. Not all of these proposals can be carried out at once. Enough of them to make a great interlocking harbor system for industrial terminals for transshipment from barge to ship and to rail and vice versa should be made effective soon.

This will require government aid. The harbor plan is still undeveloped, and because it is confused, as recent conferences show, the plan is not wholly satisfactory. The federal government can clear the project by laying out the order of improvements according to accumulating needs. Channels from the lake to the sanitary canal at least 200 feet wide and nine feet deep are necessary. An inland harbor on Lake Calumet will probably be one of the earlier needs. What the city for years has tried to do can be made effective by the government.

Federal financial aid for this great project will be necessary.

A POLITICIAN PAROLED.

James Murray, Chicago politician, has been granted parole by the federal authorities and will be released from Atlanta penitentiary May 26. He was sentenced to twenty-five years for his part in the Rondout mail robbery of 1924. In May of last year the President, on recommendation, commuted the sentence to 12 years, which would have released the prisoner in 1932. The parole anticipates that by nearly a year. The explanation in Washington is that Murray justified leniency and the reduction of his sentence by giving the authorities information with which $345,000 of the loot was recovered. This is as it may be, but whether in state or federal affairs it is to be noted that the next hardest thing to putting a politician in the penitentiary is keeping him there when he has been caught and sentenced.

CHICAGO FOR CONVENTIONS.

As a matter of course the Republican and Democratic national committees are invited to call the nominating conventions for 1932 to meet in Chicago and as a matter of course the invitations should be accepted by both. For any kind of national assembly Chicago offers complete satisfaction of all requirements. Cities which can qualify for one or two cannot qualify for all. They are: Central location, equalizing the train trips; a sufficiency of good hotels; a hall large enough for the purpose; a good climate; a city worth seeing.

These advantages adequately represent themselves. The dependable probability for the time of the conventions is weather which would enrich any summer resort. That is an item for the comfort of the delegates and visitors which makes the other arguments irresistible.

Editorial of the Day

FOR CLEVELAND.

[Cleveland Plain Dealer.]

One dislikes to deny Chicago anything. A people so sorely afflicted with politics and banditry is entitled to all the kind words the neighbors can find to utter. But there are limits.

Chicago seeks both the big national conventions next year. Not content with Thompsonism and the prospect of a world fair, the wind-blown Big Billoppolis seeks also to annex the quadrennial big shows.

Well, maybe—and, again, maybe not. Cleveland has something to say. In 1928 we let the Democratic convention slip through our fingers. This time fingers are crossed, and we want the big party.

Cleveland has the auditorium, the hotels, an early summer climate unexcelled and a reputation for hospitality founded, in part, on the Republican experience in 1924. It is, perhaps, immodest to boast, but the facts speak.

National Democratic leaders look with favor toward this city. It remains for Cleveland to do its part.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

NEVADA STRIKES BACK.

Nevada has a bill to legalise gambling. That will be regarded as another bid to attract people hunting divorce. Not long ago Arkansas reduced the time of residence to obtain a divorce to three months, which was slapping Nevada right in the nose, for the divorce business is a basic industry in that state. Nevada came right back with a proposition to reduce the time to six weeks and give a 16 cylinder automobile to the best dressed divorcée and a silver loving cup to the most divorced gent. And now old Nevada makes another bid to hold the divorce business by legalizing gambling so that applicants for divorce can while away the dreary hours at roulette, fan tan, rouge et noir, or plain everyday draw poker. Bridge will probably be barred, for husband and friend wife, both trying for a divorce, might play together, and Nevada wants divorce cases, not murder trials. About all they do in Nevada now while they wait for a divorce is to sit on the balcony of the hotel and wonder how near it is to dinner time and talk over the newest arrivals. But with the merry sound of the roulette wheel reverberating on the desert air things will chirp up amazingly around Reno. But wait until Arkansas is heard from. They'll have judges down at the train all ready to slap people who want a divorce on the back and shout, "Tag, you're divorced! Gentlemanly ushers will now pass among you with fresh marriage licenses."

FLIGHT.

"En los nidos de antaño
No hay pajaros hogano!"
—Don Quixote, ii., chap. lxxiv.

The spot that was encampment is empty to the sun,
And where the studded barracks stood the wheel tracks cross and run;
Forgotten as the memories of youth that gathered here,
The lodgment of their tutelage for war is their compeer.

Here days were herded frenzy and bustle to prepare
For vaguely visioned knighthood, emphrased as "over there";
Here nights were sentried vigils and watchings of the stars
That looked, unmoved, on unchanged sights: high hearts and hopes and wars.

Now less remains than even names scarce uttered this long span;
Was this a setting, once, of life? This where the road began
That ended in the Bois-le-Pretre and flaming Flirey town?
How soundless are the fields today where once men laid them down

To simulate the intervaled attack. There were some drawn
From these same fields to do the like, in earnest, at one dawn,
And there was only One, in that dread hour, to grant release.
And they, like this, are now but names; and they, like this, know peace.

THE SOLICITOR.

AFTER READING of the casualties caused by the crowds of natives trampling on each other in their mad excitement to see Gandhi, spiteful critics of the British government may say that was why he was turned loose.

ANYHOW, why can't these prohibition age murder trials be held in secret session and nothing be printed about 'em and no pictures? One of the most terrible effects of the 18th amendment is being compelled to read the newspapers with one eye in order not to skid over into the trial scenes and horrible pictures of long faced attorneys raving at the jury. But there is no thorn without its rose, as Henry VIII. said as he arranged for his next marriage after cutting off the head of one of his wives. And these trials are certainly soft picking for the sob sisters.

ADD—THIS CHANGING WORLD! Senator Moses of New Hampshire talks of the Republicans taking up the silver issue in the 1932 campaign. Bill Bryan did that, and look where it landed him and the Democratic party! The Democrats always seem to get hold of things too soon. By the time they're ripe along come the Republicans and gather 'em in.

PEACE.

This is the peace I prayed for. Little days—
Little tasks crowding on each other's heels—
Calm little pleasures, topped with measured praise,
No more unrest—no agony that steals
Out of sheer joy and tears the heart in two.
This, then, is what I prayed for. I was wrong.
Peace was not meant for me. I never knew
That quiet nights could be so long—so long!

FAIR PLAY FOR DOUGHNUTS.

THE best illustration in the dietetic field of the hound dog that people kick around is fried food. The kicking is not done by the plain people of whom, according to President Lincoln, there are so many. They go along eating fried foods and escaping indigestion. The people who constitute the great American indigestion cult do not eat them. One of their many fads is: No fried foods. They get plenty of support from the diet books, practically all of which books, as well as those of the fad variety, warn against fried foods. The best of them tell what the writers know and then they throw in a command to eat no fried foods to fill out the line.

I know of no scientific work that directly supports the anathema. Such support as there is for it is indirect. One statement is that fried foods are greasy and generally they are. It is true that fats digest slowly as compared with other foods. When the border line of indigestion is reached the break is apt to come with fats. But this argument against fried foods applies to eating butter on bread, or gravy on potatoes, or to taking cream, eggs, good meat, and many other wholesome foods.

It was claimed that food is heated to a higher temperature in frying than in any other means of cooking, and that this high temperature splits fats into fatty acids. It is true that frying raises the temperature to a higher level than does boiling, but there are few cooking procedures that do not subject food to the frying temperature at times or in part. Some of them exceed the frying temperature. If this is a valid argument it applies to most other foods.

It is claimed that in the process of frying the fat globules are broken up and the fat better coats the starch and other food materials and thus interferes with digestion. I doubt if there is truth in this. When we make a pie crust with lard and bake it, the lard gets through the flour better I think than is the case in frying a doughnut. I know of no proof of weight on this phase of the subject.

It is claimed that fried foods give an acid ash and that they are eaten with breads which also give an acid ash and the combination tends to produce one kind of acidosis. The answer is that the same argument would run against eating meat with bread, or putting butter or gravy on bread.

The indirect evidence against fried foods is not convincing. On the other hand we find that the people who go ahead and eat fried foods, in spite of all their dietetic and culinary shortcomings, have no more indigestion than those who steer clear of them. I think they have less.

WHAT SHINGLES IS.

Mrs. M. E. W. writes: I had shingles. Since then I have some pain and many queer sensations along my ribs about where the shingles was. My shingles is what Gen. Sherman said war is. Why is this disease given the name shingles?

REPLY.

The right name for shingles is herpes; when along the ribs, intercostal herpes. Shingles is slang. Running down the origin of most of the slang ingredients of the great American language presents difficulties. My guess is that it is so named because it covers a rib like a shingle covers a house. Who has a better guess?

Shingles is a form of neuralgia and the pain and queer sensations you and the other shingles subjects have are to be expected in neuralgia. Fortunately, neuralgic pains can be relieved by salicylates and winter-green and, still more fortunately, they are usually self-limited.

THIS MAN IS DESPERATE!

Chicago, March 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Will you please tell me if, in your opinion, (1) the alienation of a wife's affections by a women's club could be used as basis for a damage suit by the husband against the club with any likelihood of success, or (2) are the relatives-in-law and male rivals of the injured husband the only ones liable in such cases? A. W. N.

1. If you mean simply that she has become interested in club work to the detriment of her housekeeping activities, you would have no legal remedy. We cannot advise without knowing your facts more concretely.
2. There is no such limitation.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 12, 1915.

CHICAGO.—Butler Storke, the one time boy wizard of La Salle street and the son of Dr. Albert French Storke of Oak Park, has struck the rocks again. Miss Rose F. Holland, 1456 North Maplewood avenue, filed a praecipe for a $50,000 breach of promise suit against him.

WASHINGTON.—Ambassador Morgenthau at Constantinople cabled the state department that the British vice admiral commanding the allied fleet in front of Smyrna gave the Turkish garrison 24 hours to surrender under threat of bombardment. A wireless dispatch of the German embassy here from Berlin says that Constantinople reports that yesterday's bombardment of the Dardanelles was again unsuccessful and the position of Constantinople is still hopeful.

WASHINGTON.—A policy designed to divert any serious clash with Germany over the exploits of the German cruiser Prinz Eitel Friedrich, now at Norfolk, was decided upon by the administration. The cruiser will be allowed reasonable time to make repairs and to replenish stores, and then will be required to leave American waters or to intern until the end of the war. Meanwhile the state department will conduct a careful investigation of the action of the German commander in destroying the American sailing vessel William P. Frye and its cargo of wheat consigned from Seattle to Queenstown. Hostile warships are awaiting off Hampton Roads to attack the Eitel should it put out to sea. The cutter Anondoda has put out to enforce American neutrality laws.

CHICAGO.—The worst boiler explosion disaster since the steamer Tioga's tubes burst in the summer of 1890, killing 32 persons, occurred yesterday when a heavy boiler exploded in the Doremus laundry, 458 West Madison street. Five women and three men were killed and 39 women and 32 men were injured. The building was laid in ruins. The cause is undetermined, but Abram F. Doremus, manager of the establishment, has agreed to remain in the hands of the police temporarily, and a charge of criminal carelessness for not reporting recent repairs to the city inspector may be made against him.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah.—Both houses of the Utah legislature have passed the Evans bill granting immunity from prosecution for polygamy, and it is now in the hands of Gov. Wells. It is doubtful if he will fly in the face of the political influence of the Mormon church and veto it. The result of the measure is to let down the bars completely for polygamous marriages.

CHICAGO.—Honoré Palmer, Democratic candidate for alderman in the 21st ward, attended a masquerade ball in the North Side Turner hall and danced with a golden haired girl wearing a blue satin gown. When Mayor Harrison arrived he was seized, placed upon the bar and called upon for a speech. It was both short and pointed: He said: "What will you have?"

MANILA.—Gen. De Dios, four officers, and fifty-seven Filipino soldiers surrendered to Col. Schuyler in Luzon.

CHICAGO.—At a meeting of prominent citizens in the Palmer house held to take steps for the commemoration of the fire of 1871 a strong feeling was expressed in favor of the erection of a public library as a proper memorial, and a committee which includes Gen. Stockton, N. K. Fairbank, and James Lane Allen was appointed to organize a public meeting and to devise means for obtaining subscriptions for the library project.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Robert T. Lincoln was warmly greeted by a delegation of Illinois citizens soon after he entered upon his duties as secretary of war this morning. The principal address was made by Col. Robert Ingersoll, who paid a glowing tribute to the son of Abraham Lincoln who has been selected for such a position of high trust.

LONDON.—The Hon. Charles Grant Ogelavie, earl of Stratford, is dead.

ELGIN, Ill.—John Duby, an old and respected resident of this city, died after a long illness at the age of 70.

CHICAGO.—George Bunde of the Board of Trade died of typhoid fever. He was best known in the barley trade, with which he had been identified for the last few years.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—Chaffee's resolution for an amendment to the Illinois constitution to prevent the manufacture or sale of intoxicating liquors was defeated in the house. The proposition caught a few hare-brained individuals who would vote to submit anything to the people but didn't catch the necessary 102 votes, the vote standing, ayes 84 and nays 81.

DEPRAVITY, THEN AND NOW.

Libertyville, Ill., March 9.—The thing that gives me a violent pain in that region between my head and my shoulders is the fact that there seem to be so many people that ought to be able to remember back twenty-five or thirty years who have lost their memories. So many such folks are weeping briny tears over the effect of prohibition upon our youth. Is prohibition the cause of it all? A generation ago the saloonkeeper was confronted by a law that advised him that it was very naughty for him to sell liquor to a minor or a drunkard. A lot of saloonkeepers didn't feel that way, and they took a chance. Some got caught and had their licenses revoked. But there were bootleggers, too, so the boy and the sot got their booze.

The youthful imbibers of those days caused very little commotion. There was no wet press to herald it abroad, the boys of a generation ago had only nickels where the boys of today have dollars, and parental restraint was not a lost art and the boy of that day had a very proper respect for the head of the house.

Any one old enough to remember even twenty years back will readily recall the habits of the youth of that day and be able to compare them with the youth of today. For one thing, woman has been emancipated and the girls think now that they have as much right to drink and smoke as the boys. Besides that, there seems to be something about the generation that causes them to court publicity, where former generations sought privacy and seclusion. Try to imagine a girl of thirty years ago carrying a mess of war paint in her handbag and unlimbering the whole outfit and making-up in some public place. Or compare the diffident lovers of days gone by with the boldly staring couples we see these days in desperate clinches on park benches, doorsteps, and in cars parked at the curb. Yes, it's different. But if they like it that way, let them have it. Why [illegible] it to prohibition?

H. C. CLARK.

THE WITTBROD CASE.

Chicago, March 9.—May I call your attention to a letter in yesterday's column of the Voice of the People entitled "The Wittbrod Case"?

I desire to tell the writer of that letter through you that the cases of the lads mentioned have not been finally disposed of, and that it is contempt of court to discuss in such a manner matters that are still within the jurisdiction of the court.

Further let me say that the "mitigating circumstances" which he is so desirous of hearing are too filthy to appear in print or to transmit by word of mouth. However, the testimony was taken in shorthand and may be had.

FRANCIS B. ALLEGRETTI,
Judge, the Municipal Court of Chicago.

FOR RADIO ANNOUNCERS.

Glencoe, Ill., March 9.—E. S., in Monday's TRIBUNE, regrets the mispronunciation of Delilah by radio announcers.

I should be grateful if they would pronounce Chicago correctly. Chicago is an old Indian word that originally had the au spelling in the second syllable, She-cau-go. It should retain the au sound, as in Milwaukee, Waukegan, Waukesha, Wauconda. To call Chicago Chi-cah-go is inaccurate and it loses the fine old Indian association.

As for mispronouncing Delilah, I wish they might never, or at least for a long time, have an opportunity to use the word. For six years grand opera singers have not been able to sing anything else. "My heart at thy sweet voice" shuts off our radio every time.

Why does not some Italian tell our announcers that the letter I after G in Italian serves merely to make the G soft? Giovanni is not Gee-ovan-ni—it is Jo-vanni. W. C.

NO. 29.

Oak Park, Ill., Feb. 25.—Hooray, spring is here! Saw a robin early this morning. No wonder, with these fine days we are having! ALICE THORSEN.

MAYBE IT'S FARTHER.

Chicago, March 5.—Will some one please explain to me why the excursion rate from Chicago to Peoria over the Rock Island railroad is $5, when it is only $3.75 from Peoria to Chicago whenever there is an excursion? C. R. ROBARDS.

WHOSE FAULT?

Wilmette, Ill., March 7.—Why don't we put the blame for the wild performances of our modern young people where it belongs, on the parents, instead of hiding behind prohibition and other excuses? We parents have had those children since they were born and what have we made of them? If children do not get their standards of right and wrong from their parents early in life they will never get them.

My good old fashioned parents raised three sons and four daughters and none of them have gone wrong. We, in turn, have raised twelve young people and none of them have gone wrong, and are they likely to, the youngest being eighteen. But we have given all our time to the job. There has been no running around to dances, although we all love to dance; no drink parties or bridge clubs, although we play cards and very little time spent in reading or discussing modern literature, which is not fit for young people to read, although our homes are full of books and magazines.

May I suggest that parents spend more time with their children, both in work and play, and feel more responsible for their actions instead of blaming the wrong conduct on other factors? How parents do not even know where their children are, let alone what they are doing. L. W. I.

SCOTCH.

Chicago, March 5.—I came from Campbeltown, Scotland, which prior to the great war was one of the leading whisky making towns in the British Isles, having over thirty distilleries in constant operation. At the height of its prosperity Campbeltown sent thousands of gallons of whisky to New York every week. Today all the distilleries are idle and there are millions of gallons of whisky lying in bonded warehouses awaiting a market.

We Campbeltown folk are watching with interest the wonderful fight THE TRIBUNE is making to break down respect for the so-called law which infringes upon the natural rights of man. Without your admirable persistence we are afraid the alcohol habits of the people would have died a natural death and the rising generation would never have realized how daring, brave, and smart it is to take a hand in showing the Anti-Saloon league that it is not as powerful as it thinks it is.

All success to your campaign. In time it will be the most profitable advertising we have experienced, and the true Scottish spirit we are particularly happy in the fact that it does not cost us a cent. When you succeed in throwing off this tremendous restraint on trade, Campbeltown will benefit tremendously from the inflow of gold while your hearts will be cheered by the inflow of the finest aqua vitae in the world has ever seen, which has been maturing in the wood for years.

A CHICAGO SCOT.

A CURSE.

Round Lake, Ill., March 7.—I wish to voice a protest against the common radio singers, and singers in general, who in rendering the song "The Peanut Vender" use the two words "Chi-cane." The singers who do not know the meaning of the two words should inform themselves. Those who do should be ashamed of the way they broadcast to the world what they think of God.

There are many other Italian phrases which could be used in place of the one mentioned, which would not affect the song at all.

I do not claim to be a saint, but I have used the same two words in a fit of temper and afterwards repented them deeply. But I see no reason why they should be broadcast in song to public. VICTOR L. MCCLINTOCK.

THE UNIVERSAL DRAFT.

Grinnell, Ia., March 8.—The three great requisites for war are soldiers, labor, and wealth. Except for the first that exempts one of these and agrees to pay the other for all loss with 7 per cent interest, the proposed universal draft in case of war is a magnificent example of elementary justice. CHARLES A. MILLER.

MARSHALL FIELD & COMPANY

EX-OFFICE BOY HEADS BILLION DOLLAR GROUP

Tom Buckner Promoted by New York Life.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 11.—[Special.]—There was a luncheon up near the top of one of the buildings that stand out in the skyline of New York today at which a lot of big business men paid homage to a former office boy who grew up in the middle west. Before the luncheon was over they had made him the head of the billion dollar company which he had served for fifty-one years.

The former office boy is Thomas A. Buckner and this afternoon he was installed as president of the New York Life Insurance company, succeeding Darwin P. Kingsley, who was president of the company for twenty-four years.

Tom Buckner, as his associates call him, was born in 1865 at Bloomingdale, Ill., where his parents had moved from Kentucky to escape the depredations of guerrilla bands following the civil war. His early boyhood was spent in Independence, Mo., where he drove cows to pasture, battled the swarming armies of grasshoppers, and cultivated the kitchen garden.

Started as Office Boy at 15.

At the age of 15 young Tom started with the New York Life as an office boy in his father's agency at $20 a month, out of which he paid $15 a month for his board at home. Today he was made the head of a force of 15,000 agents and employes. Asked what he valued most in the 51 years of his business life, he answered:

"The friendships I have made."

Even as an office boy young Tom was an organizer. It was a wood sawing club that brought him his first success.

"Work is a drudgery or pleasure, according to how you go about it," said Mr. Buckner this afternoon. "One of my most disagreeable tasks was sawing and splitting wood. My friends were similarly afflicted. I decided to organize a wood sawing bee. We had a royal good time and sawed up all the wood in the neighborhood. That taught me that work can be turned from drudgery into pleasure."

Turns "No" Into "Yes."

Not content with being a good office boy and wood sawer, young Tom decided to sell insurance. He learned how to turn "no" into "yes" and when he was 21 years old he started as an agent in Ottumwa, Ia. He sold $250,000 of life insurance his first year. Such salesmanship in those days—1886—attracted the attention of the late George W. Perkins, then inspector of agencies for the New York Life at Chicago. He joined forces with Mr. Perkins and in 1890 he was sent to Wichita, where he was first cashier and then agency director.

Young Buckner doubled the Kansas business the first year and another year found him back in Chicago at the top of his business—inspector of agencies for the 12 great central states.

Mr. Buckner arrived in New York as superintendent of agencies at the age of 33 in 1898. He rose to fourth vice president, a director and then, at 38, vice president in charge of the full agency force of the company. Mr. Buckner built the company up from an annual production of two hundred million dollars to more than one billion dollars a year.

Likes Golf and Bridge.

Tom Buckner is a man of quiet, simple, democratic manner. He gets his chief pleasure in his work and family. He lives in Riverdale, the New York suburb on the Hudson, where he is the treasurer of the little church he attends.

His hobbies are his family, consisting of a wife, son, daughter, and six grandchildren. Golf, bridge, and books give him his relaxations.

DOG GIVES LIFE TO SAVE CHILD FROM 3 WOLVES

SEQUIN FALLS, Ont., March 11.—(AP)—Sport died so an 18 months old baby could live.

Three wolves crouched near the carriage of Andre Minette's baby. The dog sensed the danger, and as his master, not realizing the trouble, looked down from a distant hillside, he step by step drew the gray coated trio away from the child. Suddenly he turned and ran, the wolves howling after him.

Sport did not come back.

Mothers, Mix This At Home for a Bad Cough

You'll be pleasantly surprised when you make up this simple home mixture and try it for a distressing cough or chest cold. It takes but a moment to mix and costs little, but it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. Pour this into a pint bottle; then fill it with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. The full pint thus made costs no more than a small bottle of ready-made medicine, yet it is much more effective. It is pure, keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

This simple remedy has a remarkable three-fold action. It goes right to the seat of trouble, loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and soothes away the inflammation. Part of the medicine is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly upon the bronchial tubes and then heals inwardly to throw off the whole trouble with surprising ease.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

RIVAL WOOED AS HE PAID, SAYS COCA COLA MAN

Names Him in Reply to Woman's Suit.

New York, March 11.—[Special.]—Joseph B. Whitehead, Coca-Cola millionaire, today brought the name of Sidney Solomon, manager of the ultra-smart Central Park Casino, into the $500,000 suit of Mrs. Annette S. Bracy, Park avenue widow, in which she accuses the Coca-Cola man of breach of promise.

Last September Whitehead filed an answer to Mrs. Bracy's suit designating by their initials seven men whose conduct with the plaintiff, he said, had convinced him she would make him a far from circumspect Mrs. Whitehead if he ever had thought to confer his name upon her.

But when an inquiring Supreme court justice ordered Whitehead to name the Bracy septet in full instead of merely by their initials—Judge M. of Detroit, and so on—Whitehead decided to concentrate on Solomon.

Files New Answer.

Through his attorneys, Wellman, Smyth & Scofield, Whitehead today obtained the permission of Supreme Court Justice Philip J. McCook to serve Mrs. Bracy with a second amended answer, wherein he limns the casino manager as the heavy lover of the picture—far heavier than Whitehead himself was permitted to be, though he admittedly was paying most of the bills.

Back in 1928, the newest papers charge, and while Whitehead and Mrs. Bracy were engaged, Solomon called frequently in his absence at her apartment, sometimes remaining until the early morning hours.

"On one occasion while she was entertaining him when I called," continues Whitehead's complaint, "she sent word down to the doorman to tell me she was ill. On another I received the message that she was 'resting, under the doctor's orders.'

"And on still another I was admitted to Mrs. Bracy's apartment only after Solomon had taken his departure by way of the freight elevator. In fact, he was going down as I was being carried up in the passenger lift."

Then Three Times a Week.

In 1929, Whitehead recites, Annette and the casino manager had become so chummy that they were together as often as three times a week. Sometimes, the paper set forth, they were in Mrs. Bracy's new apartment on Park avenue, at others in Solomon's apartment in the Ritz-Carlton hotel, and on occasion they remained out all night together.

Then, too, he charges, there was a week's love tryst at the Ritz in Atlantic City (with numbers of the de luxe suite appended), and "they were seen by various witnesses while in the act of kissing and embracing."

Appellate Court Grants $8,500 for Golf Ball Blow

When a golfer slices a ball in driving, it is negligence, not an accident, according to a decision handed down yesterday by the Appellate court. The court directed Marshall Field & Co. to pay $8,500 to J. L. Francis, 38 years old, 544 Surf street. In 1928 Francis was watching Joe Kirkwood, golf professional, demonstrating his skill by driving balls into a net at the department store. Kirkwood sliced a drive and the ball struck Francis in the eye, blinding him.

"MODEL BOY" IS HELD AS SLAYER OF RICH WIDOW

Haverhill, Mass., March 11.—(AP)—Russell Noble, 17, was held without bail for the grand jury today when he was arraigned in District court for the murder of Mrs. Clara E. C. Ellis, wealthy widow, who was fatally beaten in the boudoir of her mansion two weeks ago. Efforts by counsel to bar an alleged confession of the crime failed.

The youthful Sunday school teacher and high school student, who had been regarded by the community as a model boy, appeared little concerned throughout the proceedings.

A portion of the youth's purported confession read as follows:

"On the night of Wednesday, Feb. 25, I went to the Ellis home on Summer street. I went through all the rooms downstairs searching for money. I cut the wire to the telephone in the hall. I went upstairs and searched the rooms looking for money.

"I heard a noise as though she sat up in bed. She screamed. She was about four feet away from me and she swung the lamp at me. I pushed the lamp away with my hand.

"I swung the hammer at her and hit her on the head.

"I saw a watch on a table near the head of the bed. I took the watch from the case. That is the watch I gave to Inspector Cassily.

"I left the house by the back door, threw the hammer away, went home and cut the telephone wires with a pair of nippers. I wanted to get money. I needed money because I was short in my accounts at high school and I owed $10 for my graduation pictures. I am short about $6 at the high school."

THE SIXTH JOURNEY

BY ALICE GRANT ROSMAN

SYNOPSIS.

John Palmer, a successful architect, returning home from England from Cape Town, finds Hilary Revel, author of travel books, on shipboard. During the journey home their acquaintance grows into a friendship neither wishes to end.

John tells Hilary of his daughter, Judith, born of a café singer while he was a soldier. His wife, John says, had magnanimously adopted the child. Hilary suspects such magnanimity. John's sister, Gertrude, became Judith's legal guardian when his wife died.

Hilary had taken her war-invalided brother, Hugh, away from home ten years ago to give her younger sister, Christine, and brother, Stephen, a better chance. Now that Hugh was dead, Hilary was returning home. Hilary is not met when the boat docks and John takes her to her door. Hilary's stepfather, the only sympathetic member of her family, tells her that Hugh left her his possessions in trust, to be settled on her at her marriage or to pay her an annuity at the age of forty if still single.

The next day after their return John takes Hilary to luncheon. He tells her he loves her and asks her to marry him, and Hilary accepts.

Judith leads a lonely life in her aunt's home. She has a private teacher, Miss Mead, while her cousins are away at school. Her cousin, Prue, is her only friend in her aunt's home. Her father, who knows as Uncle John. She senses she is different in some way from other children. When Aunt Gertrude hears of her brother's engagement she decides to send Judith to the country.

INSTALLMENT XVI.

A HATEFUL POSITION.

Judith would have dropped the half-crown and the packet of chocolate her aunt gave her if Miss Mead had not caught them from her listless hand. The trunk was up beside the driver, but though she had seen it packed she had no notion of what had been put in, and she had not even consciously seen the little room which in some blind way she knew she would never occupy again.

The taxi drove away, Miss Mead's arm encircling her little friend.

"I didn't see Prue," said a startled voice, speaking for the first time.

"I'll say good-by to her for you when she comes tomorrow," hastily offered Miss Mead. "I'll ask her to write to you; we'll both write and then it won't be long you'll be home again."

"I'd like her to write . . . and you too."

"Somebody must write," thought Judith in a panic, "because suppose my father came home and I didn't know?"

The favorite dream which was all that was left to her became real to the little girl, and she closed her eyes and smiled. Nothing mattered, you had only to hear things and wait. He would come home.

The father she thought of, needless to say, was no one her aunt knew, however. His name was Harris, like her own.

* * * * *

Hilary coming home from a round of shopping with Christine on Monday afternoon to learn that a Mrs. Livingstone had called to see her, did not at once identify the visitor.

"Probably one of your in-laws-elect," said Christine, "Come to look you

"I'm going to ring John up and I will not have you listening. It is indecent. Now mind!"

over, in which case, old thing, it was as well you were out, because I must dress you for the part."

"I believe it must be John's sister."

"Mrs. Livingstone!" Christine surveyed the name and address with a saucy eye. "Oldish or youngish?"

"Middle-ish, I imagine."

"Something very ravishing then, to put her in her place . . . not too daring, but dreadfully expensive." Christine was in her element. "You see, Hilary, you have a soigne look I'd give my ears for, but your expression is much too unsophisticated. Now, I could tackle a Mrs. Livingstone far better than you ever will."

Hilary laughed.

"How do you know the poor woman will need to be tackled?"

"From John and his reactions to you. It's quite amusing to watch him. Every time you laugh with him or at him he looks like a kid who has been given a plum. I'll bet his family never let him have any plums, in case he got a tummy-ache, poor lamb . . . for he is a lamb. You were clever to get him."

"And you are clever, but you are a little horror none the less," declared Hilary indignantly.

"But, precious, where would you be without me? You need guidance," declared Christine.

Hilary pushed her into the drawing room and closed the door upon her, saying:

"I am going to ring John up and I will not have you listening. It is indecent. Now mind!"

A shout of laughter answered her.

Rather reluctantly she had told the family of her engagement, because there seemed no other way of explaining her continual absences. John wanted her every moment he was free, and she could not bear to fail him. He was filled with a wistful wonder that love could be so sweet.

They took the news much as might have been expected. Mrs. Ferguson, dismayed at the importance of a wedding at one moment, bewailed herself the next that Hilary could leave them so soon. She had forgotten that she had regarded her daughter as a transitory guest and was now convinced she would be lost without her. Stephen borrowed £5 from Hilary on the strength of the engagement; and Christine, within two minutes of meeting Falconer, called him "John" [though Hilary still found it difficult] because in her code, anything else would have been coy.

To her stepfather alone she gave any real confidence. He knew Falconer by reputation, and having invited him to luncheon at his club, admitted himself favorably impressed.

"A widower, you say? . . . Any children, my dear?" he asked Hilary that night, and then, at her hesitation because she was stupidly unprepared, "the question is shelved. I asked merely from a sense of fellow feeling. The stepparent business is a heavy trial, believe me."

"Father, you are a perfect liar. I must take some lessons from you," she declared gratefully. "John's wife had no children. I believe she was very lonely and he adored her, but I am not jealous. It doesn't even seem to matter. And we are going to begin life as a thoroughly irresponsible couple."

When she repeated this conversation to Falconer, he exclaimed at once:

"Of course you must tell him if you wish . . or shall I?"

"Good gracious, no. We are not living in the reign of Victoria and Albert, and father would be embarrassed to death."

"I like your father. He is a fine chap, and I want you to tell him what pleases you," said John. "Do you think it matters to me who knows, my darling, since you do and understand? If you knew what a relief it has been to talk it over frankly and openly . . . I've felt a perfect hound, skulking . . ."

"Behind a woman's skirts," she thought instantly. "My poor old John, why couldn't they have let you keep your secret decently?" But aloud, she merely said:

"Of course. You were in a hateful position. However, father won't remember the subject and I have a feeling everybody talks too much. I was a fool and should have been prepared."

Hilary left it there and to the other members of the family she denied him almost coyly.

"How many do you propose to have?" inquired Christine at once. "I should advise two."

Finding Falconer on the telephone after Mrs. Livingstone's visit, Hilary found her conjecture had been right. Gertrude had called at his office after leaving Cromwell road, and hoped he and Miss Revel would dine with her on Tuesday night.

"I suppose we had better get it over, hadn't we?" he asked. "A quiet family dinner . . . simply ourselves."

"Of course, we must . . . I shall like that," Hilary assured him, thinking of the little girl. "I am naturally rather alarmed, but you have run the gantlet of my family."

"And never turned a hair."

"I'm not sure you haven't turned Christine's head, though. She thinks me a fine fellow and has been spending my money at a terrible pace for the occasion."

"Bless it, he says," was his reply to that.

* * * * *

As the taxi carried them to Wandsworth Common on Wednesday evening, Hilary thought:

"What a waste this is when we might be dining alone or driving into the country. I wonder why we do it."

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Now comes that outstanding figure of Moviedom, Mr. Charles Spencer Chaplin, with "City Lights," his Silent Challenge to the talkies!

For two years, solid as a rock amid the onrush to the gold fields of the dialogue films, the world's funniest little man has stood adamant — a human guide post pointing the other way. To the pantomime that gave birth to his popularity, he has remained true. His the attitude that the discovery of a new continent never has interfered with the truth that an old world continues to exist—rich in tradition, heritage and accomplishment.

"I will stay in the vineyards of my fathers," quoth Mr. Chaplin, "and SEE if the world will not continue to drink my wine."

One assumes that the world will—after sampling "City Lights."

IS the picture on the United Artists' screen the rosy dawn of an epoch that shall see our silver sheets filled with wordless wonders? You answer. I don't know. I can only tell you that it is great entertainment and that, during its making, there must have hung placarded before the workers' eyes Michael Angelo's famous saying:

"Trifles make perfection; and perfection is no trifle."

This photoplay is ludicrous—but it is logical. Much that happens wouldn't be likely to happen—but COULD. Of course, the whistle episode is pretty—hard to swallow.

This and the prize fight scene in which Charlie gets all tangled up in a rope attached to the gong utilize sound—but Mr. Chaplin has never objected to sound. Only dialogue. He, himself, wrote the musical score that haunts "City Lights" like a gentle and whimsical ghost.

The metropolis of the story is a modern one, and, yet, it is as old as the first Chaplin comedies, and, somehow, as unreal as a dream. Sets and interiors and parties thrown are reminiscent of all the movies this comedian has ever made. Familiar faces greet you, too!

Harry Myers is there—the Eccentric Millionaire, who, in his cups, can't draw a happy breath without hish ol' fren' Charlie, and, sober, doesn't know there is such a person. Hank Mann's are the fists inside the gloves that work their spell on the little clown! "City Lights" is a new movie—but it will seem like Old Home Week to the faithful.

It would be fun to tell you the quaint, Dickens-y story of the Tramp and the Blind Flower Girl who meet on a City Corner—but I won't.

Mr. Chaplin's scenes with Virginia Cherrill [lovely little thing!] are sheer pathos: more effective because of the uprearious interludes in the story of the strange romance of the two. The closing tableau is one of the most pitifully beautiful finales ever screened. It is, perhaps, to be regretted that in a number of places the star has stooped to acts that may offend some of his more conservative admirers.

"City Lights" will never, I opine, drive the talkies out of the temples, but its enthusiastic reception proves that there is room—and a welcome—for good silent productions.

For pantomime is eloquent in any tongue, and is understood by all peoples, of all ages, of all classes, and of all time.

Chaplin Gets Ready for Spanish Trip at Own Party.

BERLIN, March 11.—(AP)—Charlie Chaplin, whose European itinerary will include a visit to Spain to study the pantomime of the matador, participated today in a mock bull fight, killing the "bull" before the delighted eyes of the guests at a private party.

This morning the forbidding red brick police headquarters endured more excitement than it has seen in months as a crowd of the clown's admirers followed him on an inspection tour.

Seeks $2,000,000; Charges That O'Neill Plagiarized Her Book

000,000 damages. She charges the O'Neill play written in 1925, was copied from her book, "The Temple of Pallas Athene," written in 1919 and copyrighted in 1924. She said she showed it to the Theater Guild, which later produced "Strange Interlude," and to Boni & Liveright, which later published the O'Neill play as a book.

Her attorneys, Daniel F. Cohalan and Charles Firestone, have prepared extensive lists of passages, claiming for them a similarity which might prove copying.

The first tilt arose when Miss Lewys, slender and red haired, was the first witness and was shown a résumé of her book, supplied by the Theater Guild, as submitted by her in February, 1925.

Attorney Walter Schwartz, for the Guild, handed the paper to Attorney Cohalan, and he passed it on to Miss Lewys.

"This is not from me," she shot back at Schwartz. "I never saw this before in my life."

Still on guard, she went on with her testimony before U. S. Judge John M. Woolsey, as to a more extensive "synopsis of dramaturgy" which she had sent to Courtenay Lemon, playreader for the Guild, after writing him a letter about it on Feb. 2, 1925.

"This letter here," Schwartz said, handing her a paper. "Is it the letter you wrote Mr. Lemon?"

She glanced at it.

"It's a forgery!" she shouted.

Objections! "Strike it from the record!" Apologies!

"No, let it stand," insisted Schwartz as an afterthought.

He borrowed from her attorneys a carbon copy of the original letter which she had written. They seemed to be identical. She grew more calm.

Arthur Garfield Hays, speaking for the publishers, advanced the theory that the major points of similarity contained in the complaint dealt with ideas which were not subject to copyright.

The main theme in Miss Lewy's book was certainly not original, he added, since the theme occurred in Greek and Roman literature and came up in definite form in every generation.

Lent Day by Day

PRAYER.

The Rt. Rev. H. P. Almon Abbott
Episcopal bishop of Lexington, Ky.

God is ever good and bountiful. He desires to shower upon us all that He has to give. The poverty of our spiritual lives arises from the fact that we do not come to Him and ask that we may receive.

To the general run of Christians prayer is supposed to be a means employed by man to wring favors from the hands of God. God is, apparently, not altogether willing to give us things that we most desire, the things that we have reason to believe would redound to our material or spiritual betterment, and He must be importuned in season and out until His will is brought into harmonious accord with our will. In other words, prayer is an instrument to be used for changing of God's relation to us rather than changing our relation to God.

Such a conception of prayer is unsound. God is the same yesterday, today and forever. He is above the fluctuating impulses of mortality, for He is immortal. He is superior to the whims and moods of time. No prayer on our part may prevent haphazardness—for there is in Him no haphazardness to prevent. His desire for our deepest happiness never wavers. His capacity for goodness is undiviated and unalloyed with any touch of beneficence.

Prayer is neither more nor less than the changing of our relation to God—the getting above the mists and impediments of earth to His nearer presence; it is coming out of the dungeon of personal isolation where we have fretted and repined in the darkness. Prayer is coming to Him that we may possess life; possess it in the abundance which He has ever to bequeath.

Nation Employs 89,000 Women; More Pay Asked

Leader Complains Men Get Better Jobs.

Washington, D. C., March 11.—(AP)—Though she gave the federal government credit for greatly advancing women in business, Miss Mary Anderson, women's bureau chief, told an audience tonight discriminations against women still were common in government service.

Miss Anderson, inaugurating business women's week, said the government was the largest single employer of women, having 89,000 on the pay roll.

She pronounced competitive civil service the "veritable seven league boot stride" which brought business women into federal fields after Jennie Douglas, snipper of paper currency, opened the "barred door" in 1862.

"By taking examinations, women could at last give definite proof of their ability to hold certain jobs," she said.

She told of other legislative advances up to what she termed "a completing step in women's magna charter, the classification act of 1923 which stipulated men and women must receive equal pay for equal work."

She detailed, however, "a gray and depressing side to the picture."

"Despite the laws and rulings in favor of women, despite their ability and years of efficient service, nevertheless, when promotions and appointments are made, discrimination against women still is common.

There are less women in the higher salary groups than their numbers in the service would indicate as proportionate, she said, adding:

"Equal opportunity for women and men in government service should be not only a clause in the statute books, but a reality, guaranteeing a better chance for women to render the high quality of service that many of them are now prepared to give, and insuring a greater probability of their entrance into the higher paid positions."

Find Jewish King's Slab; Says 'He Reigned Mightily'

JERUSALEM, Palestine, March 11.—(AP)—The first inscription ever found containing mention of the tomb of any king of Judah, tribe of Israel, has been discovered by Dr. M. Sukenik, archeologist at the Hebrew university. It is on a limestone slab found in a collection of antiquities belonging to the Russian ecclesiastical mission. The four line Aramaic inscription refers to the burial place of Uzziah, who "reigned mightily" from 779 to 739 B. C.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

THE Goodman theater has undertaken an experiment in expressionism [the famous brainstorm species of drama invented in Germany by Georg Kaiser], and in now offering Elmer Rice's "The Adding Machine," first staged by the Theater Guild in 1923. This production is Chicago's first glimpse of a play that ranks as a curiosity of the modern American stage, and attendance upon it is distinctly in order, if your hobbies include keeping abreast with the theatrical times.

Defined in the simplest terms, "The Adding Machine" is a dramatic freak. Described according to the older vocabulary of criticism, it is a satiric fantasy. It deals, in a subjective and phantasmagoric manner, with the body and soul of an obscure bookkeeper, who represents the author's idea of the average petty American. He is a white collar drudge, his name is Mr. Zero; he murders his employer when he is discharged after twenty-five years of service; he is hanged; and then he goes dragging on, the same pitiful, limited, ignorant Mr. Zero, through various adventures in the realms of the spirit. There, in outline, you have the story element of "The Adding Machine."

I have no quarrel with expressionism. It is a form of drama which offers fascinating opportunities for stagecraft, and the Goodman theater rises to them, in this production, with interesting technical results. I insist, however, that expressionism, is a method of authorship in which the writer, more or less unconsciously, psychoanalyses himself. If he has a great soul, you are likely to get a great play out of his full imaginative release. If not, the result is likely to be a cheap and depressing muddle. Expressionism, therefore, may be safely attempted only by poets and philosophers.

In "The Adding Machine" Elmer Rice reveals himself as neither poet nor philosopher, and not much of an ironist. He is nearly always feeble, and in several passages he is decidedly cheap. Now and then he achieves a brief moment of pungent dramatic effect.

There is a crawling, clammy note in his constant allusions to the frustrated sex-life of Mr. Zero; there is a kind of soap-box radicalism in his social satire; there is a tone of the village heretic in his references to religious codes. The fifth scene, placed in a graveyard, is probably the silliest stretch of writing ever contributed by an adult to the American stage. It is dull sophomorism gone goofy.

So after a session with "The Adding Machine" I cannot grant Mr. Rice, who is often an excellent playwright, a license to perform in the expressionistic style. Naturalism is where he belongs, as "Street Scene" proves; and if he writes plays without trying to think for the rest of his life, I will be satisfied. The dreams of Mr. Rice do not please me. Observed facts are apparently his field; but in the subjective drama he betrays a lack of vocation.

Harry Mervis gives an excellent performance of the high-lighted role of Mr. Zero. This young actor is winning a place on anybody's list of the most versatile Thespians. Katherine Krug gets a quality of charm into the role of the office spinster in her scene on the Elysian Fields with the late Mr. Zero that is of value to Mr. Rice's reputation as a writer of fantasy.

'What, He Won't Eat Spinach?' 'Don't Offer It!'

Uncle Sam Tells How to Bring Up Willie.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

If Junior howls when spinach is set before him, if he prefers not to eat at all rather than to eat spinach, if he is immune to the plea that he should eat spinach, because it has lots of lovely vitamins—then the thing to do is not to give him spinach.

When mothers in adult classes in home economics present problems of nonspinach eating offspring and ask for guidance, teachers should tell them to give their children something else that has as many vitamins, but a different taste. At least so Miss Birdie Vorhies said yesterday.

Miss Vorhies, state supervisor of home economics education for the University of Nebraska, addressed the fourteenth annual midwestern conference of state supervisors and teacher trainers in home economics, called by the federal board for vocational education. The conference was held in the Hotel Sherman.

Other questions put to teachers of adult classes by young mothers who are trying to learn to cook, in the experience of Miss Vorhies, follow:

"Everyone admires my cooking. My husband says I can turn out biscuit such as his mother never did make. Why is it, then, that my boy won't put on any weight? He eats enough, but he won't get fat."

"How can you tell quality in men's clothes? I buy all my husband's things and two months ago I went with him and helped him choose a suit. It was so becoming, and it just looked beautiful for a few weeks. Then, suddenly, it simply went to pieces. The salesman said it would not become shiny. Within six weeks it glittered so that you could have used it for a mirror."

"We spent at least $200 more on our living room furnishings than Mrs. Brown did on hers. Every time I come back from her house, after a bridge party or something, though, our parlor seems in contrast as if it had been lifted bodily from the bargain basement. Is my taste bad, or missing or what? Haven't I the home making genius?"

Old style domestic science classes taught girls how to make fudge and how to boil eggs and little else, Miss Vorhies said. Sewing classes gave instructions in basting and stitching, putting on bias and making selvage edges, but no mention was made of line or color. Girls are now taught what is the right kind of breakfast and how to prepare it, what colors combine well and how to make a costume have style and individuality.

Cooking classes for boys in the University of Nebraska are patronized by youths eager to learn to cook and serve a meal, Miss Vorhies declared.

U. OF C. PRAISED BY PRESIDENT OF DARTMOUTH

President Ernest Martin Hopkins of Dartmouth college, speaking before 300 Dartmouth alumni at the Blackstone hotel last night, complimented President Hutchins and the University of Chicago for the courage shown in attempting the new educational plan which is to be instituted at the Midway next fall.

"The University of Chicago is an example of what American colleges are going to have to do to justify their foundations," said President Hopkins. "We are indebted to them for showing us the way."

At the speakers' table last night were President Hutchins, William A. Dyche, business manager of Northwestern university, and Mal. Edward D. Radington of Evanston, who is 91 years old and the oldest Dartmouth graduate in Illinois. L. E. Lazarus, president of the Dartmouth Alumni Association of Chicago, acted as toastmaster.

In an interview earlier in the day President Hopkins declared that college students should not be condemned for drinking when the practice is prevalent in the world outside. He described as unfair the assumption that the students should operate on a different code of morals from that on which the world outside the college operates.

Ducks, Marshes Benson's Forte in This Show

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

An exhibition chiefly for men is this of paintings, water colors, and oils by Frank W. Benson, which has just opened in the Carson Pirie Scott galleries. Chiefly for men because Mr. Benson paints those things dear to a man's heart, ducks and marshes, salmon fishing, and swift waters. Probably Frank W. Benson fills a position today in contemporary art second to none in the type of painting that delights him. In etching he stands supreme among those who portray wild ducks in flight or at rest. There are a group of etching in the present show and they round out beautifully the larger pictures on the walls of the first room.

Perhaps because this is the first Benson exhibit of any proportions to be held in Chicago for several years the paintings and water colors claim the most of our attention. One stunning canvas of two eagles high on a tree has already been purchased and shipped away. Before these other paintings escape our reach we should see them. They are well worth a visit. "Gaffing a Salmon" is the quivering moment of triumph in a fight with that sportiest of fish. The men are rather calm, the salmon exhausted, but the scent of danger is there and the thrill of excitement caught by the still bodies of the men among the flurry and cascade of the river.

In "River in Flood" it is the far distance that captures one's imagination. The river runs down from a far point that breaks between hills to slip imperceptibly into a summer sky. In the foreground two men are busy with a canoe. "Gunner's Shanty" is a quiet space, a lonely marsh purple and gray in shadow with the stiff reeds like black quills erect in the shallow water. A gray sky presses close and a feeling of intimate, infinite silence broods over the waiting house. "Ducks at Dawn" is a more familiar composition, the birds lifting heavily into the morning air.

Among the water colors those of great brilliancy and charm are "Gulls and Sea," "Flying Grouse," "A Pool on the York," "A New England Winter," and "Towering Widgeon"; nor must you miss "Putting Out Decoys." The exhibit will continue to March 27.

New Airplane Light Tested; Casts Beam for About Five Miles

Cleveland, O., March 11.—(AP)—Projection of light from a bulb only about five or six times larger than the ordinary tungsten lamp used in the home, so that a person five miles away is able to read a newspaper by its rays, was demonstrated here tonight.

The demonstration was conducted by W. A. Pennow, airport and airway lighting engineer with the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, here during a meeting of the Electrical league of Cleveland.

Urges Young Artists to "Begin Recitals at the Second Number"

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Listening to George Seaberg's piano recital at Kimball hall last night, there was a sudden desire to evolve a set of rules for similar affairs. The first might be something to the effect that young artists in general should be discouraged from playing their first number.

Mr. Seaberg began with Saint-Saens' transcription of the ballet airs from Gluck's "Alceste," known as the Caprice and Fugue. He made somewhat heavy going of it, quite apart from the fact that it is just as well to omit the fugue in a concert performance. But by the time he approached the second number, Edward MacDowell's "Sonata Erotica," he was quite a different person. Here he was poised, alert, and with quite an unusual gift for projecting the varying moods of this work, which MacDowell apparently based upon the Arthurian legends.

So, as the first number of a program exists mainly for the purpose of getting command of unquiet nerves, it might as well be left out. Mr. Seaberg went on from MacDowell to a group of contemporaries and concluded with three Liszt pieces. He has marked talent and he has had good training, which has gone to the point where he is able to express himself as an interpretative personality. The ability is none too common.

How New Yorkers Shop in Catacombs at Hudson Terminal

New York, March 11.—(AP)—Radio is extending the area of New York's "catacombs."

Before the announcement that the $250,000,000 "radio city," planned for uptown Gotham, would contain not only a city in the clouds, but another under the ground, New York already had quite a city beneath the surface of the earth.

It is now possible to buy almost anything except a house and lot without coming to the surface. Carpenters' tools, clothing, flowers, groceries, shoes, shaves, hair cuts, tobaccos, ice cream sodas, toys—all may be had in the labyrinth of shops that make up the underground city in the Hudson river terminal downtown, connecting with the subway and the Hudson river tubes, leading to Jersey.

This largest of the "catacomb" cities on Manhattan, up to now, has two levels and as many shops and stores as a good sized mid-western county seat. It covers the area beneath two whole city squares.

Soothes restless, wakeful CHILD

THERE are times when a baby is too fretful or feverish to be sung to sleep. There are some pains a mother cannot pat away. But there's no time when any baby can't have the quick comfort of Castoria! A few drops, and your little one is soon at ease—back to sleep almost before you can slip away.

Remember this harmless, pure vegetable preparation when children are ailing. Don't stop its use when Baby has been brought safely through the age of colic, diarrhea, and other infantile ills. Give good old Castoria until your children are in their teens! Whenever coated tongues tell of constipation; when there's any sign of sluggishness, just give them a more liberal dose. Castoria is so pleasant-tasting; all children love to take it.

It's False Economy to Scrimp on Food to Spend on Beauty

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

It's news, these days, when a young man reports about a fair escort of the evening that "she eats like a horse." More a news item than a chivalric one, to be sure—but young men do talk, which probably works out O. K., for if the girl is a "regular" she's advertised by word of mouth and her date book is better crowded as a result.

But the tale in connection with the girl with the omniverous appetite has another side. About the only time she ate heartily was when she got some man to pay for it. Her own spending money went into silk stockings, manicures, marcels, makeup, her room rent, breakfast, clothes, and such living expenses as a young person on a not large salary has to contend with. Luncheons she had learned to do without, or managed to eke out the busy afternoon on a glass of milk and a roll, or a doughnut.

Well, it's one of the problems of the young woman on a limited salary. She has to look snappy or she sits at home alone, she argues, as she parts with a lonely two-fifty for another pair of fragile hose, or decides that a facial may remove the shadows of undernourished facial tissue, and a marcel had better be arranged for, somehow.

We elders can't be overcritical, for we're no trying to wrest romance from a life harried by unavoidable living expenses. But this same young woman about whom an omniverous appetite was advertised is a grossly undernourished young person. Possibly the disperser of the appetite news was chagrined that one so slight could put away so much food.

Still, some girls manage to budget their food and their beautifying expenses better. Perhaps they're just wise enough to realize that more wisdom applied to the day's three-meal intake means less beautifying expense. It works that way, anyway. And they should realize it.

So much can be done for oneself at home, providing one has the energy to do it—but you don't have the energy unless you've had the food to create it. Neither are you going to have the stamina to progress on the job and earn more money if you don't eat properly.

Reducing is the alibi used by some of the food economists. But reducing below a certain weight point is no contribution to beauty. Neither is a nature worn thin on the nerve edges going to make awfully attractive evening companionship.

BRITISH DEATH RATE LOWEST EVER, SO POPULATION GROWS

LONDON, March 11.—(AP)—Figures of the English registrar general, published today, reveal the population of England and Wales as increasing faster than ever.

Last year had the lowest death rate on record in the two countries and the increase in population by excess of births over deaths was 194,033. It was the decrease in the death rate rather than an increase in the birth rate which made for increase in population, the birth rate being the same as in 1929, 16.3 per thousand, which was the lowest ever recorded.

The death rate was 11.4, or two below 1929 and .2 below 1923 and 1926, which represented the previous lowest figures. The infant mortality rate was 60 per thousand, also the lowest figure ever recorded.

Hair Pulling Aids Scalp, Cavemen Promote Beauty

New York, March 11.—(AP)—Hair pulling is great stuff for the scalp, say the girls who are demonstrating it at the international convention of beauty shop owners, which opened yesterday. The most beautiful heads of hair, the shop owners explained, grew on the heads of cave women.

Alumnae of Bryn Mawr Plan Benefit

BY THALIA

ALREADY plans for post-Lenten social affairs are being made. The Bryn Mawr Alumnae are deep in preparations for a theater benefit, to take place on Monday evening, April 6. They've taken the entire main floor and three rows of the balcony for the second night of Frank Craven's play "That's Gratitude," at the Blackstone, and hope thereby to clear a tidy amount for their regional scholarship fund.

Mrs. Anson Cameron is chairman of the committee, other members of which are Mrs. McDoel Wyman, Mrs. Julius Soames, Mrs. Edwin P. Dewes, Mrs. Leonard Karcher, Mrs. Francis Strauss, Mrs. Alexander Kirk, and Mrs. Cyrus Marks. Invitations to subscribe will go into the mail this week. The young women now in school will be at home for spring vacation at the time of the benefit, and a group of them are to usher.

Another after-Easter party is the annual benefit dinner-dance given for the Lower north community council. The nucleus of the committee met for the first time at Walter Frazier's apartment on Tuesday afternoon and decided on April 17 for the date. Mr. Frazier is general chairman, Mrs. Adlai Stevenson and Ruth Elting constitute the committee on arrangements, and Mrs. Ambrose Cramer is to "do" the publicity. The type of party it's to be and the other details have not been decided on yet.

The Tavern's April Fooleries has been set for Monday night, April 27, and will be at the Goodman, as it was last year. Arthur Bissell is chairman of the committee that's working hard and meeting a couple of times a week to think up as good an entertainment as the first one, and his cohorts are George L. Dickson, Walter Frazier, John Wentworth, William and Preston Boyden, John R. Winterbotham Jr., Bill Welsh, James Weber Linn, Alfred Shaw, Frank Breckinridge, Hubert Osborne, Leonard M. Barker and Alfred MacArthur.

Still more dates and data — the Junior league's second-hand sale at 355 North Michigan avenue, being conducted by the provisional members, takes place today. . . . The American Friends of China have sent out invitations for an illustrated lecture on "Chinese Gardens," by Florence Ayscough of Shanghai, China, at the Arts club on Tuesday afternoon, March 24, at 4 o'clock. . . . That's the same day that the Vocational society for shutins is having a sale and program at the Bendix galleries. . . . The second of the riding exhibitions being held at Fort Sheridan by Gen. MacCloskey and the post officers is to be a week from Saturday, and the patrons and patronesses of the Fort Sheridan Horse Show association are to be the invitees.

Mrs. Albert J. Bates Jr., chairman of the women's committee for the South Shore Country club follies, tells me that 125 people turned out for the first rehearsal, and they've had wires from New York and Florida from a lot of others who will be back in time to participate in the performances on March 27 and 28. So many of the youngsters wanted to be in the show that a "Nobody under 15 years old" rule had to be instituted.

Some of the South Shore favorites who are to appear include Hank Pauiman Jr., Constance Rountree, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Jones, Betty Croft, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Pace, Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Huffaker and Mrs. Pope Dodge. Features of the revue will be a musical comedy sketch, a courtroom scene, a jungle number in which 32 dancing maidens will appear, and a specialty tap dance number by the students in Virginia Hall Johnson's classes.

The Association of Arts and Industries announces the second of its series of dinners and lectures on modern art, to take place next Thursday evening at the Blackstone. Richard J. Neutra, A. I. A., Z. V., is to give the address of the evening on "Modern Architecture an Industrial Art." Mr. Neutra knows whereof he speaks, too. He is head of the architectural school of the Academy of Modern Art in Los Angeles and has "recently been conducting courses in new architecture in the famous Bauhaus in Dessau, whence he was called to exert an American influence on this protagonist school," in the words of the explanatory literature about him. His all steel and shot concrete residence in Hollywood, overhanging a suspended swimming tank, with open air theater, gymnastics court, etc., was celebrated as America's contribution to the world movement in new architecture.

You might be interested to learn . . . that Miss Emily Larned gave a luncheon party for 30 at the Arts club yesterday in honor of Burton Holmes, Robert Lee Eskridge, and Ald. James Breckinridge Waller of the 43d ward . . . that Princess Cantacuzene didn't go east to visit her mother as she had planned, because she is so engrossed with her new work at Isabella Barclay, Inc.

Jack and Jill Players.

The Jack and Jill Players' performance of "The Children's Show Boat" will be given this week on Sunday, instead of Saturday, March 14, as previously planned, it was announced last night. The performance will be held at the Chicago Woman's Club theater, 62 East 11th street. All other plays will be presented on Saturday afternoons.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., March 11.—[Special.]—President and Mrs. Hoover gave a small dinner tonight in the White House.

Vice President Curtis, who is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Albert D. Lasker at Miami, Fla., was given a dinner last night by Mr. and Mrs. John Golden of New York. The Vice President will return here at the end of this week.

The German ambassador and Frau von Prittwitz und Gaffron gave a luncheon today at the embassy in honor of Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the Graf Zeppelin. He arrived here today for a brief visit.

Mrs. R. P. Lamont, wife of the secretary of commerce, and their daughter, Miss Gertrude Lamont, are spending this week in New York. Miss Lamont returned here the end of last week after spending several days with her sister, Mrs. Chauncey Belknap, in New York.

Word was received here of the marriage today in Turin, Italy, of the air attaché of the Italian embassy, Commander Paolo Sbernadori, to Signorina Magda Bellinggardi, in the bride's home. The bridegroom left Washington the middle of last month for Italy and will return here early next month with his bride.

Miss Irene Henry of Leon, Ia., is at the Dodge hotel for a short visit.

FLORENCE ROSS. LAWRENCE OLIPHANT. ESTELLE ENGLEHARDT. JACK PARKINSON.

The annual senior dance of Northwestern university will be given at the Drake hotel tomorrow evening. One wing of the grand march will be led by Florence Ross, senior social chairman, and Lawrence Oliphant, senior class president, the other by Estelle Englehardt and Jack Parkinson. Other members of the committee in charge are Katherine Blair, Josephine Fawcett, Elinor Massen, Helen Ryerson, Grace Shinnick, Margaret Smith, Esther Sprenger, Bernard Cohn, Wharton Hock, George Loveless, Oliver Rogers, Lew Taggett, and Howard Wascow.

"Why Suffer INDIGESTION," Asked her physician

"Gas and 'sour' stomach can now be corrected without the use of burning, irritating soda, or vicious, habit-forming cathartics."

Calcium Carbonate, (2½ times as effective as soda) in tablet form, is the ideal anti-acid: sure, swift and positive in its relief, yet safe in its use. It is the only remedy which does not upset the acid equilibrium of the body and is incapable of over-dosage.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are Calcium Carbonate in its best and most convenient form, blended with other valuable substances. That's why we urge their use as the only kind for children, and best for men and women.

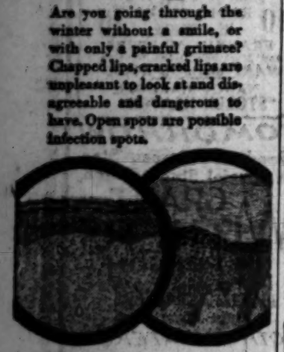
"DON'T MAKE ME LAUGH—

My lips are split"

Are you going through the winter without a smile, or with only a painful grimace? Chapped lips, cracked lips are unpleasant to look at and disagreeable and dangerous to have. Open spots are possible infection spots.



The skin of the lip — Note lack of granular cells between tissues and thin outer covering.

The skin of the palm — This shows deep granular layer between tissues, and thick outer skin.

Keep your lips sound, healthy, attractive. The thin membrane of the lips demands protection from cold, wind, heat or light. Spread a thin film of Roger & Gallet's Lip Pomade (white) over them before retiring or exposure and give them the aid they need. This is a pure, colorless emollient in convenient stick form, used for over 43 years by people of all ages for lip-protection and comfort. Physicians order it for chapped or fevered lips. Get one today at the nearest druggist for 25 cents and prevent those painful conditions. Women find it a perfect protective foundation under colored lipsticks.

Husband's Conduct Casts Cloud Over a Long, Happy Union

BY DORIS BLAKE.

I've been married nearly thirty years, and have one child married and living in a distant state. My husband and I have lived happily until six or seven years ago, when I found out another woman had come into his life.

"It has caused many bitter quarrels between us, but nothing changes the situation. I don't know that he ever takes her out, but he visits her nearly every night and doesn't deny his relations with the girl. She is single and has borne a bad reputation for years.

"My husband is a good provider. I have everything I ask for for the house and for my personal wants. He has his car and I have mine. He makes no objections to my going on trips for a few days or a week, and seems glad when I come home."

"Still I am unhappy, and care nothing for him. Now, my question is, do you think I would be justified in leaving him? I have no money of my own, but I am sure I could support myself.—T. M. J."

Let's take up this subject of supporting yourself first. Can you? In what way? Perhaps you can. Perhaps you have an unusual talent. But few women are in a position, after thirty years of marriage, to go out into the cold world of business untrained and get more to do than the most menial and poorest paying of jobs. I grant there are exceptions—but they are few and far between, and these usually are in a business of their own, or are capitalizing on a distinct talent that has not been let to lie idle during the thirty years of marriage.

The sheltered existence of the average, well circumstanced woman does not equip her for competition outside of her home. And it seems to me that after thirty years she has earned the right to the privilege of further protection in the home.

These "other women" situations have me stumped. But they are no novelty, and I don't know but the woman is wiser who blinds her eyes to an unbreakable liason and makes the best of the things that are hers. It's all right to talk about your pride and your self-respect, but that stuff is pretty hard to support on the meager income an untrained worker gets.

And there's always the chance that the "affair" will run its course, and the man return of his own free will. Also, it is doubtful if any woman married to a man who has been generous with her for thirty years ever truly reaches the state of "caring nothing for him."

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Accept the Apology.

"Dear Miss Blake: My girl friend and I broke off. Recently she wrote a letter of apology. Should I make up with her again? TEDDY."

That's for you to decide, but if you still like her, why not accept her apology?

Georgette Ensemble Worn by an Actress

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Printed georgette ensembles and plain georgette suits are forecasted as big afternoon successes in the spring collections. They were launched by Molyneux in his Palm Beach collection and it is reported that the American buyers fell upon them with (we'll hope silent) whoops of joy.

American women are sure to like these georgetta costumes, for they are just the thing for our real, honest-to-goodness summers, and besides that, they'll be 100 per cent Paris chic this year.

Molyneux created a raft of costumes especially for Miss Gertrude Lawrence to wear both on the stage and in her "private life" during the New York run of Noel Coward's London success, "Private Lives."

Molyneux assures me that these costumes indicate his future trend. The afternoon ensemble, sketched today, is one of the most successful effects of Miss Lawrence's effective stage "trousseau." It's in lacquer red and pale beige figured georgette.

The sleeveless frock is delightfully simple. The skirt is plain in back. In front it bursts into circular fullness on either side of the plain front panel, which is cut into an effect of a hip yoke. The back of the bodice is prolonged into two ends that tie in a bow in front, forming a draped belt.

The plain, short coat has a becoming collar of creamy beige fox.

Destructive Child Improves with Proper Management

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"A Play Booklet" will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

This letter is one of a group that all voice just about this sort of difficulty.

"My dear Mrs. Bevans: Some time ago I wrote you for advice regarding one of my children and you graciously made some suggestions. Now I have another problem and I am wondering if you can possibly shed some light on it, or refer me to some books dealing with such problems.

"My boy, John, is 4 and quite spoiled by his aunt, who takes care of him. The particular trait that is giving us trouble at the present time is destructiveness. He had a train, with which he was not content until he had smashed it to pieces. He bangs everything, why I do not know, but have sense enough to realise that it might be for other reasons than just to destroy.

"My sister holds one opinion and one only, and that is destructiveness. Unfortunately, she has sole charge of him and I am afraid is incapable of training him differently, but I am going to make other plans for the boy to relieve her of his care. With tractors belonging to his cousins, John simply had to pull off the rubber tires, and try to break the other parts, and so it is with all his toys.

"He seems too young to be given tools, although I believe that might help, and so I am asking you if you know of any specific methods for handling this particular trait."

The answer:

As you described the situation I should say that John's destructiveness is merely one phase of the general mismanagement of him by his aunt.

If his sense of touch and intelligent interest in objects had been developed, he would probably not have been like this. My judgment is that when you make the change you are contemplating so that he has intelligent guidance, this trait will disappear.

He is not too young to have a simple tool like a hammer and large wire nails. Add to this some soft boards or blocks of wood to hammer into. My only other suggestion is that you be sure he has the right playthings for his age. This is very important. To help you with their selection I am enclosing a list of toys graded according to age. In addition I am sending my "Play Booklet," which contains short reading references on the importance of the right kind of play in a child's life. Also a leaflet containing some short reading suggestions on child management.

Bright Sayings of the Children

One day while driving through a slum district a mother was pointing out to her three children how fortunate they were, and how bad it would have been if they had to live in those dismal, terrible places. She said, "I do not want you ever to forget that."

They were all greatly impressed and the girls said they would never forget. Brother, aged 4, said, "Mother, will you write that all down for me?"

That was the finishing touch to the lecture. A. C. S.

Little Donna Lou, aged 2 years, in repeating grace with her daddy at the table, did not understand the final word, and instead of "Amen" said, "I mean it." N. D.

Food Talk.

"I want to try a pudding recipe that I have, but the directions advise that the pudding should be steamed. I have no steamer. Is there any other way of cooking this pudding as successfully as steaming?" writes Mrs. B. J.

Not many housewives possess real steamers. They devise their own. One arrangement is to put the food in a colander and place it in an ordinary saucepan with the bottom of the colander coming well above the water in the saucepan and the holes in the top of the colander coming not quite to the top of the saucepan. The colander should fit so well that it may be covered tightly to hold in the steam. A wire vegetable strainer may be used instead of the colander. Vegetables, such as potatoes, carrots, squash, and beets, may be successfully steamed in such a contrivance. Stale bread and cake and cold mashed potatoes may be made fresh and palatable by steaming.

Sometimes the cook does not have pudding molds that will fit well in a colander or strainer. So another kind of a steamer must be worked out. A waterless or fireless cooker is excellent for steaming foods. The food to be steamed should be put into molds with a tight fitting lid and placed on the upper rack of the cooker. The small amount of water in the bottom of the cooker supplies the steam.

Many foods like pudding and Boston Brown bread, which are always put into molds with close fitting lids do not have to be cooked in steam. The same results may be obtained by putting the molds into slowly boiling water. The time required for cooking will be the same as steaming, because the temperature of steam not under pressure is about the same as boiling water. Also, cooking in a double boiler is essentially the same as steaming. The pan containing the food is exposed to steam or boiling water. If a double boiler is used to steam foods no mold will be needed.

The pudding mixture may be poured into the upper part of the boiler which has been buttered or lined with waxed paper. Steam (the specified length of time. Cool thoroughly before removing the pudding from the pan.

Puddings may be baked as well as steamed. But the same recipe cannot be used for both baking and steaming. There is no loss of moisture in steaming and there is considerable loss in baking.

CREAM OF LIMA BEAN SOUP.

One cup lima beans, one small onion, two cups milk, two tablespoons butter, one cup water, one tablespoon flour, one bay leaf, salt, and pepper to taste. Slice the onion and brown in the butter; add the flour. Stir until smooth and brown. Add the water, bay leaf, and beans. Cook 20 minutes or until the beans are soft. Press through the sieve. Scald the milk, add the beans, and cook until thickened. Season and serve.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Misdirected Sympathy.

While I was waiting for an answer to a long distance call at our local exchange the manager, who is known as "the man of many tantrums," was again displaying his temper. I casually turned and made the remark to one of the operators that the fellow would set me nuts if I had to be around him long.

"O," she dryly remarked, "you would get used to him after being married to him twenty years!"

She was his wife! I canceled my call and beat it. A. J. F.

THE FINEST REASON IN THE WORLD

"My best reason for using PEBECO, the 'Iced' Dentifrice, is just this: I like it! I like its tang. I like its minty coolness. I know many tooth pastes do a pretty good job cleaning the teeth, but I find that only Pebeco leaves my mouth with that cool, pleasant sense of cleanliness. And, what's more, the taste convinces me my teeth are really clean." Have you given Pebeco a chance to make this your opinion?

A Friend in Need

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Jobless Nearly Two Years.

"I have been out of steady work for almost two years and have had only a few temporary jobs in that time. I used to have plenty of work and was a good salesman, but it is impossible to find anything now. During this time my clothing has become shabby and my shoes are all worn out. Do you think you could get me others? I wear size 39 in suit, 15 in shirts, and shoes, size 6 or 7.

This man is a most deserving person who is making every effort to secure employment and is willing to take anything, but is unable to do so. I think presentable clothing might improve his chances and raise his spirits a bit.

Between-meal fatigue is a signal to eat something sweet

Thousands of workers and shoppers overcome fatigue in mid-afternoon by eating food or drinking a beverage with sugar in it.

IT IS UNWISE to endure fatigue. For fatigue may develop into exhaustion, and when the system is in that state, it has virtually no resistance. Colds and other common ills are inevitable.

It is a good idea when you feel fatigued, to stop a moment and eat or drink something sweet. Such foods or beverages are quickly digested—the body is nourished, and the energy in the sugar is ready at once to give new vigor.

Appropriate sweet snacks can be had in soda fountain beverages, ice cream, candy and small cakes. For children coming home from school, sweetened and flavored milk shakes, also bread and butter sprinkled with sugar are recommended. Most foods are more delicious and nourishing with sugar. Work piled high, but she must go home!

A monthly occurrence! Her employer says nothing, and yet—

CAPABLE—she knows every detail of her work. Efficient—down to the very tips of her speeding fingers. Fully dependable—until a certain period every month. Then—good only to make excuses! But excuses do not halt the pains. Midol does.

Any woman who still submits meekly to the rule of the calendar should investigate the merits of these merciful tablets at once. They are as harmless as they look. You take them when your time comes, and you don't suffer. Or, if pains have started, they will subside in five to seven minutes. Midol never fails!

Specialists produced Midol for just one specific service—to end periodic suffering without harm. Without any hindrance to the normal periodic process. Midol is not a narcotic. So you may take it as often as there is need.

Over a million modern women who depend on this comfort avoid even one moment of periodic pain. Just say "Midol" to your druggist.

Relax... Tense "NERVES"

Don't Let Them Ruin Your Health and Happiness

Tense "NERVES" make you irritable, cranky and blue.

Tense "NERVES" play havoc with your sleep and rest.

Tense "NERVES" ruin your normal health and happiness.

Tense "NERVES" often steal your youth and charm.

This Harmless Effervescent Drink Quickly Quiets Overwrought "NERVES"

NERVOUS troubles are the most mysterious of our everyday ailments . . . quietly they creep upon us . . . suddenly they attack . . . and quickly shatter our normal poise and self-control. Then follow hectic days—frenzied, sleepless nights and hours of needless nervous agony.

Few people are free from these frequent attacks of "NERVES." Every day countless thousands of folks put an excess strain on their nervous systems. Then, when their keyed-up, tense "NERVES" refuse to relax—they turn to this pleasant, harmless Effervescent drink to get quick and effective relief.

Never Neglect "NERVES"

No longer need you endure aggravating attacks of "NERVES." When your "NERVES" are tense and all "on edge" . . . when they cause Headaches or Sleeplessness . . . when you feel one of those jumpy, nervous, irritable spells coming on—just drop a Dr. Miles' Effervescent NERVINE Tablet into a glass of water. Watch it bubble up like sparkling spring water; then drink it.

Quiet Your "NERVES" This Delightful Way

You will be delighted with the prompt way this pleasant, harmless drink soothes your "NERVES" relaxes nervous tension. The moment you drop an Effervescent NERVINE Tablet into a glass of water, it goes into swift bubbling action. Then take this pleasant Effervescent drink and soon your nervous tension relaxes. Your whole overwrought nervous system is soothed and calmed, and a welcome feeling of refreshing relief comes over you.

A Harmless Drink

There is nothing harmful about Effervescent NERVINE Tablets. They are the same time-tested Dr. Miles' NERVINE formula that has been used by nervous people for over 50 years—now combined with bicarbonate of soda* and citric acid and offered to you in handy Effervescent Tablet form. Thousands of nervous people have found delightful relief from nervous tension and nervous troubles in this pleasing Effervescent drink. Why don't you try it when "NERVES" bother you?

Liberal Trial Offer

To prove what satisfying relief Effervescent NERVINE Tablets give for Sleeplessness, Nervous Headache, Nervous Indigestion and most nervous troubles, we make you this liberal trial offer. Get a package at any drug store and try them. If you are not fully satisfied with the prompt relief they give—your druggist will gladly refund your money.

Large pkg. $1.00

*Note—

The reason Effervescent NERVINE Tablets give such prompt relief is that each tablet contains a liberal quantity of bicarbonate of soda and citric acid. These effervescent salts make an effective Anti-Acid, Alkalizing drink which corrects hyper-acidity, a frequent cause of nervousness.

DANDRUFF

A Sure Way to End It

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely, and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid Arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid Arvon at any drug store and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy never fails.

HAROLD TEEN—NOW LILACS WILL NEVER TAKE IT OFF

JOHN SCHNELLER, CAFE OPERATOR 48 YEARS, DEAD

Funeral services for John Schneller, who for forty-eight years conducted a restaurant at Wells and Ontario street, will be held at 2 p. m. today at the North Side Turner hall, Clark street and Chicago avenue. Burial will be in Rosehill cemetery.

Mr. Schneller, a native of Switzerland, was 76 years old. He came to Chicago shortly before the fire of 1871. His restaurant and bar were frequented by politicians and the place was known as one in which the laws were always strictly obeyed.

The death of Mr. Schneller occurred Sunday. According to his one surviving son, Melchoir Schneller, for many years superintendent of employment for Lincoln park, his father had been despondent since the death of his wife and of another son, Christian, a few months ago. The body will lie in state at the Turner hall for two hours before the services today.

Dr. G. F. Beasley, Railway Surgeon, '61 Vet, Dead; 90

Lafayette, Ind., March 11.—[Special.]—Dr. George F. Beasley, 90, former president of the National Association of Railway Surgeons and a civil war major who served in the Mississippi squadron in the lower Mississippi river aboard the steamer Blackhawk, died at his home here today. He was graduated from Rush Medical college in Chicago in 1863. He served as surgeon for all the railroads entering Lafayette for 50 years and practiced here 63 years. He was the last surviving member of the Loyal Legion, made up of civil war commissioned officers, in this vicinity.

William Crooks, Former Chicago Resident, Dead

William P. Crooks, formerly of Chicago, a brother of H. D. Crooks, president of the Crooks Terminal Warehouses, died yesterday at Colorado Springs after a prolonged illness. Mr. Crooks had been manager of the Crooks Terminal Warehouses at Kansas City for the last eight years. He is survived by his widow and four children and by his father and four brothers, who live in Chicago. Burial will take place at Kansas City on Saturday morning. Mr. Crooks was a veteran of the world war.

Brotherton, Commander of Ill Fated Mississippi, Dies

Laguna Beach, Cal., March 11.—(AP)—Capt. William B. Brotherton, 60, U. S. N., retired, who commanded the U. S. S. Mississippi when an explosion aboard that ship off San Pedro in June, 1924, took forty-eight lives, died tonight of heart disease. He was born in Racine, Wis. His widow and a sister, Gertrude, of Racine, survive.

Tired of Study; Boy Sets Fire to School Building

Marion, Ind., March 11.—(AP)—E. B. Shellhouse, a state arson investigator, said today Fred Bailey, 14 year old Marion schoolboy, had confessed setting fire to the Washington school building here because he didn't want to go to school any more.

Mrs. Elizabeth Silbersal, 65 years old, a widow, died yesterday in St. Joseph's hospital shortly after she had been found unconscious, supposedly from heart disease, in her home at 2038 Osgood street.

COMRADES OF 3 WARS PAY HONOR TO GEN. STUART

Vets and Soldiers at Final Rites.

Brig. Gen. James E. Stuart was buried in Forest Home cemetery yesterday with military honors and by military men who were his comrades in three major American wars.

It was a soldier's funeral. Most of the 3,000 mourners who filled every pew and all the standing space in the Warren Avenue Congregational church and overflowed into the slush and snowdrifts along Albany and Warren avenues were veterans of the Civil, Spanish-American or world wars.

The thinning ranks of Union soldiers were represented there by five white haired, unsteady men who fought with their dead comrade at the battles of Stone River and Lookout Mountain and marched in the same ranks with Sherman to the sea. These stood guard over the open casket while mourners passed by.

Medals Tell of Gallantry.

On a mound of flowers just above the coffin were arrayed the medals won by Gen. Stuart for gallantry in combat, among them a citation for valor by Gen. Rosencrans after the battle of Stone River.

The floral pieces banked about the pulpit bore the names of Gov. Emmerson, former Gov. Frank O. Lowden, veterans' organizations, and officials of the postoffice department, which Gen. Stuart served for many years as chief postal inspector of the Chicago district.

The Rev. James Alexander Jenkins, former chaplain of the old 2d regiment, reviewed the life that began 89 years ago in the Scotch hamlet of Forfar. Throughout that life, said Pastor Jenkins, Gen. Stuart had been always a good soldier, exemplifying all the soldierly virtues.

Pointing out the wide range of friends Gen. Stuart had made during his life of service to the government, the minister read two messages of condolence, one from Gov. Emmerson and another from a former clerk in the Chicago postoffice.

Troops Escort Body.

The body was escorted to the cemetery by two companies from the 132d infantry, led by Brig. Gen. John J. Garrity. A color guard preceded the casket, which was borne to the grave on a caisson drawn by a unit from the Black Horse troop.

Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, commander of the Sixth corps area, and his staff marched with the funeral cortège to Garfield Park. In the color guard various posts of the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars were represented. In all there were approximately 300 marchers.

Among the mourners were former Senator Deneen, Brig. Gen. Abel Davis, Maj. Gen. Milton J. Foreman, Col. Howard P. Savage, and Col. Ira Nelson Morris. Among the prominent Chicago women attending the funeral was Mrs. Jacob Bdur, and the list of honorary pallbearers included the names of many of the city's leaders.

The six active pallbearers were nephews of Gen. Stuart.

CASHIER OF BANK DIES.

Cambridge, Ill., March 11.—(AP)—Harry S. White, 57, cashier of the Farmers National bank, died at his home last night of pneumonia. The funeral will be held Friday.

BODIES OF GENERALS ARE LANDED IN U. S. BY ARMY TRANSPORT

New York, March 11.—[Special.]—The army transport St. Mihiel arrived at the army base in Brooklyn today bringing the bodies of Maj. Gen. George Leroy Irwin, formerly divisional commander of the Panama Canal department, and Lieut. Gen. Edgar B. Jadwin, U. S. A., retired.

Gen. Irwin died on Feb. 19 on board the liner Vergilio near Port of Spain, Trinidad. Gen. Jadwin died in Gorgas hospital, Panama City, on March 2, following an attack of apoplexy.

The body of Gen. Jadwin was lowered to a waiting hearse for removal to Washington, where burial will take place in Arlington cemetery.

Gen. Irwin, who cammanded Illinois, Wisconsin, and Michigan troops during the war, will be given a military funeral at West Point and buried there beside his father, the late Brig. Gen. B. J. D. Irwin. Services will be held in the chapel at the West Point cemetery at 3:30 p. m. Friday.

George W. Lewis, United Miners Official, Is Dead

CROWN EIGHT GOLDEN GLOVES CHAMPIONS

CARL REYNOLDS SIGNS WHITE SOX CONTRACT

Report He Will Get $15,000.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Antonio, Tex., March 11.—Holding out sometimes proves a profitable venture. It worked that way with Carl Reynolds, star hitter of the White Sox squad, who today consented to climb on the band wagon and participate in next summer's baseball parade. He will don his uniform for the first time tomorrow and that will leave Catcher Moe Berg the sole absentee.

CARL REYNOLDS.

Just what Reynolds gained by his complete disregard of a tendered $10,000 contract isn't known officially, because no announcement of details was made. However, from the usual source came the hint that last year's .359 hitter expressed satisfaction with everything as soon as the club raised the ante to $15,000. Last season he was given $8,500 of Charles Comiskey's money and this spring was staying away from camp because his $25,000 demand wasn't met. But the $8,500 was merely used as a wedge into a compromise, which was what is really expected would happen. The signing was handled by Business Manager Harry Grabiner.

Three Need Experience.

Bush intends to carry, for at least a month or two after the regular season gets under way, a half dozen outfielders and the same number of infielders. Johnny Watwood will be used as an outfielder, but in time probably will be needed for first base. The other fly chasers will be the three regulars, Jolley, Simons and Reynolds, with Eichrodt and Fothergill for emergency duty. The infielders probably will be Radcliff, Cissell, Mulleavy, Kamm, Appling, and Kerr.

The share distribution of talent will leave no room for Infielders Jeffries, Willingham, Ryan, and Goff or for Outfielder Finlater, who was a mate of Radcliff's at Selma, Ala., last season. The last three are obviously in need of more experience before reaching the peak of their ability. Of Jeffries there is some doubt. He hasn't received much attention as yet, but as the training progresses he might be a rather prominent candidate for the shortstop job. He hit .330 at Toledo last season and as he is fast on his feet he can't be completely discounted.

Bush plans to retain nine pitchers for the summer's campaign and it is not a difficult matter right now to select the probable survivors. About Lyons, Thomas, Caraway, Faber, McKain, and Braxton there is no doubt. That leaves three vacancies, of which Rhem and Frasier will take two. The other may be reserved for Johnny Schlaker, the coast semi-pro, who can be used for the daily batting practice. This arrangement would force Bob Holland, Ed O'Shaughnessy, and Lou Berber, Jr., into the minors for further development.

Today's drill was conducted under the hottest sun encountered thus far in conditioning here. The air was so sultry that Bush added almost an extra hour to the workout. It was made up of the usual hitting and infield workout on batted balls.

Drills First Basemen.

Bush also devoted some more attention to first base where he gave both Reynolds and Radcliff, his only candidates for the place, some needed instruction about the finer points of the position. Radcliff's failure to reveal anything better than ordinary ability is explained by soreness resulting from his strenuous exercises after a winter of idleness. However, the odds favor Reynolds for the job.

Owner Charles Comiskey, who watched the workout, ordered that the infield be given a thorough soaking tonight. He declared the ground was so hard that it wasn't fair to ask an infielder to try to pick up a bounding ball.

Old Uncle Wilbert Saves Another Baseball Player

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 11.—The dispatches from the Brooklyn Robins' igloo in Clearwater, Fla., where the boys have been working out with snowballs and, possibly, with high balls to keep their spirits up through the long arctic night, indicate that Uncle Wilbert Robinson has done another great salvage job in the case of Joe Shaute, the lefthand pitcher of the Cleveland Indians.

Joe came down with a headache in his throwing arm, which is what left hand pitchers think with, some time last summer, and the muscles presently became so limp that Joe was practically punch drunk in the arm.

Asks for Job.

This spring Shaute found himself unattached and, hearing that Uncle Wilbert needed a lefthand pitcher, and remembering some other miracles performed by Uncle Wilbert, he went to Clearwater and applied for a job. It was something like an old truck driving itself to the junk pile for Uncle Wilbert's daffiness boys as a rule are largely composed of junk thrown away by the master minds of other ball clubs.

After a trial the management offered Shaute a contract at a wage described as modest, and he was so glad to establish business relations with a pay roll and a club quartermaster again that he made a little address of gratitude about the generosity and fairness with which he had been treated. This is a speech which he may have cause to regret if he should have a good season with the Brooklyn daffiness boys this year. Some years ago, John McGraw performed a similar salvage job on one John Scott, who had been sold from the Braves to the Reds during the winter and reported to Pat Moran with a "Do not disturb" sign on his throwing arm.

Disturbs Mr. Moran.

Mr. Moran was quite upset about the deception which had been practiced on him, but the motto of the Boston club was David Harum's quaint old New England phrase "Do the other fellow and do him fust." So without troubling to examine Jack Scott as to his salvage possibilities, Mr. Moran threw a lot of salt cellars and old bottles at him and stoned him out of camp.

In a sad frame of mind, and with his cap in his hand, Mr. Scott appealed to McGraw for assistance and as they were talking it over, Mr. McGraw was astonished to notice a slight twitch in John Scott's arm.

"Did you feel what I saw?" Mr. McGraw inquired guardedly.

"I was wondering," Mr. Scott said, "if you saw what I felt."

"I saw it move," Mr. McGraw said, and Mr. Scott exclaimed:

"I felt it move."

"It was not dead but sleeping," Mr. McGraw yelled and rushed Mr. Scott's arm to the infirmary, where the trainer rubbed it with rubbing whisky and presently restored it to consciousness, not failing, in the meanwhile, to sign Mr. Scott to a contract at a wage described as modest.

Made World Series.

That autumn Scott pitched in a world series and on the night before his game he issued an official statement announcing his gratitude for the fairness and generosity with which he had been treated.

Well, a year or so after that, Mr. Scott was holding out for more wages, having been offered considerably more than the modest salary which he had regarded as so fair and generous not so long before. Whether he was an ingrate or the management was trying to collect the debt of gratitude, I do not know, but in the case of Mr. Shaute, I would suggest, that he issue another statement saying that his first one was exaggerated and distorted by the careless and irresponsible press and explaining that what he did say was that for the time being the terms are acceptable.

Uncle Wilbert's daffiness boys are quite likely to back into a world series next fall and if they should do this, what with the enlarged business capacity of the house of mirth where they play ball, Shaute will not wish to stand committed to a debt of gratitude.

It's Mystifying Business.

The revival of more or less defunct ball players in the company of Uncle Wilbert is a mystifying business. He has a strict house rule that no player shall be allowed to carry a flask onto the playing field, but shall leave same on the bench, but you would not call him a harsh disciplinarian for that. On the road everybody has to be in the hotel at night by 1 o'clock in the morning, but this rule is subject to

GRIFFITH TELLS OF BIG 10 FAITH IN IOWA LEADERS

Conference Is Satisfied with Lauer, Jessup.

University of Iowa authorities, including President Walter Jessup and Director of Athletics E. H. Lauer, again have the complete confidence of the western conference, Maj. John L. Griffith, athletic commissioner for the conference, told the special Iowa legislative committee yesterday at a hearing at the Sherman hotel.

After hearing the testimony of Maj. Griffith and Frederic Woodward, vice president of the University of Chicago, the committee ended its Chicago hearing and returned to Iowa to continue its deliberations.

All Complaints Rectified.

Maj. Griffith's statement was made at the start of his examination by Henry Walker, representative of the Iowa state board of education, in the afternoon session of the investigation.

"Does the conference, which ousted Iowa from its ranks and then reinstated it, now have complete confidence in President Jessup and Director Lauer?" Walker asked.

"Unquestionably, yes," replied Maj Griffith.

"Are you satisfied that all complaints against Iowa—the complaints that resulted in the university's ouster from the conference—have been rectified?"

"Yes."

"Is there any disposition on the part of the Big Ten schools to refuse to schedule football games with Iowa?"

"No, there is not."

"Would you say Iowa had a fair, representative Big Ten football schedule for 1931?"

"I would say it has a very good schedule, including a game with Northwestern, co-champion of 1930, with Purdue, champion of 1929, and other good teams."

Tells of "Warning Letter."

Walker then questioned Maj. Griffith about the so called "warning letter" he sent President Jessup on Dec. 6, 1927, in which the commissioner advised the Iowa president of the rumors afloat about rule violation.

In the letter, Maj. Griffith told President Jessup that he had been approached by several disgruntled Iowa alumni, who offered charges of rule violation. Maj. Griffith also advised President Jessup in that letter that he regarded the Iowa alumni more to blame for any bad condition than the Iowa authorities.

"I further told these men that in my judgment the University of Iowa alumni were more to blame for the agitation at Iowa today than the men at the head of the athletic offices," the letter read. "I know for a fact that in 1921, 1922, and 1923 the University of Iowa alumni raised a sum of money used to get athletes and that Aubrey Devine and other football stars were employed to go about the state soliciting athletic funds, and that the money was used in an illegitimate way."

KING OF BANTAMWEIGHTS

Golden Glove Crowd Cheers as Cermak Is Introduced

Anton Cermak, the Democratic candidate for mayor, was introduced just before the first championship Golden Gloves battle started. He had been an interested spectator at the ringside all through the semi-final struggles. The crowd gave him a mighty cheer. The big chief of the Democratic party remained at the ringside until the final Golden Glove had been awarded.

The heavyweight ranks were depleted somewhat when Don Beattie of Kokomo reported running a high temperature. The examining physicians refused to let him go on, so Adam Smith of Rockford drew a bye in the semi-finals.

There were other casualties. Ed Wade of Kid Howard's gymnasium had a swollen hand which the physicians refused to pass and he was eliminated before he had a chance to swing any leather. James Toman, who beat John Kaktus of Streator in the semi-finals, pulled up with a broken hand and will be out of competition for some time.

The New York News, aside from sending scouts to THE TRIBUNE'S finals, had a movie crew on the job. Movies were taken of all the championship bouts. They will be shown to the New York champions. They may scare or encourage the New Yorkers.

The hopes of Peoria, Milwaukee, South Bend, Rockford, and Streator to win the team trophy faded early in the semi-final round when the boys from these centers were bowled over one after another. Mayors from the different cities in Chicagoland were almost as numerous as fighters. Some of the mayors were down close to the ringside, a few had seats in the back row, and some of them, who arrived late, had to be content with standing room.

Referee Dave Barry no sooner had jumped into the ring than the big crowd began the famous "fourteen count." Dave smiled, waved back at the spectators, and then they gave him a cheer.

Quin Ryan gave a thrilling description of the tournament to thousands of listeners on WGN. Paul Gallico, sports editor of the New York News, also was on the air with the veteran TRIBUNE announcer telling a lot of New York listeners all about it.

Judges Joseph A. Sabath and Walter Steffen were ringsiders. They cheered just as loudly as any of the other 23,000 spectators.

The clock went on, ticktocking off the minutes. The hour became late, but the crowd, thrilled by the championship bouts, did not move an inch. There wasn't a vacant seat at 11:30. As the midnight hour neared the crowd lingered on. But when the show was over the throngs moved away from the Stadium without confusion. Twenty minutes after the last Golden Glove had been awarded the Stadium was as quiet as a country meetin' house where the parson had departed because the congregation was back on his pay.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Hail Chicago's Golden Glove champions of 1931!

Twenty-three thousand watched them win last night at the Stadium. But now it's on to New York and the fourth intercity tournament.

Last night Chicago appraised its amateur boxers, who, on March 30, will invade Madison Square Garden. And these lads, winners and runners-up—the 16 boys will meet New York's best—received the applause which marked them worthy to represent the west against the east.

Chicago Boys Have It.

Courage. Stamina. Skill. Chicago's boys have these qualifications, passports to fame in the ring.

Leo Rodak of South Chicago, the flyweight king. What courage to carry him, comparatively inexperienced, to a Golden Gloves Title! Rodak's first battle with Jimmy Eliopolus was the title battle, for Jimmy had been picked to win. But Rodak's jabbing left and advantage of reach brought him victory. And then he went on to whip Johnny Nato of South Bend. Johnny had replaced Frank Doxey on Monday when the Springfield boy had been barred for professionalism.

Nick Scialaba, the best of the bantamweights. There's a scrapper. Steadily plugging, with an excellent defense to match his attack, Nick hammered to the body to whip Billy Edwards of Fort Wayne and then Georgie Goodman. Goodman had taken the measure of Max Maker in his first battle.

Gonzales Comes Back.

Don Gonzales of Cleveland, the best of the featherweights. His courageous comeback against Tony Muscarello to win a four round knockout long will be remembered. Both are left handed and Tony whipped over a series of blows which floored Gonzales twice in the second round. All but out on his feet, staggering, Gonzales faced the storm until the end of the round.

Then Don came back to even the score by his third round rally. A fourth round was ordered. Bang! Tony went down for nine seconds. He tried to stay, but one more punch sent him down and out.

And the thousands sent a wave of

HENRYS DEFEAT DE PAUL, 27 TO 16, IN A. A. U. MEET

Kansas City, Mo., March 11.—(AP)—The Wichita Henrys, defending champions, used their experience and superior height to advance to the quarter finals of the annual National A. A. U. basketball tournament here tonight, defeating De Paul University of Chicago, 27 to 16.

The smooth passing university boys battled the Kansans throughout, but couldn't hit the basket. After once shooting at the hoop, they seldom could take the ball off the backboard from the taller champions.

At half time the Henrys led, 14 to 11. In the first game of the night the Los Angeles Athletic club easily disposed of the South Side Turners, of Indianapolis, 33 to 14.

The Kansas City Athletic club forged into the quarter finals by defeating Ottawa university, 25 to 20.

McGraw's First Baseball Tutor Is Dead in Iowa

Cedar Rapids, Ia., March 11.—[Special.]—James A. Plumb of Cedar Rapids, the man who taught John J. McGraw to play baseball, died in a hospital at Decorah today following an appendicitis operation. He was 77 years old.

Plumb, who came to this city in 1866 from Massachusetts, played sandlot baseball in the late sixties. On July 4, 1876, Plumb pitched a game against the Marshalltown club, which was owned by Capt. Anson's father. Years later he became manager of the Cedar Rapids club in the Illinois-Iowa league, and in 1891 McGraw appeared at the field and asked Plumb to give him a job.

sound which resounded to all corners of the Stadium.

Scotty Sylvano, the most underestimated boxer in the tournament, is the lightweight Golden Glove champion. He met George Holden of Geneva, a deadly puncher. But Scotty crossed a right to the jaw which spun Holden to the floor in round one and that was the margin of a three round decision.

Keenan Best of Welters.

George Keenan rules the welterweights. Jimmy Fontana, hampered by a badly cut eye, was unable to come out for the third round, and George stepped up for his Golden Glove.

Fred Caserio, although he did not scrap in the finals, is no less worthy of a championship. Jimmy Toman, the other finalist, could not continue in the tournament because of a broken hand.

Jack Kranz of Gary, the light heavyweight winner, came through to title honors by endurance and stamina.

And John Long of Gary, the heavyweight who upset Adam Smith's hopes of a Golden Gloves title. Don't forget him. It took him four rounds to conquer the Rockford baker, but Long kept hammering at Smith's body to pile up the winning points.

Twelve from Chicago Tournament.

All of the sixteen boxers who will represent the west against the east, except four, are from Chicago or fought through the Chicago sectional tournaments. Adam Smith, Rockford, and John Long, Gary, heavyweights; Jack Kranz, Gary light heavyweight, and Johnny Nate, South Bend flyweight, are the successful out of town fighters. Don Gonzales of Cleveland and George Holden, Geneva, qualified in Chicago sectionals.

The strain of the tournament is over. Chicago's amateurs have been on the Golden Gloves trail since Feb. 16 when the west side boys began their qualifying meet. Now, after a brief period of relaxation, the squad will commence preparations for New York.

The coaches today will select the eight alternates, one in each weight division. All of the boys report Sunday afternoon at the Illinois Athletic club, where they will be quartered until the special train leaves for New York on March 27.

All in all, Chicago's boys are worthy to meet New York's best in defense of the intercity championship.

Blow by Blow Account of Golden Gloves Finals—a Story with Plenty of Punch

112 POUND CLASS.

Leo Rodak, South Chicago Wheelmen, defeated Johnny Nate, South Bend, Ind. [3].

FIRST ROUND—Rodak was short with two lefts to the head and his right went over Nate's head. They traded blows to the body in the center of the ring with honors about even. Rodak scored with a left and a right to the face. Rodak was a bit wild with his right and took a jab to the face in return. They exchanged lefts to the head. Nate ducked under Rodak's right and they went into a clinch. They staged a furious exchange along the ropes. Rodak jabbed Nate back with several straight lefts to the face.

SECOND ROUND—Rodak brought blood from Johnny's nose with repeated jabs. Rodak forced Nate back around the ring. Nate connected with a left to the head and as Leo's countering right whizzed by his head he scored with a left hook to the body. They exchanged rights to the head and went into a clinch. Rodak again forced Johnny back into the ropes, where they pumped both hands to the body. Leo scored with a right to the head and followed with two more to the same place. Rodak drove in a hard right to the head and Nate went down for a count of three. Rodak followed up his advantage, but the bell rang, ending the round.

THIRD ROUND—Both swung hard rights which landed high on their heads. Johnny was exchanging blow for blow with Leo. both jabbed lefts to the face at the same time and both connected. Johnny's right found a mark on Rodak's body. Both appeared a bit tired and missed frequently. Rodak again had Johnny a bit wabbly from rights to the head, but the latter fought back gamely and traded blow for blow. They had another lively exchange along the ropes with Rodak having the best of it.

FIRST ROUND—Goodman started briskly at the bell, sending a sharp left and a right to the head. Scialaba retaliated with a stinging left hook to the head. Goodman forced Nick back with a series of lefts and rights to he head, but they were too high to do any damage. Scialaba pumped both hands to the midsection. Both were short with lefts to the head. Nick sent a sweeping left hook to the chin. Goodman's right only found an elbow for a mark, and Nick chased George back into the ropes, sending both hands to the body.

SECOND ROUND—Goodman opened the round with two rights to the head, but took one to the same spot in return. They staged a furious exchange with neither having an advantage. Nick was short with a right to the head, but scored with two shots to the chin. Goodman belted Nick with a stinging left hook to the body and they went into a clinch. Nick was short with a left to the head, but his right drew blood from George's nose. Scialaba pumped his hands to Goodman's stomach, forcing the latter to give way. Goodman landed a right high on Nick's forehead as the round ended.

THIRD ROUND—Goodman scored with a right to the ear. Again Goodman came in, this time his left going to the face and his right to the body, but he took several body blows in exchange. Both sent hard lefts and rights to the head. Nick drove a hard left hook to the body and followed with another one to the same spot. Goodman came back, both his hands landing on Nick's head. Both connected with lefts to the jaw, but Nick jarred Goodman a moment later with a sweeping right to the head.

126 POUND CLASS.

Don Gonzales, Cleveland, knocked out Tony Muscarello, Belle Plaine A. C. [4].

FIRST ROUND—The two southpaws went to work, pumping lefts to the body. Each scored with light blows to body and head. Don scored with a clean right jab to the head, but took several lefts to the body in return. They missed with right leads and went into a clinch. Tony connected with a long right jab to the nose, but Don pumped his hands to the body. Don sent a left hook to the head.

SECOND ROUND—Don sent a long left to the stomach. They traded rights to the head. Don drove Tony into a neutral corner and bombarded him with lefts to the head. At long range Tony shot both hands to the head. Don was high with a right and they traded shots to the stomach. Muscarello shot over a hard right to the head and Don went down for a count of one. As he got up Tony again sent him down, but Don was up immediately. Tony rushed Don into a corner, shooting hard lefts and rights to the head, and had Don in distress. Don, however, weathered the storm.

THIRD ROUND—Don sent two hard lefts to the head and Tony went back into the ropes staggering. Tony came right back and they traded punches to the head. Don scored with a left to the body and they clinched. Again Don connected to the ribs. Both were short with right jabs. Tony connected with a hard right to the chin, but took two lefts to the same location in return. Both were puffing, but fighting as hard as when they started.

FOURTH ROUND—They immediately recommenced their fast pace, both hands flailing. Don drove Tony back with both hands to the head. Don came on and shot a terrific left to the head, Tony taking a 9 count. As Tony rose, Don rushed him and sent him down again for the full count.

135 POUND CLASS.

Scotty Sylvano, Coulon's gym, defeated George Holden, Geneva, Ill.

FIRST ROUND—They came out cautiously. Scotty finally sent a stinging left to the face. Scotty forced Holden back into the ropes, but was unable to score effectively. Holden sent two lefts to the head, Holden rushed and Sylvano met him with a right to the button, upsetting the Geneva boy for a nine count. Holden arose and went into a lively exchange, but received the worst of it. Scotty scored with several hard rights to the face.

SECOND ROUND—They exchanged left jabs to the head. As Scotty came in, Holden connected with a hard left hook to the face. They traded body blows. Sylvano drove his right to the chest. Holden came back with two lefts to the jaw. Scotty's right went harmlessly by George's head and the latter countered with three lefts to the head. Scotty was short with a left and was met with a stinging right.

THIRD ROUND—Both missed knockout punches to the head. Sylvano came on in and staggered Holden with a right to the chin. They traded hard blows to the head with honors about even. They staggered each other with hard belts to the face. Holden shot in a left hook to the mouth. In close they socked each other merrily around the belt line. Scott's right went looping around Holden's neck as the round ended.

147 POUND CLASS.

George Keenan, Coulon's gym, stopped James Fontana, Bolton A. C. [3].

FIRST ROUND—Fontana shot in a right to the head. They exchanged lefts to the body and went in close to whale away with both hands to the stomach. Keenan shook Fontana with a stinging right to the head. Keenan kept his southpaw opponent back with lefts to the head. Fontana rushed Keenan back into the ropes, pumping both hands to the body. Keenan staggered Fontana into the ropes with a right hand bombardment.

SECOND ROUND—Fontana charged in, but was met with a stiff left to the eye. Fontana's roundhouse right missed by an inch. Keenan went in close and pounded his opponent on the head with stinging rights. Keenan shot over a hard right to the head, forcing Fontana to hold on. Keenan landed a hard right uppercut to the chin but took a left and a right to the same spot. Keenan landed hard blows to the head.

THIRD ROUND—Fontana was unable to answer the bell for the third round and Keenan was given credit for a technical knockout.

160 POUND CLASS.

Fred Caserio, Howard's gym, won by default over James Toman, Opal A. A.

175 POUND CLASS.

FOURTH ROUND—Kranz shot over three lefts to the face without a return. Monty shot over a left to the head. They traded blow for blow to the body. Kranz sent a left hook to the head. As Kranz rushed in Monty shook him with a right to the chin. Kranz staggered Monty with a right to the jaw. Monty came back with a right to the ear. They traded left jabs to the chin. Kranz shot in a right to the ear.

FIRST ROUND—Smith rushed Long back, shooting left hooks to the chin. They went in close, Adam taking a right to the jaw from his southpaw opponent. Smith shot in a right to the face at long range. Smith rushed in and was met with a left to the head. Smith was short with a right and took a left to the head. Smith also received a left to the stomach. Smith rushed Long back, connecting with both hands to the head. Smith was short with a right and was greeted with a return left.

THIRD ROUND—They exchanged both hands to the body. Long was wild with a left and took three rights to the head. Long's left found a mark on Adam's stomach. Adam rushed but Long danced away. Long jabbed with a right to the head and sent his left to the stomach.

FOURTH ROUND—They came out fast, trading hard blows to the body and head. Smith was trying hard, chasing Long back around the ring. Long's left hook landed on Smith's elbow. Smith got Long in a corner and shot both hands to the stomach. They traded rights to the head. After the break Long rushed Smith, scoring with a left to the head. They again exchanged hard lefts to the stomach. Long shot in a right to the head and took two body blows in return.

WORLD'S RECORD SET BY GOLDEN GLOVES THRONG

Final Bouts Draw 23,000 Fans and $45,000.

than all the professional fights since boxing was legalized in Illinois brought together Don Gonzales, the junior national champion from Cleveland, Ohio, and Tony Muscarello of the Belle Plaine A. C. of Chicago. Those who had watched Gonzales fight his way through a tough field at White City and through the tournament of champions at the Coliseum had labeled him the class of the meet.

Imagine the surprise when the north side Italian stepped out at the opening bell and cuffed Gonzales around the ears and head so decisively that the fans were on their feet shrieking themselves hoarse for the underdog.

Gonzales Is Floored.

Picture the excitement when Muscarello, working like his foe from a southpaw stance, floored the Cleveland boy for a count of three in the second round. Gonzales, game to the core, fought back with fiery sallies, but he was a badly whipped fighter when he went back to his corner.

It looked all over but the shouting when they came out for the final session, but Mascarello found a changed opponent. That brief intermission between rounds had revived the perfectly conditioned boy from the shore of Lake Erie. The first two rounds were like a rain aquall compared to the blizzard that followed. Gonzales, with flaming courage and an accurate left jab as weapons, swarmed all over the rapidly tiring Chicagoan to earn a draw at the end of the bout.

Mascarello the rest of the way was like an apprentice electrician trying to show Thomas Edison how to fix a broken fuse. The extra round ended abruptly with Referee Dave Barry counting ten over the fallen Chicagoan. A left to the body had put him down to stay. The tumult that followed Gonzales' victory was bedlam, nothing less.

Rodak Thrills Crowd.

Another boy who thrilled the crowd was frail looking Leo Rodak, representing the South Chicago Wheelam. He had to whip two of the toughest flyweights in the meet, Johnny Nate of South Bend, and James Eliopulos of Chicago, to win his Golden Glove. The fans liked the way Leo waged his fights. They admired his gambling instincts. They liked his way of taking three or four punches to get over ons that counted.

Rodak in his ring actions was not unlike Hack Wilson on the ball field. A single to Hack, as every one knows, is only a yawn. He will give anybody half a dozen singles for one home run.

Rodak is like that. He is one of these all or nothing fellows. Rodak didn't knock out his opponents but he belted them from rope to rope so vigorously there never was any doubt as to the ultimate result.

There were other thrills galore. You will read about them in other columns.

SMALLPOX HITS TWO RUNNERS ON PURDUE SQUAD

Lafayette, Ind., March 11.—[Special.] — Smallpox has invaded the ranks of the Purdue track squad and forced cancellation of Boilermaker tries in the Illinois relays this week-end. Although only two members of the squad, Carroll Odom, sprint star, and Victor Flinn, half miler, are afflicted, Purdue authorities decided to cancel all entries.

Odom was stricken with what was thought to be influenza last week at Madison, and went to his home in Kokomo.

ENGLEWOOD WINS FROM PHILLIPS, ENTERS FINAL

Englewood's lightweight basketball team yesterday won the south-side championship and earned a place in the City league finals by defeating Wendell Phillips, 24 to 17, at White City. Kelly led the victors with five field goals and two free throws.

South to Send Strong Team to Loyola Meet

Reports of the prowess of some of the teams entered in the national Catholic interscholastic basketball tournament indicate that De La Salle institute of Chicago is in for a strenuous session in defending its title when the eighth annual meet starts next Wednesday at Loyola university.

One of the favorite quintets will be the Bishop England High school of Charleston, S. C., which won not only the Catholic league title in its state, but also defeated the public school champion. The Bishops have been beaten only once this season, losing to Citadel college freshmen, whom they later defeated.

Minneapolis Team Strong.

Another strong team will be De La Salle of Minneapolis, which is undefeated. Its latest feat was to upset a Minneapolis city league all-star quintet Monday night, for their thirteenth straight win.

The east will have another outstanding entry in Augustinian academy of Carthage, N. Y., which won 21 in a row before being nosed out by the St. Lawrence university team. New York will be represented by two quintets, the other being St. Francis High of Athol Springs, N. Y., which won the Catholic title in the western portion of the state without a defeat.

St. Norbert Enters.

Another entry was announced yesterday, St. Norbert High school of West Depere, Wis. A representative of the northern part of the state was chosen rather than the runnerup in the tournament at Milwaukee, which qualified Campion academy of Prairie du Chien.

Forest Preserve Ski Tournament Called Off

The forest preserve ski meet, originally scheduled for Feb. 1 and later postponed indefinitely because of unfavorable weather conditions, was canceled yesterday. Caspar Olmen, national ski champion, and several European stars were to have competed.

6 Polo Teams Open Midwest Meet Tonight

Six teams will inaugurate the annual midwest championship tournament sponsored by the U. S. Indoor Polo association tonight, starting at 8 o'clock in the 124th field artillery arena at 52d street and Cottage Grove avenue. By the rules of the tourney, each of the trios may carry a team rating not to exceed four goals.

Of the aggregations that will battle for honors the 124th Field Artillery, North Shore Polo and Hunt club and Riding club have the greatest theoretical strength with four goals each. The National Guard entry will line up with Lieut. R. Mura, Lieut. L. Pachl, and Steve Hammond; North Shore Polo and Hunt club with Col. George F. Nixon, Leonard Florsheim Jr., and Col. George T. Langhorne; and the Riding club with John C. Bowers, Otis W. Coleman, and Dave Silberman.

Tonight's matches:

U. S. Army vs. 122d Field Artillery.
First Battalion, 124th Field Artillery vs. Riding club.
Fort Sheridan vs. North Shore Polo and Hunt club.

Northwest and South K. C. Cagers Clash Tomorrow

The second set of games in the series between the northwest and south end sections of the Knights of Columbus Basketball league to select three teams for the final round will be played tomorrow night at Fenger High school, 112th and Wallace streets. San Salvador vs. Santa Maria and Washington vs. Lafayette will make up the schedule.

ROOSEVELT says,
"Give Porto Rican Products a Chance."

"Porto Rico, a part of the United States, with a population of 1,600,000 American citizens, produces much that is valuable and useful. Our sugar, our fruit, both canned and fresh, our coffee, our vegetables, our hand embroidery, our needlework, and our tobacco, are all in my opinion of exceptional quality, and, of course, as Porto Rico is part of United States, all Porto Rican goods come into the United States duty free. I wish our fellow American citizens on the continent would give us a chance to prove the quality of these articles by trying them and seeing if they do not agree with me thereon. We will demonstrate our worth if you will give us a chance."

JURGES STARS AS CUB GOOFS AND VETS TIE, 7 TO 7

Rookie May Earn Job at Shortstop.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Avalon, Cal., March 11.—The Cub Regulars and Goofs played their 1931 farewell game on Catalina in such a way that no one's feelings were hurt. It was a crapshooting contest numerically. Each team made seven runs and the game was called at the end of eleven innings.

For eight innings the competition rated as the best endeavor of the season to date and the Goofs were leading, 7 to 1, as preparations were made to play the ninth inning. In the ninth the Goofs fell on Lynn Nelson for five runs and, inasmuch as their pitcher, Jakie May, hadn't allowed a hit in three innings he had worked, it seemed that the thing would end. 7 to 1 in favor of the Goofs. Suddenly, though, the Regulars' pride welled up and they hopped on Jake most unmercifully. Four singles, two doubles and Charley Grimm's triple scored six runs and tied the score.

May and Nelson both settled down for the next two innings and neither side threatened to break the tie, after which Manager Hornsby called it a day.

Mr. Jurges' Stock Rises.

The game, though it was mostly sentimental in character, being a farewell to the island, served the further purpose of building up the stock of Bill Jurges, whom Hornsby previously had proclaimed the "best infield prospect in the majors this spring." Inasmuch as Jurges is the only major league infield prospect Mr. Hornsby has seen this spring, camp observers had been slow in vessing Rogers in to Jurges ecstasies, mostly because Bill hit only .230 in the International league last year.

After today's game, however, the color here was full of "I told you so" comment, for Young Bill made four hits in his first four times at bat, the third of the series being a homer which tied the score at 1 to 1. In addition, the young man played brilliantly in the field and would have figured in two double plays instead of one but for the fact that Heathcote made a cold muff on the tail end of one of the efforts.

English May Go to Third.

If Jurges keeps going, as Hornsby predicts, it is held likely that English will be switched to third base and the rookie will take over the shortstop job as a regular. The possibility that Jurges can't hit major league pitching is the only thing that keeps the possibility of the infield shift from being a certainty, for on the fielding item the move would be a logical one at the outset.

Tomorrow morning the Cubs will take a few limbering up exercises, then will get busy gathering their luggage for the sailing at 3:45 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The bunch will be installed in the Los Angeles Biltmore at 7 o'clock tomorrow evening. The first Cub 1931 exhibition game on the mainland of the United States will be played Friday afternoon, against the Los Angeles club of the Coast league.

MICHIGAN FINDS TROUT COSTLY, BUT WORTH IT

BY BOB BECKER.

Statisticians frequently have a lot of fun with fishermen by showing them the high cost [per pound] of each fish which may be caught in a day with rod and line, but the cost experts should turn to the books of conservation departments to get some really big figures on fish and fishing. Instead of arriving at computations which show that each pound of trout caught on a northwood's trip costs a fellow $7 per pound, they can deal in hundreds of thousands of dollars by looking at the books of the conservation departments.

For example, it costs almost $400,000 to stock Michigan's 3,580 lakes and more than 5,000 miles of trout streams. But Michigan authorities figure that this investment in fish is a good one. It is money well spent, for its returns are reflected in an increased tourist traffic which leaves hundreds of thousands of dollars in the state, as well as fishing satisfaction and healthful recreation for 500,000 resident anglers.

Big Year for Fingerlings.

This year will be one of peak production in fingerling fish for Michigan waters, according to a recent statement from the chairman of the conservation commission. The commission believes it is a more practical plan to plant thousands of fingerlings rather than dump millions of fry in a lake. Working on this idea, the conservation department is planning to construct an elaborate chain of rearing ponds throughout the state. In these the small fry can be held and fed until they reach a reasonable size.

In a few years trout fishermen on Michigan streams will be able to catch some widely traveled brook trout because of the 5,000,000 eggs of this species recently imported from Montana, Colorado, Wisconsin, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island and Massachusetts. This great purchase has been placed in nine different hatcheries in the upper and lower peninsula.

Hatch Brown Trout, Too.

Michigan has had excellent success with these traveling trout eggs from both the east and the west. Purchases have had to be made outside of the state because it is impossible to get enough eggs from native wild stock. But the 5,000,000 brook trout eggs do not represent all of Michigan's stock for the streams. More than 5,000,000 brown trout eggs will be stripped from breeding fish and placed in the hatcheries.

Darkness Halts Best Ball Matches at Fortieth Hole

Miami, Fla., March 11.—(AP)—Deadlocked at the 40th hole as darkness fell tonight, the championship battle for the title of the international best ball matches, fought through a long day by the Gene Sarazen-Johnny Farrell and Willie MacFarlane-Wiffy Cox teams, was postponed until tomorrow by tournament officials. The scheduled 36 hole match, extended four holes, will be decided in 18 hole play at the Miami Country club.

BOSTON BRUINS PAY HAWKS LAST VISIT OF SEASON

Stanley Cup Favorites Invade Stadium Tonight.

The powerful Bruins of Boston will exhibit their wares before Chicago hockey fans for the last time this season tonight when they cross sticks with the Blackhawks at the Stadium. The Bruins are the favorites to win the Stanley cup in the National league playoffs.

It is doubtful if any team had a defensive trio the equal of Eddie Shore, George Owen, and Lionel Hitchman. Their net guardian, Tiny Thompson, last year won the George Vezina trophy, which is awarded yearly to the goalie adjudged of most service to his team.

In a poll just completed, 37 hockey writers unanimously selected Eddie Shore, the Boston dynamo, as the game's leading defense man. Eddie is not only a superman at breaking up the opponents' attack, but is the peer of all defense players when it comes to scoring or assisting a teammate. In this respect he is leading the league and the point total he is running up will probably establish a new season's record.

The Blackhawks are the only team on the circuit which seems at all bothersome to the Bruins. They have defeated the Bruins six times in a row on the Stadium ice and are in a fighting mood, for the New York Rangers are threatening their second place position. They are but a half game behind the Hawks. Chuck Gardiner has been selected by hockey writers as the season's outstanding netminder. Lineup:

BLACKHAWKS.		BRUINS.

New York, March 11.—[Special.]—Gus Sonnenberg, former heavyweight wrestling champion and Detroit and Dartmouth football star, will be married here tomorrow to Miss Marie Dorothy Elliott of Belmont, Mass. Sonnenberg, despite the proximity of his first adventure into matrimony, wrestled and won the main bout of the mat program at the 69th regiment armory here tonight from Pat MacGill, bulky Irishman.

Uncle Wilbert Saves Another Ball Player

Uncle Wilbert does not bother about teaching ball players to play ball, if only his idea that if they don't know how to play ball at the age at which they usually come to him they are too old to learn. Like Tex Rickard who, for several years thought of Gene Tunney, the champion of the A. E. F., as that feller Twombley, the champion of the R. A. F., he does not always familiarize himself with the correct names of his players. Dispatches from the igloo at Clearwater this spring reported that a new and impressive catcher by the name of Lombardi was "that guy Lumbago" to Uncle Wilbert.

Maybe Uncle Wilbert has some super kind of rubbing whisky which, rubbed into the arm of an elderly pitcher or poured into the ear of a particularly dumb outfielder, performs all these miracles of rejuvenation and elsewhere.

How He Got Them.

It was old Dazzy Vance in a turkey suit and he found Adolfo Luque under a board. Babe Herman, the outfielder who learned to catch fly balls in self-defense, just dropped in at the House of Mirth in Brooklyn on his way from some tri-county league league in New England to some week-end league in Tennessee, and was there two days before it dawned upon him that he had got off at the wrong station.

But Uncle Wilbert seems to like them dumb and last season the self-effacive outfielder was one of the best in the league, and, of course, for all strength, luck and effectiveness he just there was nobody in baseball to equal him. This year, Herman is asking not for $20,000 as against $15,000 bid, and, of course, he is well worth the money if only on account of the customers who will play to see Babe carom off his skull with a dull, pink sound and watch him pass the runners on base when he hits home runs.

Uncle Wilbert, of course, is an old man and for several years he and old Ben McKeever, one of the owners of the club, have been doing a lot of talking back and forth, but this seems to be strictly a two-handed grudge. Around the game, the players and the fans very bear no malice. It has been suggested that Uncle Wilbert and Ben McKeever ought to be tossed in a vat of beer together so that they will be compelled to drink one another out or drown. It would be a battle choice, with love contending.

H. D. PETTIBONE CAUTIONS LOCAL BUILDING MEN

Warns Against Unsound Promotions.

BY AL CHASE.

Several hundred builders, architects and material men who attended the third annual dinner of the Producers' Council club of Chicago last night at the Hotel La Salle were warned against unsound promotional syndicates by real estate scalpers by Holman D. Pettibone, vice president and trust officer of the Chicago Title and Trust company, who spoke on "Real Estate Financing." Although Mr. Pettibone painted a picture of the present building situation which was not particularly rosy, he hinted that better conditions might arrive rather unexpectedly in the residential field.

Mr. Pettibone paid his respects to unsound building schemes as follows: "If you members of the producers' council want to build a firm foundation of stability, keep away from participation in promotional projects which are not founded upon a recognized and responsible management. The real estate scalper [and by that I mean a man who with little or no investment promotes a large enterprise with the hope of passing the project along to some easy mark] in this type of construction ought to be kept permanently on the shelf.

Improvement May Come Suddenly.

"It is quite conceivable that with a slow improvement in general business conditions there may come upon us a rather sudden demand for increased residential accommodations," he said. "There are certain sections of the city which have great natural advantages and in these sections the first effects of the recovery will be felt. From these centers the demand should spread to the less desirable localities."

Mr. Pettibone predicted an increasing demand for detached houses and suggested that at some stage an organized campaign pointing out the advantages of building homes now may produce satisfactory results.

Mr. Pettibone stated that in the early fall of 1930 his organization thought they detected an increasing demand for accommodations in apartment houses. But this failed to materialize; instead there developed a sudden increase in delinquent rents, particularly in the better grade buildings.

What Analysis Shows.

"This was followed by declining occupancy ratios which still persist," he said. "A large group of buildings with which our company is familiar shows the following occupancy percentages as of Jan. 1, 1931:

Walkup apartment houses	78%
Fireproof multi-storied	81%
Hotels	70%
Average of these three types	78%

"The average occupancy of these buildings in January, 1930, was 5 per cent greater than at present. This same group of buildings includes a number of 100 per cent occupancy, but with reduced rent schedule. This group of buildings is a fair cross-section of the situation as a whole."

Mr. Pettibone said that an analysis of several hundred defaulted bond issues disclosed that while office buildings were only 5 per cent, commercial and industrial 8 per cent, apartment houses totaled 87 per cent.

He pointed out that good management is as important an essential to apartment projects as it is in the industrial field, but that this point often has been overlooked, to the sorrow of many a flat building owner and bond holder.

Advises Bond Holders.

"All competent bond holders committees have advised bond holders to keep their bonds," he said. "They have not thrown the mortgage properties on the market for sale at distressed prices. These policies should be continued until conditions are substantially better. In relatively few instances will bond holders receive less than fifty per cent of their original investment. In many cases no ultimate loss will fall on the bondholder who retains his investment until normal conditions obtain. The bulk of the defaulted first mortage issues will be between 50 and 90 per cent."

Mr. Pettibone stated that the Chicago Title and Trust company is entering its 54th year. "It has always been a buyer of mortgages; never a seller," he said. "We have not lost our affection for this type of investment. We are buying mortgages today in steadily increasing volume. Other trustees of large funds are doing likewise. We shall continue."

Louis La Beaume of St. Louis spoke on "Our Expanding Vocabulary." Howard L. Cheney, president of the Chicago chapter, A. I. A., was toastmaster. F. W. Maynard, president of the Producers' Council club of Chicago, was chairman of the meeting.

AMER. TOBACCO REPORTS 43% GAIN IN PROFIT

Westinghouse Shows 50% Shrinkage.

New York, March 11.—(AP)—Widely divergent trends in the tobacco and electrical appliance industries during the past year were shown today in the annual statements of the American Tobacco company and the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company.

American Tobacco showed the sharp increase of 43 per cent over 1929 in its report of net earnings for 1930, which established a new record for the company. On the other hand, Westinghouse showed a shrinkage of more than 50 per cent from 1929, reflecting both the slump in general business and the transfer of its radio manufacturing activity to Radio Corporation of America.

It was notable that American Tobacco substantially exceeded the profits of 1911, which included 11 months' profits of 15 companies which were split off from the parent company that year, when the Supreme court ordered its dissolution under the anti-trust law.

Net Is $43,345,370.

Net income for 1930 amounted to $43,345,370, which was $13,116,165 more than the 1929 results, and compared with $30,683,314 for 1911. As a result of the dissolution the reduced property cleared net of only $15,443,961 in 1912.

On the combined common and class B shares the 1930 net was equivalent to $3.36 a share, against $5.76, calculated on the same number of shares, in 1929. The company paid taxes to the federal government alone of more than $150,000,000 during the year.

The report indicated that in 1926, when George W. Hill became president, the company produced only 20.14 per cent of the cigarets made in the country, while in the past five years its production has grown to 38.16 per cent.

Equals $4.45 a Share.

Westinghouse's 1930 net income amounted to $11,881,705, equal to $4.45 a share preferred and common, and comparing with record net profits in 1929 of $27,062,611, or $10.15 a share.

Sales billed amounted to $130,283,-000, against $216,364,588 in the previous year. Unfilled orders on Dec. 31, 1930, amounted to $40,268,181, against $43,835,399 at the end of the previous year.

Increasing competition by passenger automobiles, commercial and private, and by air transportation, augmented by the general depression in business, combined to reduce passenger revenues of the St. Louis-San Francisco railroad in 1930, the annual report, issued today, said.

Consolidated net income was equal to $4.58 a share on the common stock, against $11.08 a share on the common in 1929. The figures, subject to audit, show a balance for the common after preferred dividends amounting to $3,672,692 for 1930, against $7,324,593 for the preceding year.

After common dividends there was a deficit of $2,562,531 for 1930, compared with a balance of $2,500,611 for 1929.

Directors of the company March 4 had postponed action on the quarterly dividend of $2 on the common, due April 1. The postponement resulted in considerable concern in financial circles, as directors declined to amplify their statement and bankers considered it unlikely that the board would hold another meeting before April 1, the usual rate for the quarterly payment. The last $2 quarterly payment was made Jan. 2.

PHILLIPS FIRM'S INCOME REFLECTS OIL DIFFICULTIES

The difficulties with which the oil industry had to wrest with in 1930 are mirrored in the results reported by the Phillips Petroleum company in its annual statement. The report of President Frank Phillips issued last night shows that the net earnings of the company slumped to $3,040,-000 last year from the preceding year's total of $13,312,591. The 1930 earnings are equivalent to 95 cents a share on the average of 3,213,232 shares outstanding during the period as compared with $5.39 a share on the 2,450,-000 shares in 1929.

Dividends paid out by the company totaled $6,444,400, which was $3,403,-000 in excess of earnings. Earned surplus at the close of the year stood at $20,655,743 against $34,059,513 on Dec. 31, 1929. The balance sheet showed current assets of $34,639,825 and current liabilities of $20,581,499. At the close of 1929 the company had current assets of $26,557,510 and current liabilities of $6,343,615. The directors omitted the regular dividend for the first quarter of 1931.

Kansas, Banner Wheat State, Ships 73% of Crop

Kansas is the largest wheat raising state in the country. It raised 200,000,000 bu last year, and up to March 1 had shipped 73 per cent from the farms against 80 per cent last year as indicated by the Kansas state report. On Jan. 1 farmers had almost 45,000,000 bu, and on March 1 they had 29,328,000 bu, or 15 per cent of last year's crop, compared with 17,949,-000 bu a year ago, and a five year average of 11,937,000 bu or 11.4 per cent. Marketings of wheat since Jan. 1 have been relatively small but large quantities have been fed to live stock. Farm supplies on Kansas farms March 1 were 17,256,000 bu, representing 16 per cent of the 1930 crop, compared with 32,041,000 bu or 30 per cent of the 1929 crop held a year ago.

New York Central Places Stock on $6 Yearly Basis

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 11.—The directors of the New York Central railroad today cut the dividend rate from $8 a year to $6 by declaring a regular quarterly payment of $1.50 a share. It was the first dividend reduction made by the road since April, 1911.

The directors issued a statement in which they ascribed the reduction to the decline in the company's traffic. The statement said:

"Railroad income depends on the volume of traffic and that is determined by the state of general business. During the last eighteen months business has been slack and there has been a corresponding falling off in passenger and freight revenues. This has meant less surplus income applicable to dividends.

"All reasonable economies are being made in cost of operations, and the board of directors of the New York Central feels that, while conditions continue as they are now, there also should be a reduction in the dividend from the rate paid the stockholders in recent more prosperous years.

When Trade Revives.

"When trade revives and there is a corresponding improvement in volume of traffic, it is to be expected that more satisfactory earnings will follow. The first things to be considered are the maintenance of service, the upkeep of the plant, and the protection of credit."

The New York Central capital stock had been on an $8 basis since Aug. 1, 1927. Prior to that the company had paid $7 a year since Aug. 1, 1923.

The reduction in the dividend rate of the New York Central comes the day after the sale by that company of the largest single piece of railroad financing in three years. The Central offered $75,000,000 4½ per cent refunding and improvement mortgage bonds at par yesterday morning. They all were sold in about two hours, bankers announced.

The New York Central, which handles a diversified traffic over one of the country's large systems, reported 1930 net income of $35,981,791, equal to $7.21 a share, compared with the 1929 total of $77,428,583, or $16.70 a share. Net operating income for January was $1,872,100, against $5,-609,582 in the first month of 1930.

The dividend cut announced by the New York Central is the first to be made by an eastern trunk line since April, 1921, when the Pennsylvania railroad reduced its annual rate from 6 per cent to 4 per cent. The trend of dividends of the railroads had been upward ever since the post-bellum depression in the early part of the last decade. Recently, however, several important roads have taken adverse dividend action.

Other Dividend Actions.

Directors of many smaller corporations engaged in various industries acted today to either reduce or omit dividend payments in their respective securities.

The board of Associated Apparel Industries announced a quarterly dividend of 33 1-3 cents a share in cash and 11-3 per cent in stock on the company's stock. The shares were previously on a $4 annual cash basis.

The first dividend omission by a utility this year was announced today when directors of General Water Works and Electric corporation voted to pass the quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share on the class A stock, due at this time. Directors of the Glen Alden Coal corporation announced today a quarterly dividend of $1 a share, placing the stock on a $4 annual rate, against $8 previously.

Consolidated Film Industries, Inc., has omitted the quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share on the common stock, due at this time, but declared the regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents on the preferred stock.

Sinclair Consolidated Oil corporation declares a dividend of 25 cents on the common stock. Quarterly dividends were 50 cents.

McGraw Electric company has declared a quarterly dividend of 25 cents. This places the stock on a $1 annual basis, against $2 previously. United Corporation of America has omitted the regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents on preference stock due at this time.

ESTIMATE CUTS OF FROM 11% TO 50% IN AUTO FREIGHT RATES

New York, March 11.—(AP)—Motor car manufacturers will be offered reductions in freight rates on automobiles ranging from 11 to 50 per cent, it was estimated in railroad circles today, through the new schedules that are expected to go into effect on April 20.

The slashing of freight rates on the products of the automobile industry, which was announced last week, is a move on the part of the carriers to meet the competition of other forms of transportation. They hope to regain a portion of the business that has been diverted to motor trucks and inland waterways, especially the great lakes.

The largest reductions will be made on automobiles shipped less than 500 miles from the originating point, as it is in this area that motor trucks and driveways have made the greatest inroads on the carriers' freight traffic.

The Wabash, Michigan Central, Pere Marquette, and Grand Trunk Western are the principal roads in Detroit and vicinity that will be most directly affected by the new rates. While sanguine as to the ultimate result of the rate cuts, carriers are understood to anticipate a loss of revenue at the start and expect that trucking companies that have become firmly established in transporting motorcars will reduce their rates in an effort to combat the new railroad schedules.

CONSOLIDATION URGED FOR SUGAR REFINING FIRMS

A carefully devised plan of consolidation of the sugar refining industry is urged by Earl D. Babst, chairman of the American Sugar Refining company, in the company's annual report, released yesterday.

The industry, he said, would benefit greatly from "consolidation such as since the war has been initiated recently in Canada."

"Sugar producers, cane and beet, in all fields would also benefit," Mr. Babst held. "The public could be fully protected by maintaining free competition by ample refining capacity."

The report of the company, a dominant factor in the sugar refining industry and an important Cuban producer, showed a balance of $5.57 a share for the common stock, against $7.77 for 1929. Earnings from operations were reported as $7,388,674, against $8,166,361 in 1929, and income from all sources of $8,165,883, against $9,339,952 in the preceding year. Surplus as of Dec. 31 stood at $22,043,495, against $21,735,529 at the end of 1929

Stock Ownership Is Not Involved in Utility Deal

Transfer of stock ownership was not involved in the deal made by the Central Public Service company with the Washington Light company, Alexandria Gas company, and the Washington Suburban Gas company, which distribute in the District of Columbia. The Central Public Service deal with these concerns and with the New York and Richmond Gas company involved only the transfer of management, it was stated yesterday by officials of the former company.

Midland Utilities Shows Gain in Net Earnings

Total 1930 income of the Midland Utilities company, subsidiary of the Midland United company, was announced yesterday as $5,812,455, compared with $5,807,311 in 1929. Net income was $4,616,108, against $4,560,769. Subsidiaries of the Midland Utilities company supply electric light and power, gas or transportation service to 218 communities in Indiana and in bordering territory in Ohio, Michigan, and Illinois.

PENNROAD COR. SHOWS NET INCOME FOR 1930; REVEALS HOLDINGS

Philadelphia, Pa., March 11.—(AP)—The annual statement of the Pennroad corporation, the investment concern affiliated with the Pennsylvania railroad, shows the next income for the calendar year of 1930 and credited to profit and loss was $4,468,764.

To this account has been credited $2,998,769, representing interest for prior years paid on adjustment mortgage bonds of the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton railroad, completing full payment of arrearages of interest on these bonds. This removes an obstacle to the payment of dividends on the stock of that company, the statement said.

The stock of the Pennroad corporation as of Dec. 31, last, consisted of 9,090,000 shares of common stock, without par value, carried in the balance sheet at $90,900,000. The capital surplus was $45,133,414, and the earned surplus $7,459,714. The corporation has no funded or current debt.

The list of securities owned by the corporation, as of Dec. 31, is attached to the statement. Among the stocks held are: Baltimore & Ohio, common, 500; Canton Company of Baltimore, common, 21,974; Chicago & North Western, common, 1,000; Detroit & Ironton railroad, common, 44,722; Detroit, Toledo & Ironton railroad, common, 64,994; preferred, 59,836; Kansas City Southern railway, common, 1,000; Lehigh Valley, common, 10,000; Missouri-Kansas-Texas, 7 per cent preferred, 4,500; National Freight company, common, 120,000; New York, New Haven & Hartford, common, 148,-800; preferred, 1,200; Pennroad corporation voting trust certificates, 71,-784; Pittsburgh & West Virginia, common, 223,530; Raritan River railroad, common, 4,485; Seaboard Air Line, common, 402,119; Southern Pacific, common, 500; Southern railway, common, 10,000; Springfield Suburban railroad, common, 5,100.

KEITH-ORPHEUM REPORTS 1930 NET OF $1,360,725

Keith-Albee-Orpheum corporation and subsidiaries report for the year ended Dec. 31, 1930, net profit of $1,360,725, after depreciation, amortization, interest, federal taxes and subsidiary preferred dividends, equivalent after 7 per cent preferred dividends, to 75 cents a share on 1,307,312 no par shares of common stock.

The above earnings include profit of $810,000 on Radio-Keith-Orpheum corporation stock sold to Radio-Keith-Orpheum corporation. In the preceding year the net loss, including $525,035 profit on the sale of investments and leaseholds was $2,362.

Orpheum Circuit, Inc., and subsidiaries report for the same period net profit of $402,479, after interest, depreciation, federal taxes, etc., equal to $6.30 a share on the 63,840 shares of 8 per cent preferred stock. This compares with $142,230 or $2.23 a share on the preferred in 1929.

Kroger Grocery February Sales Total $19,520,356

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 11.—Sales of the Kroger Grocery and Baking company for the four weeks ended Feb. 28, amounted to $19,520,356, compared with $20,484,135 for the four weeks ended March 1, 1930.

Transamerica Corp. Earns $18,538,369 in Last Year

New York, March 11.—(AP)—The annual report of Transamerica corporation shows the consolidated net profit of the corporation and its subsidiaries, 95 per cent or more controlled, was $18,537,369 last year. The number of stockholders increased in 1930 from 165,900 to 217,567. This growth, the report said, placed the corporation among the five in America having upward of 200,000 stockholders.

Container Corp. Reports Net as Control Fight Looms

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The Container Corporation of America, over which a proxy fight for control is brewing, last night issued its 1930 report. The report, which had been the subject of controversy, stated that the company earned net profit of $105,187 last year. During the year the company paid out $586,071 in dividends on the preferred and class A stock, leaving a deficit of $480,904 for the period. In 1929 the company earned net profit of $1,205,931.

The report was issued by President Walter P. Paepcke. It was Mr. Paepcke's policies and those of the executive committee which were challenged by John P. Brunt, executive vice president, in a letter sent to stockholders several days ago.

Solicits Proxies.

Mr. Brunt charged that the president and the executive committee were pursuing business policies that had adversely affected earnings and market prices of the company's stocks. Mr. Brunt is now soliciting proxies in an effort to elect a new board of directors at the forthcoming annual meeting which is scheduled for March 26.

President Paepcke in his letter to stockholders accompanying the report says that because of the unsatisfactory prices and volume in the last two months of the year profitable operation was impossible.

"Earnings of the corporation were fairly satisfactory during the first ten months of the year, considering general business conditions and, particularly, the very acute competitive situation in the paperboard and container industry," he states.

Expenditures for repairs and maintenance were generous, amounting to over $500,000 for the year, he points out. Depreciation charges amounted to $826,447, against $748,584.

The consolidated balance sheet of the company as of Dec. 31 lists current assets of $4,029,979 and current liabilities of $1,031,119. Common stock held in the treasury stood at $430,452, which includes 22,873 shares of common at $428,967 and 5,900 shares of B stock at $51,485. The company had no treasury stock at the close of 1929. Total assets stood at $25,782,851, against $23,353,756 at the end of 1929.

CHICAGO STOCKS WEAKEN

The dull trading on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday was marked by a general easing in prices. Sales fell off to around 120,000 shares from the previous day's total of 210,000 shares, Motor accessory shares sagged moderately. Borg Warner was heavy following the publication of its annual earnings report.

Utility stocks shared in the weakness with fractional losses prevailing in the group. Unit corporation dropped from its previous price of 8 to 5¼ on news of the omission of the quarterly dividend. The issue recovered all but a fraction of its loss before the trading ended, however.

MOTOR TRUCKS' COMPETITION IS CITED TO I. C. C.

Washington, D. C., March 11.—(AP)—The interstate commerce commission was told today that motor truck competition has seriously affected older forms of transportation in and around Chicago in the last few years.

In hearings on the present status of highway transport service Charles E. Thompson, vice president of the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee electric line, said inroads had been made upon the business of rail carriers and shipping companies.

"During the last four years the competition has grown acute," he said, "and the unregulated truck services have cut rates below rail levels. Most of the lake boat lines engaged in freight service from Chicago to Wisconsin points are in the hands of receivers. The North Shore line recognizes that truck service has a distinct place in the transportation field, but at least it should be regulated."

Railroad Earnings for February Show Decline

February net operating income of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad is estimated at $1,594,000, a decrease of approximately 45 per cent from the $2,879,518 reported for the like month of 1930. According to preliminary estimates, Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad February gross reventies will be about $8,600,000, as compared with $10,974,-034 for February, 1930. The net railway operating income will be about $411,000, as compared with $1,161,286 for February, 1930.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 11.—An overplus of adverse dividend news coupled with a growing reluctance of the public to follow the professional boosters proved too much for the stock market today. Prices broke 1 to 7 points and more throughout the list and the close found a sizable array of the victims resting on new bottoms for the year. Trading was at a somewhat slower pace than yesterday, the turnover approximating only about 2,600,000 shares.

Money market conditions were a trifle easier, the call rate dropping to 1½ per cent, its old level, after renewing at 2 per cent. Funds were to be had outside the exchange during the afternoon at 1¼ per cent and four months' time money gave up the one-eighth recently put on the rate.

Railroad stocks were the weakest section of the share market, due primarily to the reduction of the New York Central dividend rate from an $8 to a $6 basis. Wall street was inclined to read into this action of the railroad's directors evidence of some lack of confidence in the outlook for any immediate change in the railroad picture as viewed in banking circles affiliated with the road.

Believed a Fixture.

The street has been hearing for several days that the board might not be able to maintain the rate, but the suggestion of a reduction was generally waved aside as one of those things which simply don't happen. The rate had been in force since 1927 and had popularly come to be regarded as something of a fixture. So solid was this popular confidence in the road, that the stock actually advanced about

THE CHASE NATIONAL BANK OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK, Trustee

For further information regarding the System and this issue of certificates, reference is made to a letter dated March 10, 1931, from Max Epstein, Esq., Chairman of the Board of the General American Tank Car Corporation (New York), copies of which may be obtained from the undersigned and from which the following is quoted:

"There will be transferred to the Trustee under the Equipment Trust agreement, 562 refrigerator cars to be constructed and 5,438 refrigerator cars to be acquired from Swift and Company.

Pending the delivery of equipment, cash equal to the principal amount of the certificates is to be deposited with the Trustee, such cash to be withdrawn from time to time as equipment is delivered, to an amount not exceeding 75% of the cost of the new equipment, or 75% of the average value, as appraised by Ford, Bacon & Davis, Inc., of other equipment.

General American Tank Car Corporation and its subsidiaries are engaged in the business of manufacturing, owning and leasing refrigerator cars, tank cars and other similar equipment. The consolidated balance sheet of the Corporation and its subsidiaries as of December 31, 1930, as audited by Messrs. Ernst & Ernst, shows current assets of $13,928,123.47, as against current liabilities of $3,317,452.78. The Corporation and its subsidiaries had at that date no outstanding funded debt, other than $29,697,384.65; principal amount of equipment obligations. There is no bank debt. $6,340,000, principal amount, of Ten-Year 5% Unsecured Notes of General American Transportation System, Inc., are to be issued in connection with the acquisition of cars from Swift and Company. Consolidated earnings available for interest (after depreciation, but before Federal income taxes) and such interest charges for the past four years have been as follows:

Year	Earnings Available for Interest	Interest Charges
1927	$3,849,269	$ 673,961
1928	4,988,815	782,278
1929	6,784,767	710,026

Dividends on this issue of $9,690,000 4½% Equipment Trust Certificates and interest on the $6,340,000 Ten-Year 5% Unsecured Notes will increase fixed charges by approximately $753,000 per annum (decreasing as certificates mature and are paid). Earnings from the cars to be acquired as herein stated, based on past operations, should greatly exceed these additional charges.

General American Tank Car Corporation (New York) has outstanding 818,833 shares of common stock without par value, having a present market value in excess of $56,000,000. Dividends of $4 a share in cash and 4% in stock were paid in 1930."

The undersigned offer the above Certificates, subject to prior sale, as follows:

Maturity March 1	Price plus Accrued Dividends	Approx. Yield	Maturity March 1	Price plus Accrued Dividends	Approx. Yield	Maturity March 1	Price plus Accrued Dividends	Approx. Yield

An average price for equal amounts of all maturities of 97.98% and accrued dividends, being an average yield of 4.82%.

The above certificates are offered if, when and as issued and received by the undersigned and subject to the approval by their counsel of all legal proceedings in connection with the issue, sale and guaranty thereof. Temporary certificates will be delivered against payment in New York funds for certificates allotted, which temporary certificates will be exchangeable for permanent certificates when prepared.

Receipts yesterday, 30,500; average, $8.50.
Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 6,000; hogs, 23,000; sheep, 15,000.

Live stock markets were extremely erratic yesterday, with most uneven-ness noted in hogs and lambs. The latter opened strong to 25c higher, but weakened rapidly and finished 15@25c under the general selling the previous day.

Top light hogs lost only 5c of the recent sharp gain, while medium and heavy hogs dropped 30@50c, pulling the general average for the day down 35c at $7.50. Best cattle were barely steady, while cheaper grades were stronger and in some instances sold to better advantage.

Range of hog prices reached the widest point in three weeks, the top and average standing 80c apart, against a spread of only 35c the middle of last week. Fancy 130@200 lb. averages reached $8.30, the top of the price list, while several large droves of 290@325 lb. butchers were put up at $7.00@7.20.

At the low time of the season top light hogs sold at $7.25 and 290@325 lb. butchers brought $6.20@6.35. Eastern demand for 140@250 lb. averages continues good, but local interests are bearing down wherever possible in an effort to erase some of the sharp gains scored during the last few days.

Today's Hogs Bid $8.10.

Lightweight hogs for today's delivery were bid $8.10 on the to arrive market yesterday. Mediums were bid $7.50 and heavy $7.00. May light were offered at $8.75 and bid $8.50, while April light were offered at $8.65. September light were bid $8.50 and offered at $9.25. Heavy grades for next September delivery were highest on the list, with bids at $8.35 and offers at $9.25.

Yearlings came to the front in the cattle market, and stock averaging under 1,000 lbs. headed the price list, for the first time in recent weeks. Demand centered on lightest weights, even cheaper grades of cows and heifers averaging 500@900 lbs. coming under the competition, due to the shortage in the supply of light steers.

Top Lambs Bring $9.50.

Several carloads of lightweight lambs to city butchers and shippers reached $9.50 on the early bulge of the market, when most 80@90 lb. averages sold at strong to 25c higher prices. The bulk of medium and weighty lambs went into the afternoon trade, when larger packers refused to follow the advance, and finally changed hands at the reduction.

Supplies were held down, the total at 10,000 comparing with 17,759 a year ago and with 14,778 two years ago. For the first time in six weeks salesmen succeeded in forcing the extreme top on lambs on Wednesday above the Tuesday level of the same week. Aged sheep and yearlings were steady.

PRODUCE MARKETS

Spot butter was in demand and prices ¼c higher. Receipts 4,682 tubs. Fresh eggs sold readily, with prices unchanged. Receipts 20,000 cases. Live lightweight hens advanced 2c, with heavy hens and leghorns 1¼c higher. Other poultry was unchanged. Receipts, 3 cars and 19 trucks. Potatoes firm, with a fair demand. Receipts, 112 cars, with 278 cars on team track.

OUTLINES PLANS TO STEADY PRICES FOR LIVE STOCK

A program to stabilize the market prices of live stock was described in Chicago yesterday by officials of the National Live Stock Marketing association, which is sponsored by the federal farm board. They spoke at the first annual meeting of this cooperative organization whose stockholders now market more than a tenth of all meat animals in the nation.

The stabilization plan will not follow the methods of the farm board in wheat or cotton. The live stock plan, according to C. B. Denman, the farm board's representative, is to secure a sufficient volume of farm business for the cooperative to enable it to regulate the flow of animals to market. By controlling distribution to all markets, the association can telegraph its 20 member agencies at the opening of each day's markets where their shipments should go to meet favorable demand and avoid price fluctuations due to lack of information by shippers.

P. O. Wilson, secretary, announced that the agency's members handled nearly seven million head of live stock in 1930, representing a valuation of $151,800,480. An objection was voiced by the officials that the government funds were loaned on a call basis, which they indicated might handicap the association, since "any change in government may bring new policies not as friendly as those existing at present."

WHEAT TRADERS ADOPT WATCHFUL WAITING POLICY

Grain Prices Move Within Narrow Limits.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Wheat traders appear to have adopted a watchful waiting policy and prices are now fluctuating in an erratic manner within relatively narrow limits. This condition has developed in foreign as well as in American markets and, while the general run of the news is regarded by commission houses and the professional element as favorable for a lower range of values, the breaks of late have been followed by quick rallies.

So far this week July wheat in Chicago has held within a range of 1¾c, although during that period the government estimate on farm reserves given to the trade showed the largest holding since 1921, and the snowstorm removed apprehension of dryness over the winter wheat belt.

Support Is Lacking.

Scattered selling of September wheat at the opening yesterday found support lacking and the price dipped fractionally to 63¼c, equaling the inside figure of the season, but when shorts tried to cover they found little for sale and caused a rally of 1¾c from the inside figure, with the close at the top at 64¾c@64½c. July finished at 64½@64¾c, net gains being ½@¾c. March acted a little tight and gained ¼c to finish at 79½c, while May was practically unchanged at 81¼@81¾c.

There has also been more or less moisture received in the Canadian northwest in the last few days, relieving apprehension as to surface moisture for spring seeding. Winnipeg, however, rallied after an early dip and closed ½@¾c higher, with July at 62¼c, while Buenos Aires gained ½@¾c for the day, with May at 51¾c, an advance of ¼c in the exchange rate being a factor in the latter market.

Europe continues to send bearish crop comments on wheat except from France, and is taking cash grain on a hand to mouth scale, although it is known that domestic supplies in France, Germany, and Italy are small. Liverpool reported some pressure of Argentine wheat and finished ½@¾d lower, with a lack of demand, July being 64¾c, or about 3½c over Winnipeg at the time the former closed.

Country offerings of cash corn are small and, while the eastern shipping demand has shown little improvement, a firmer undertone has developed in the cash market, due to the limited arrivals. The basis yesterday was steady to ¼c higher and had some effect on futures, which declined fractionally early on scattered selling, only to rally around 1c from the inside figures and close with March unchanged at 61¾c, while the deferred deliveries were ½@¾c higher. May finished at 64½c; July, 67½c, and September, 66¾@67c.

Corn Trade Is Local.

Trade in corn was largely of a local character, with sentiment mixed, and selling against offers was sufficient to check the advance. While there appears to be little or no chance of export business in domestic grain, owing to the high prices as compared with other countries, cables were received claiming that the bulk of the old Argentine crop was unfit for export, while the March delivery at Buenos Aires has developed congestion and closed 1¾c higher for the day at 37½c, with the May ¼c higher at 33½c.

Oats prices held within narrow limits, commission houses being on both sides of the market on a moderate scale, and the finish was ½@¾c higher, with March, 29¾c; May, 32c, and July, 32¾c. Some damage was reported to the new crop in Oklahoma as the result of recent low temperatures.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, March 11.—(AP)—There was a little more activity in raw sugar today, but the demand came principally from operators. Prices advanced another 1-16 of a cent to the basis of 3.30c for spots, duty paid.

After opening 1 to 3 points higher on the firmer spot market futures showed a further gain in some positions, but near the close reacted partially, with final prices unchanged to 2 points higher. Prices follow:

	Rlzr.	Low.	Close.	Prev. close.
May	10.75	10.60	10.70	10.65@10.66
Sept.	12.40	12.10	12.30	12.01@12.10
Dec.	13.40	13.20	13.33@13.35	13.10@13.20

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, March 11.—(AP)—COTTONSEED OIL—Was quiet and somewhat unsettled today, but developed a somewhat steadier tone late in the session due to a little covering in advance of the consumption figures which will be issued at 10 a. m. tomorrow. Firmness in crude oil and a report that 100 drums of tallow had sold at 3½c, an advance of ¼c, were also factors, offsetting easiness in lards, lard, and cotton. Closing prices were not unchanged to 18 points higher.

Sales were 1,350 bris. Prime crude, 6.62½c; prime summer yellow spot, 7.50c; March closed 7.60c, May 7.80c, July 7.92c, September 8.00c.

COTTON OFF 10 POINTS

Buyers of cotton had the advantage of getting it at lower prices yesterday. Cables were off fairly, which induced a little buying of spots in Liverpool, with final sales 8,000 bales. Buying at no time was heavy, despite the fact that prices are off around 70 points, equal to $3.50 a bale from the recent high level.

At the close losses on futures in Chicago were from 9@18 points, while other markets off 10@15 points. Spots declined 15 points in New York to 10.70c. New Orleans was off 10 points to 10.40c, with Galveston, 10.65c, and Houston, 10.60c. Prices follow:

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET·NEWS

Bearish news and sentiment in grains is not being reflected in the market's action, and traders are more afraid of pressing sales on breaks. There is nothing in the character of the news to impress buyers and the market is drifting along with a comparatively stronger undertone to wheat and corn.

A bullish construction is put on the government report on farm reserves by Warren Danley of Rice & Co. The 9 surplus corn states have reserves 25 per cent smaller than a year ago, compared with a shortage of only 19 per cent at the beginning of the season. In other words the relative shortage in the corn belt proper is now 25 per cent greater than it was last November. He believes the indicated necessity of important further curtailment in consumption insures a considerable advance from the prevailing depressed price level.

More Than 23,000 Persons Pack the Chicago Stadium to Capacity at Golden Gloves Boxing Tournament

SCENE IN THE CHICAGO STADIUM LAST NIGHT, WHEN EVERY SEAT WAS FILLED BY THE GREAT CROWD WHICH TURNED OUT TO WITNESS THE TWO FINAL ROUNDS OF BOUTS IN GOLDEN GLOVES TOURNAMENT. The largest crowd that has ever attended an indoor boxing exhibition was on hand last night when the boys who will represent Chicago at the intersectional tournament which will be held at the Madison Square Garden on March 30 were chosen by the process of elimination. Champions and runnersup were picked in eight boxing divisions, and the winners will constitute the Chicago team which will go to New York. Gate receipts were estimated at $45,000 in spite of the low rates at which tickets were sold.
